Contents of this Report

Appendix I-1: Introduction (301-303)

Describes the methodology used to collect and analyze (code) all the correspondence received and summarizes the distribution of comments by code, of which there are ten.

Appendix I-2: NPS Responses by Code (304-315)

This section is a table of the ten codes with “Concern Statements” formulated by NPS which summarize the sentiments or concerns of that particular code; examples of public comments made and the NPS response to all comments made under that code.

Appendix I-3: Form Letters Received (316-339)

This section includes all twelve form letters received by NPS, with an indication of how many were received and provides a response.

Appendix I-4: Agency Correspondences Received (340-349)

This section includes all correspondence from agencies and NPS responses.

Appendix I-5: Non-Form Letter Correspondence Received (350-540)

This section includes all correspondence received that was neither a form letter nor an agency letter and includes the oral testimonies given in the public hearing held March 10, 2008 and the items submitted as part of those testimonies. The correspondences were coded; the reader should refer to Appendix I-2 to see NPS responses by code.

Appendix I-6: Table of All Commenters in Alphabetical Order (541-655)

This section is a table listing all who commented (unless privacy was requested). A correspondence identification number was given to each correspondence submitted no matter what form it was submitted in (fax, mail, e-mail, PEPC or hearing testimony) with an indication of whether it was a form letter. This allows the reader to find any correspondence in its entirety in Appendices I-3, 4 and 5.

Appendix I-1: Draft GMP Comment Response Report

Summary

Introduction

This Comment Response Report summarizes public comments received during the 60-day public comment period held January 16 to March, 18, 2008 on the Governors Island Draft General Management Plan (GMP) and Environmental Impact Statement (EIS).

The EIS and the public involvement process follow the requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). Comments fall into two categories: substantive and non-substantive.

Substantive Comments:

Comments that do one or more of the following:

- a. question, with reasonable basis, the accuracy of information in the EIS;
- b. question, with reasonable basis, the adequacy of environmental analysis;
- c. present reasonable alternatives other than those presented in the EIS;
- d. cause changes or revisions in the proposal.

In other words, they raise, debate, or question a point of fact or policy.

Non-Substantive Comments:

Comments in favor of or against the proposed action or alternatives; that only agree or disagree with NPS policy; and that are incoherent and/or non-specific are considered non-substantive.

While many comments received could technically be in the non-substantive category (those coded 00001 and HEAR01), NPS only included those that were clearly non-specific and/or incoherent.

Methodology

1. The Planning, Environment and Public Comment (PEPC) National Park Service website was used to collect, enter, manage and code all the correspondence received during the public comment period. A correspondence is the entire document received from a commenter. It can be in the form of a letter, e-mail, comment form, hearing transcript, or petition.
2. Comments are individual statements taken from a correspondence; they are specific concerns, sentiments, requests or ideas. Each correspondence received was numbered in PEPC. All comments within each correspondence were assigned a code. A correspondence can have multiple comments.
3. Not all comments are listed here; only random examples are given to illustrate each category.
4. "Concern statements" were formulated to summarize the overall sentiment(s) of each code.
5. The hearing testimonies (codes that begin with "HEAR"), faxed and mailed correspondence and the comment forms from the open house have been entered and given a correspondence number in PEPC and have been coded.

6. Names from faxed and mailed correspondences were first looked up in PEPC. If the same letter had already been submitted in PEPC, a handwritten note was made on the mailed or faxed item to indicate the PEPC correspondence number (i.e. same as correspondence #xxxx), otherwise it was entered in as a new correspondence in PEPC and coded.

Summary of Public Correspondence

- Total number of correspondences: 6341
- Total number of form letters: 6024; total number of non-form letters: 317

| | TOTAL | | 6443 | 100% |

The public comment period was from January 16th, 2008 to March 18th, 2008. There was a total of 6,341 correspondences received through the Public, Environment and Public Comment (PEPC) website, mail, fax, e-mail, the open house held on February 27th and the public hearing held on March 10th.

The majority of correspondences received, 98.7%, were through the PEPC site; 95% were form letters.

Approximately 96% of total comments received expressed an interest in seeing the Globe Theater proposal implemented by the Park Service.

Approximately 2% of comments received expressed views against the implementation of the Globe Theater proposal. Reasons sighted include a desire to see the forts used as an “educational tool” and rehabilitated as “a monument to those that served”.

About 1% of comments received expressed the desire to have the NPS boundary include more resources within the National Historic Landmark District.

Other sentiments included a desire for one of the other action alternatives or a hybrid. There was a concern expressed that an emphasis on history was lacking in Alternative D and appeared more prominent in Alternatives B and C.

Another sentiment expressed was a frustration that the funds necessary for the haz-mat removal and rehabilitation of the forts have not yet been secured.

NPS practice is to make comments, including names, home addresses, home phone numbers, and e-mail addresses of respondents, available for public review. Individual respondents had the option of requesting that we withhold their names and/or other information. A rationale for withholding this information had to be presented with the demonstration that disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of privacy. Unsupported assertions were deemed unable to meet this burden. In the absence of exceptional, documentable circumstances, this information was released. We will always make submissions from organizations or businesses, and from individuals identifying themselves as representatives of or officials of organizations or businesses, available for public inspection in their entirety. It should be noted that NPS may still be required to disclose names and addresses pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act.

Appendix I-2: NPS Responses by Code

| Code/Corr # | | Concern Statements / Public Comments |
|---|---|---|
| 1 | 00001 and HEAR01 | Concern Statement: These comments were unclear or unspecific in their requests and/or statements were considered non-substantive as defined by NEPA. NPS was unable to respond to them. |
| | 6150 | DONT DO IT! |
| | 6109 | I do not agree with this proposed plan. Thank you for listening. |
| | 6108 | I have read the proposed plan, and I DO NOT agree with this plan. |
| | 3080 | Seems to me to be an extraordinary use of the island and the fort. Very much in line with other excellent dual-use educational/parkland projects completed by the National Park Service. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00001 and HEAR01 Thank you for your comments. | |
| 2 | 00005 and HEAR05 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed a support for the NPS Preferred Alternative D. |
| | 6212 | Thus it is that I appeal for the Alternative Plan D, as I believe it best secures the history, memories and significance of this place. |
| | 6206 | Alternate D is the best: It befits a water-oriented island at the center of the harbor. |
| | 6147 | My preference is that the NPS pursue Alternative D |
| | 6091 | Governors Island is an ideal place for artists to produce work about our country's history, about one of our country's very important waterways, and about one of our country's and the world's, most important cities. Therefore I am totally in favor of PLAN D giving artists living space in Fort Jay and exhibiton space in Castle Williams. |
| | 4504 | I believe Plan D of the National park Service General Management Plan for Governors Island will offer the residents of New York, as well as tourists to the area to access the island and appreciate its history in the best possible way. |
| NPS Response to all Comments coded 00005 and HEAR05 Thank you for your comments. | | |

| | | |
|----------|---|--|
| | 0006 and HEAR06 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed preferences for Alternatives B, C or a hybrid, particularly in regards to themes and interpretive emphases. |
| | 6297 | I would suggest that alternative B be expanded to include aspects of alternative C, as alternative C provides a mechanism for interpretation of the history of the rest of the island. |
| | 6298 | The reality is, Governors Island has a history and I think that Plan B safeguards that history more than any of the plans, but at the same time, government money, taxpayer money is not going to be get the -- (unintelligible) -- to support of us to all go out there and use the island. |
| | 6113 | One objective is to preserve the history of the island. By history, I don't just mean the history of the history of the islands buildings and architecture and the famous names that visited and/or resided on the island. I also mean to incorporate the history of the people who called the island home; i.e., the history of the relatively historically insignificant people who populated the island over time, and who gave the island the color, context and spirit that is evident to anyone who visits it. Whenever I roam the island in the summers, I always here visitors make comments like "what a great place to raise kids," or "what was life like for the people who lived here?" That curiosity engendered in visitors is a significant part of the appeal of the island, and I believe that this innate appeal needs to be tapped into and harnessed for the island to be successful. How do you do this? You seek out the people and stories associated with the island and preserve and display them in a manner so that they are, on a going-forward basis, etched into the fabric of the islands history. The National Park Service should set aside the time, resources, and space (on the island) to collect and display these unique stories so that visitors can always get a sense of what life was like in this little peace of Americana just off the tip of Manhattan. |
| 3 | NPS Response to all Comments coded 0006 and HEAR06 | |
| | The interpretive themes described in Chapter One broadly describe the significance of Governors Island and its place in U.S. history. Likewise, the Presidential Proclamations (Appendix A) provide broad guidance to NPS on interpreting New York Harbor's history, defense and ecology. Chapter Two, "Visitor Experience" section, describes that a Comprehensive Interpretive Plan will be developed and will describe in greater detail the topics to be interpreted and the best ways to tell these stories. The "Actions Common to All Action Alternatives" section in Chapter 2 describes what would happen under any alternative except A. All the action alternatives (B, C and D) will include all the interpretive themes described in pages 42-46. What does vary under each alternative are the particular methods of interpretation, the emphasis of certain topics, etc. The stories of former residents are important to the history of the National Monument and the island. To date, the park has conducted nearly 25 interviews with former residents, both military and dependents, capturing their recollections and life experiences on Governors Island. While "Ethnography and Ethnographic Resources" was dismissed as a topic of analysis in the EIS portion of the Draft GMP (pp. 24-25), NPS historians and interpreters recognize the value and importance of these stories and will continue this oral history program: "Oral histories will be videotaped and archived along with relevant artifacts that fall under the Collections Management Plan guidelines. The video and associated materials will comprise an invaluable historical record for generations to come and will be a permanent part of the NPS collections and archives." | |

|----------|--|---|
| 4 | 00007 and HEAR07 | Concern Statement: This comment expressed a desire to see the forts restored to their pre-1812 appearance. |
| | 5363 | I feel Castle Williams and Fort Jay should be restored (internal and external restoration) to pre-War of 1812 appearance and function. These two structures are unique to New York history and our nation's history. Since the four Alternate Plans do not call for a restoration as described above. I would support Alternate Plan A until more funds become available to do said restorations. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00007 and HEAR07 | |
| | NPS typically chooses "rehabilitation" rather than "restoration" as a preferred preservation treatment (see Definitions of Resource Treatments on pp. 115-116 of the Draft GMP). Rehabilitation allows for the preservation of the building's character-defining features, while allowing for the installation of visitor safety and health elements—and to meet current building codes. The provision of bathrooms, electricity, heating and cooling systems, and fire detection and suppression are seen as necessary for a safe and enjoyable visitor experience. Also, there is insufficient data to verify how Fort Jay and Castle Williams looked in 1811. We do know, however, what those original key components of the buildings were and will retain and showcase them in any rehabilitation work. | |
| 5 | 00010 and HEAR10 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed support for the Globe Theater proposal. They have been broken down into the following categories: a) expressed overall support for the New Globe Theater proposal; b) questioned NPS's evaluation of the New Globe proposal; c) questioned the integrity of the NPS public process; d) expressed concerns that the NPS proposes an expensive plan without a viable self-sustaining revenue source; and e) expressed concerns that Alternative D would duplicate programs given by other nearby national parks and fail to attract wide and diverse audiences. |
| | a) expressed overall support for the New Globe Theater proposal | |
| | 5393 | We urge you to allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater for Castle Williams National Monument. As you know, the New Globe plan re-imagines the military fortification at the heart of New York Harbor as a self-sustaining performing arts venue and a vibrant educational and cultural destination. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster preserves this decaying national monument, provides for exhibition and museum space, and incorporates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. |
| | 3347 | Please consider carefully the New Globe Theater adaptive reuse proposed for Governors Island. While I am sure you are taking all options under full consideration, I hope that the GMP will not unnecessarily excluded this potentially very interesting option, whose cultural, educational, and architectural values I am sure have been presented to you many times, so I shall not repeat them. |
| | 5861 | I think it is a glorious idea to have this culturally rich building standing in New York. It is not only a tribute to William Shakespeare but to the people and children in New York and the surrounding area. It will provide not only an educational source to young and old but provide an awakening to those who do not know the significance of one of the greatest writers of all times. |
| | 4090 | Your disqualification of the New Globe proposal is short-sighted. I think the historic property can be maintained without compromise, and indeed compromise and negotiation with that (New Globe) possibility is something that didn't seem to be even considered. |

| | | |
|---|--|--|
| NPS Response to (a) expressed overall support for the New Globe Theater proposal | | |
| 5 | The NPS has given careful consideration to the New Globe Theater proposal. In the years preceding the release of the Draft General Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement NPS met several times with New Globe Theater proponents. Chapter 2 of the Draft GMP/EIS, “Alternatives Considered by Eliminated from Further Study” described NPS’s assessment of the proposal and reasons for eliminating it as a viable alternative. Subsequent to the release of the Draft GMP/EIS, theater proponents presented a vision and supportive presentations, which were reflected in a substantial number of the comments received during the formal public comment period. The theater proposal, its goals, and the legislative, architectural and operational changes that would be necessary to carry out the proposal within Castle Williams are essentially unchanged from the 2005 proposal. The proposal still involves construction of a year-round, multi-story theater within the courtyard, roofing over the courtyard, adding a roof-top café-restaurant, and using space elsewhere within Castle Williams for theater functions. As explained more fully in Chapter 2, the theater function and operation would fundamentally pre-empt the Castle’s historic structure and meaning. For the visitor—visually, spatially, and experientially—the Castle would not convey its military function. NPS determined that converting the Castle as proposed would compromise its integrity, significantly impact one of the key resources of the park, be inconsistent with historic preservation design standards and NPS mission, and overall constitute impairment. Those concerns remain. The NPS fully recognizes and appreciates the value of the performing arts. The NPS frequently uses art, music, film dance, living history and the media to interpret a park’s significant events, places, people and themes. In addition, National Park sites regularly host performance events reflecting broader themes and cultural influences, including Shakespearean and contemporary theater. Special temporary activities and events, that do not require extensive architectural or operational changes, could be held at the National Monument and would not be inconsistent with the preservation and protection of Castle Williams or Fort Jay. Such events have already occurred —see photos in Chapter 2 of the “Dancin’ in the Streets” performance at Fort Jay and other musical and living history performances. When Buildings 513-A, B and C are removed, there will be additional open areas for a number of outdoor events that could use the exterior walls of the castle and the harbor views as an evocative backdrop. Temporary installations may also be appropriate within the castle’s courtyard. The NPS emphatically supports theater and other cultural events and supports facilitating the initiatives of GIPEC and the larger New York cultural community to promote a lively roster of music, art and theatrical events on Governors Island. We hope that the energy and commitment of New Globe Theater supporters will focus on a site that can support and accommodate their vision. | |
| | b) questioned NPS’s evaluation of the New Globe proposal | |
| | 6329 | The Draft GMP briefly evaluates the New Globe proposal to determine “appropriateness and feasibility,” and concludes that the proposal would result in impairment of park fundamental resources and values. For reasons outline below, the New Globe believes this conclusion to be erroneous and only a question of interpretation of existing legislation. However, if the NPS’s hands are indeed tied due to governing laws, then – given the overwhelming public support for the proposal – we respectfully request that the NPS work with the New Globe to accommodate steps to amend the extant legislation ...especially since the New York congressional delegation already strongly urged the NPS to approve the New Globe proposal in 2007. |
| | 8 | If, in the 1880s, the same rules and regulations had been applied that the National Park Service is today trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams, the Statue of Liberty would not grace our Harbor today. |
| 6260 | I respectfully request the National Park Service – as the American public’s steward – find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation to include the New Globe. | |

|--|--|
| NPS Response to (b) questioned NPS's evaluation of the New Globe proposal | |
| Commenters are correct that National Park sites are held to rigorous standards and NPS is required to manage them according to governing laws and policies. Commenters are also correct in saying that if a proposal were made today to install a large statue on top of Fort Wood, and Fort Wood were designated a National Monument, it would not happen, given current preservation laws and policies. This is due to the special nature of National Park sites, which reflect our country's heritage and our most precious natural and cultural resources. NPS's mission and obligation is to protect the integrity of national park sites in perpetuity, while providing appropriate ways for the public to access and appreciate a park's historic buildings, landscapes and important stories about our country's development and values. Adaptive re-use of older structures is supported (and even funded at times) by various NPS/DOI programs, which have supported the preservation of historic streetscapes, exterior facades and the conversion of warehouses, commercial and other buildings into new residential uses, restaurants, etc. However, a National Historic Monument designation is not done as an urban revitalization or adaptive reuse program; its designation is meant to preserve Castle Williams and Fort Jay for what they are and what they historically represent. NPS is the agency responsible for carrying out the terms of the Presidential Proclamations (Appendix A) that established the National Monument, and for interpreting the Presidents' intentions. The Proclamations focus on the historic and architectural significance of Fort Jay and Castle Williams as the reasons for their establishment as a national monument and for their preservation, and focus on the themes of the harbor – its history, defense and ecology. Chapter 1, Framework for the Plan, "Foundation for Planning," (also included in public Newsletter #2) describes how the plans for the national monument derived from these Presidential Proclamations. The NPS would not pursue legislation that challenges Presidential intentions or that would allow impairment of the park's primary resources. | |
| 5 | Chapter 2, Management Alternatives, "Alternatives Considered but Eliminated from Further Study," further describes NPS's assessment and conclusions. |
| c) questioned the integrity of the NPS public process | |
| 3 | It is unclear how the Draft GMP "integrates the aspirations of the public" if the plan (a) ignores the congressional letter of March 2007 which requests the approval of the New Globe plan – signed by both New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, NY delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen; (b) does not acknowledge over 3,000 emails received by the National Park Service in support of the New Globe in 2007, and (c) buries the fact that about 65% called for the New Globe during the public scoping period on page 271 in the appendix? |
| 6342 | In conclusion, this Draft GMP calls into question the integrity of the public process. It is apparent that by not identifying a preferred alternative for Governors Island National Monument that accommodates the New Globe proposal, the NPS ignored the findings of public involvement and civic engagement from 2003 to 2007. |
| 6329 | In the Executive Summary, the Draft GMP states that the proposed vision is "the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of the NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument over the next 20 years." However, when examining public involvement from 2003 to 2007, it becomes apparent that the Draft GMP has disregarded the aspirations of the public and the public process has been compromised....As a final observation, the public process was dramatically compromised by NPS rangers openly speaking negatively about the New Globe proposal on public tours and even, in the case of [name redacted], abusing her NPS position to influence the 60-day public comment period by rallying the Governors Island Brats to submit public comments opposed to the New Globe proposal. |

| | | |
|---|---|--|
| NPS Response to (c) questioned the integrity of the NPS public process | | |
| 5 | NPS acknowledges the great interest by large numbers of people, including high-profile public figures, who have expressed support for the New Globe Theater proposal through their comments, letters or petitions. We also acknowledge the heart-felt concerns raised by theater proponents and legislative leaders and recognize that people are excited about the idea of providing theater and cultural activities on Governors Island as part of its revitalization, but the substantive issues referred to in the first NPS response and Chapter 2 remain. Clarification about the public involvement process is provided below and in the following sections of the Final GMP/EIS: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Page i: "About This Plan" • Chapter 5: Consultation & Coordination, "Summary of the Planning Process" • Appendix I: "Public Comments & NPS Responses" The public involvement and comment process in the development of a National Park GMP/EIS is not intended to be a "vote" or petition campaign. Rather, the purpose of the public process is to provide ways for the public to express opinions on NPS plans and provide input into our thinking. NPS considers public interests and comments as one of several measures in determining the best way to preserve and manage National Park resources. NPS decisions are not based on the number of comments supporting a particular interest. Comments inform our decisions; but ultimately, agency decisions consider all public comments in the context of professional scientific, historical and resource-based data; and what the agency considers best for the resources and public access and experience, within the laws, policies and guidelines established for National Parks. All comments received during the public comment period were carefully reviewed and considered and are included in the Final GMP/EIS, Appendix I. NPS incorporated many of the public's earlier ideas, concepts and aspirations into the draft Alternatives. These ideas and aspirations are already reflected in many of the NPS's program offerings on Governors Island – including artists programs, dance, theatrical and musical performances, self-guided tours, signage and interpretation. NPS carried out the public process for the Governors Island National Monument's GMP/EIS in accordance with the National Historic Preservation Act (NEPA) and other requirements, as described in Chapter 5, "Section 106 Compliance Requirements." Appendix D summarizes public involvement and civic engagement prior to the public release of the Draft GMP/EIS and describes two additional public forums held during the 60-day public comment period. NPS acknowledged and responded directly to those who sent in letters and emails prior to the public comment period. In response to comments in Comment 6329, the NPS Ethics Office and Department of Interior Solicitors Office investigated the claim that an individual employee abused her position to influence the public comment period and determined that no ethical violation had been made and that the employee was not in a position to influence NPS's decisions about the New Globe Theater proposal. | |
| | d) expressed concerns that the NPS proposes an expensive plan without a viable self-sustaining revenue source | |
| | 348 | ...this Draft GMP proposes yet another hundred-million-dollar, federal-government-dependent site without a viable self-sustaining revenue source, while rejecting an exciting, inspirational and visionary public-private partnership that would ensure the future financial and historic integrity of the park and its resources. |
| | 778 | The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity of 1,200 visitors and with 400 "groundling" tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park. |
| | | |

|---|--|
| 5572 | The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government’s responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies – thereby relieving the federal government of an additional burden. Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. (And in the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.) |
| NPS Response to (d) expressed concerns that the NPS proposes an expensive plan without a viable self-sustaining revenue source | |
| Chapter 2: “Partnerships and Outreach” and “Collaboration & Partnership” sections describe the types of program and financial partners NPS would pursue to implement each action alternative. Chapter 2: “Costs of Implementing the Alternatives” describes cost estimates and assumptions. Commenters are correct that the full implementation of the GMP will be expensive and that the theater proposal describes appealing fiscal projections. However, these projections are based on converting the Castle to a full-time theater, which would impair the historic building and prevent NPS from carrying out its mission and responsibilities, and was not considered germane to NPS’s decision about the proposal. NPS acknowledges that, while the National Monument’s GMP implementation costs are generally consistent with other NPS plans and with the rehabilitation of other NPS fortifications, Governors Island has additional cost factors—its location in the harbor, being accessible only by ferry, and the high costs of construction in the New York City area. To achieve full implementation, the repairs and rehabilitation will need to occur in phases and NPS will seek partnerships and financial supporters. In establishing the National Monument, the President and Congress acknowledged the federal government’s financial role and responsibilities for its preservation and long-term maintenance. NPS is responsible for preserving these National Monument properties and maintaining them in perpetuity. Having an approved Final GMP/EIS will enable NPS to justify what actions and expenditures are needed; to phase preservation and rehabilitation actions to protect these national resources and provide for public access and use; and to aggressively seek those funds, public and private, needed to carry out the preferred alternative. | |
| e) expressed concerns that Alternative D would duplicate programs given by other nearby national parks and fail to attract wide and diverse audiences | |
| 8 | While the draft GMP rightfully thinks about Governors Island National Monument within the larger context of the National Parks of New York Harbor, the preferred Alternative D (“Harbor Center”) duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others. |
| 4734 | Drawing from the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to “become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours,” Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center. |
| 1306 | The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world. |

|--------------------------------|--|---|
| | NPS Response to (e) expressed concerns that Alternative D would duplicate programs given by other nearby national parks and fail to attract wide and diverse audiences | |
| 5 | Many historic sites throughout the country are experiencing lower visitation and NPS acknowledges that there would be visitors who would be attracted to a theater experience at Castle Williams who would not otherwise visit a historic fortification. The assumption is that history is boring and will attract only a small, homogenous segment of society. Some historic sites are, in fact, boring but the intentions and goals of NPS, as reflected in Alternative D, are to enliven and revitalize the castle with activities and programs that are universally appealing. | |
| | Visitors to Governors Island already reflect a wide and diverse public. Motivations to visit are also varied: bicycling, kayaking, picnicking, concerts, art exhibitions, lectures, tours, living history weekends, free ferry rides, or just to admire the harbor and city views. Each year since 2003 the amount and variety of programming on the island has expanded, which has dramatically increased the number and diversity of people visiting. Castle Williams visitors certainly include history and architecture buffs, but others have visited as result of other activities on the island, as part of a larger harbor tour, or to see how the castle could serve as venue for special events. These trends are expected to continue. | |
| | In short, visitors coming to the island for other activities and attractions will still have the opportunity and option to visit the fortifications and participate in NPS-sponsored programs. The island and Alternative D are big enough to support a variety of activities—they don't have to all happen in the same space. | |
| | Likewise, while it is true that many visitors to National Park sites within the New York Harbor area are people who have a special interest in history, these sites also represent ideas, ideals and issues that are current and that provoke emotions, discussion and civic action. The National Park sites within the New York Harbor area have some common themes and also distinctive public programming and focus: Examples: | |
| | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Statue of Liberty: international symbol of political freedom and democracy • Ellis Island: history and meaning of immigration, past and present • Gateway National Recreation Area: active recreation, ecological refuge, and environmental cleanup of NY Harbor • Federal Hall: beginnings of the U.S. federal government, Bill of Rights and inauguration of our first President Chapter 2 describes "Alternative D: Harbor Partnership." Chapter 1, "Relationship with Other Plans and Projects", describes how this alternative reflects current and future NPS and City initiatives for NY Harbor. Alternative D would not force anyone to come to Governors Island. Rather, it provides people with the opportunity to visit Governors Island as part of a larger harbor experience, if they so desire. | |
| 6 | 00015 and HEAR15 | Concern Statement: These comments express opinions against the Globe Theater proposal citing the implementation of the proposal would compromise the historic significance of the forts and the visitor experience. |
| | 6206 | No to Globe Theatre. It could be appropriate elsewhere on the island. That a replica of the original Globe Theatre would just fit into the Castle Williams courtyard is a meaningless coincidence and is not sufficient reason to re-create it in this valuable fort and jeopardize the historic significance and historic fabric of the fort. |
| | 6184 | But, I am quite dismayed by the plans for the historic northern end of Governor's Island. I feel that it should be preserved as to best portray the rich military history of the Army and Coast Guard time of occupancy. I am particularly speaking of the planned "Globe Theater" project. While it is a great idea to have a facility like that it has no place within the historic structure of Castle Williams. Castle Williams and Fort Jay should be preserved as they have been for over a century. |
| | 5924 | It is my belief that Castle Williams is Hallowed Ground, and should not be used for anything that is not directly related to honoring our Nation's storied Military. |

|--|--|--|
| 6 | 4679 | I would also like to say I am against the Globe Theatre idea for Castle Williams. I believe changing ANY part of the Castle will ruin it forever. PLEASE, do not change any of the old structures on the island. |
| | 5814 | Speaking as a taxpayer and combat veteran of the Iraq War, Governor's Island does not need to be destroyed in favor of an outdoor theater because of its great cultural/historical significance to our country's Civil War Heritage. New York City has few Civil War-era sites that are in relatively-pre-served condition and to deface this monument to the citizen-soldiers of our great nation would be an utter disgrace. |
| | 5546 | As a living historian, taxpayer and American, we cannot allow a special interest group like the New Globe Theater to take a historical treasure for their own use. This is hallowed ground! Castle Williams was paid for with the blood and sweat of the people that served and are still serving this great nation, and is maintained with funds provided by the American Taxpayer. |
| | 6112 | Our primary concern regarding the GMP is the integrity of Governors Island N.M. as a unit of the National Park System. Inappropriate development or management would compromise both the National Monument and be a threatening precedent for any national park. Governors Island N.M. must be managed, operated and developed in complete accord with its purposes as provided when the area was established, and in accord with the law and policy well established for units of the National Park System. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00015 and HEAR15 | |
| Thank you for your comments. The long military history of Governors Island is and will continue to be the core of the NPS's interpretation program, and the forts will be preserved to showcase their original military function. Chapter 1, Foundation for Planning and Legal Requirements describes how the GMP and alternatives were based on and sprang from the Presidential Proclamations, transfer documents and other laws and policies that relate to and affect national parks. Chapter Two, "Alternatives Considered but Eliminated from Further Study" describes NPS's evaluation and reasons for eliminating the New Globe Theater proposal as a viable management alternative. | | |
| 7 | 00020 and HEAR20 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed a desire to see the NPS boundary increase to accommodate such features as the remaining portion of the glacis, the south battery or other buildings within the historic district. |
| | 734 | I'd like to see a few more things added to this plan. I think the entire Glacis should be kept within the boundaries and the South Battery should be enveloped by the NPS as well. |
| | 5895 | There are other issues that are of concern within the proposal as well. It is my belief that Castle Williams, Fort Jay, the Glacis, Colonels Row and the South Battery should all be under the protection of the National Park Service. |
| | 6033 | Furthermore I would request that the National park service expand it's control to include the glacis, the South Battery, St. Cornelius chapel, Nolan Park, Colonels Row, and Liggett Hall so that all of the islands history be preserved. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00020 and HEAR20 | |
| Thank you for your comments. The NPS owns and manages Castle Williams, Fort Jay, Building 107 (NPS administrative headquarters), Buildings 513 A, B and C (to be demolished), Building S-251 (to be demolished), Dock 102, the northern portion of the glacis, and there is an easement for 1,000 SF inside Building 140 for NPS use. Everything else is owned and managed by GIPEC (see NPS boundary maps in the Draft Plan, pp xii-xiii). | | |
| The NPS Boundary and the Glacis The monument boundary was established to protect Fort Jay and Castle Williams. The Presidential Proclamation calls for reserving "the smallest area compatible with the proper care and management of the objects to be protected" (the objects being the two forts). | | |

While the NPS does not own the entire glacial, it is protected from development and the NPS is collaborating with GIPEC on its landscape treatment and public use.

Other resources were included within the NPS boundary to facilitate the operation and administration of the National Monument such as the headquarters building (107) and dock 102.

The entire northern portion of Governors Island is a National Historic Landmark District and City Landmark District. All historic buildings and grounds within this district, whether owned by NPS or GIPEC, will be preserved, as per terms of the legal transfer deeds' preservation covenants and in accordance with the historic district's Preservation and Design Manual. See Chapter One, "Special Mandates."

All historic resources referenced above—Fort Jay, Castle Williams, the glacial, Colonels Row, South Battery, St. Cornelius Chapel, Nolan Park and Liggett Hall—are within the historic district, contribute to its significance and will be preserved.

The criteria for boundary adjustment are outlined in Appendix B.

| 8 | 00030 and HEAR30 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed a concern that NPS should secure funding soon; begin rehabilitation; and/or preserve the forts' integrity. |
| | 1 | If restoration work is not begun on Castle Williams and Fort Jay soon, we may lose these invaluable artifacts. |
| | 6112 | it is not appropriate to permit these primary historic structures to continue to deteriorate. Action is necessary now to stabilize and eliminate the hazmat on Castle Williams. |
| | 6261 | It is very important that City and State commit steady capital funding to attract private investment to the rest of the Island. It is just as crucial that the National Park Service and Congress commit operational and capital funding to the Monument. And we do not feel the plan places enough emphasis on that. The Park Service does a lot of good work, but it doesn't do it quickly. In this instance, however, the Park Service must quickly complete the plan to allow the Monument to get back on the Park Service's priority funding list. |
| | 6291 | Completion of this project will enable visitors to enter the former prison cells and gun emplacements in the iconic 1811 castle, and access to roof for spectacular views. The Park Service should provide funding needed immediately, an estimated $5.8 million. |

| 9 | 00040 and HEAR40 | Concern Statement: These comments expressed the need to strengthen the description of Alternative D to reflect that the island’s strategic location was a major contributing factor in the establishment of the National Monument; to clarify what NPS meant by the island being the harbor’s hub; and the need for a harbor transportation plan for visitors. |
| | 6112 | Any visitor should have the complete opportunity to explore Castle Williams, hear its story, and see from the rooftop the spectacular views of New York and New York Harbor. This would be an important lesson of the interrelationship of geography and strategy, of geology and commerce and ecology, and a Sense of Place. Amid spectacular views, this visitor would understand immediately how important New York and New York Harbor was and is to the Nation....The Harbor Partnership narration should be strengthened by better emphasizing the power and significance of PLACE in the establishment of the National Monument and in its legislative history, such as in NPS Congressional testimony, which served as the context for Proclamation history. |
| | 6285 | ...we strongly encourage the National Park Service to take a more holistic view and undertake a broader strategic examination of their efforts regarding the New York Harbor Parks before adopting Alternative D. What is particularly striking is that while Alternative D proffers GINM as the harbor’s hub, the critical element, which is in fact under NPS’s control, is not being pursued in order to make this plan feasible. In short, if the National Park Service truly wants to make Governors Island the harbor’s hub, then all tourists visiting NPS sites in the harbor should be funneled through the site, and the ferries to and from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island should be loaded from Governors Island and not from Battery Park. If such an arrangement is not that which the NPS is intending to pursue, then Governors Island will not be a hub for the harbor, though still a great stop among many others around the harbor....we firmly believe that before this GMP is approved, it is incumbent upon the city, state, and NPS to prepare and publicly share a long-term strategic plan for how visitors will be moved around the inner and outer harbor in the years to come, and to delineate how the use and access at each city, state, federal and private attraction or site will be integrated with this plan. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00040 and HEAR40 | |
| Thank you. Chapter 1, Visitor Experience; Chapter 2, Management Alternatives, “Common to All” section; and the Historical Summary describe the importance of Castle Williams, its harbor location and the opportunities—especially from the castle’s roof—to communicate the themes and stories described in your comments. NPS selected Alternative D as the preferred alternative for its ability to tell this larger harbor story and to put Governors Island and its fortifications into a larger national and regional context. Chapter 1, Primary Interpretive Themes section highlights Governors Island’s strategic location in New York Harbor, how the success of the defense systems in New York influenced other harbor fortification projects in the United States, and how the island’s forts were designed to function as a network of fortification and can be interpreted as part of a larger national defensive system. Chapter 2, Alternative D Concept, describes the ability to tell the military story in the even larger context of the harbor itself: its effect on the development of New York City, the city’s effects on the harbor and its ecosystem, and how uses of the harbor and its waterfront continue to evolve over time. Chapter 2, Alternative D in the Final Plan attempts to clarify NPS’s meaning of the term “hub.” NPS intended that the National Monument—Castle Williams, Fort Jay and the Parade Ground—be a hub of activity on Governors Island and that Governors Island be a key destination for visitors exploring the larger harbor. We did not intend that all visitors be required to start their tour of the harbor at Governors Island, although that had been discussed in the early planning days as a possible option. Ultimately, we believed that to be unpractical. Instead, we would make it possible, easy and worthwhile for visitors who chose to visit Governors Island. There are currently several ferry and boat operators who provide harbor tours. We will be testing the feasibility of some tours landing at Governors Island as part of their itinerary. We will also be identifying the various audiences to harbor sites and which transportation links are the most logical and feasible. Overall, it is anticipated that ferries and boats landing at Governors Island will be debarking from multiple sites in New York, New Jersey and potentially Connecticut. | | |

| | A long-term strategic visitor transportation plan for New York Harbor is an important goal for NPS and initial discussions and plans are underway through the Harbor District Advisory Board (a coalition of harbor-front operators) and other initiatives. As this type of plan will take some time to accomplish, given the complexity of issues and governments involved, NPS believes it is important to finalize the GMP for Governors Island now. Having an approved Final GMP authorizes the park to undertake the major rehabilitation and demolition projects identified in the GMP and makes the park eligible for federal funding. Also, boat operators will have greater incentive to land at Governors Island as visitation continues to increase and as the island develops new attractions and programs. | |
| 10 | 00050 and HEAR50 | Concern Statement: This comment expressed the need for the NPS to clarify its role and responsibilities regarding the management and enforcement of the National Historic Landmark District and other provisions described in the transfer documents. |
| | 6112 | The relationship between GIPEC and the NPS should be expanded and strengthened throughout this document. It is unclear what the role of the NPS/Secretary should be in enforcing the Deed and other transfer agreements, and how and when the NPS should be prepared to do so. Proper monitoring and managing of NPS responsibilities should be better reflected in this document. Otherwise, it is likely the public interest in protecting the landscape immediately adjacent to the park will be neglected. There is ambiguity as to how well protected NHL features are, such as the parade ground...A solution for both parties, to enhance both GIPEC and NPS operation and further build a cooperative and synergistic relationship, would be a clear operations agreement to address all these issues. |
| | NPS Response to all Comments coded 00050 and HEAR50 | |
| The Deed and other documents associated with the sale and transfer of Governors Island include, as part of the preservation covenants, a Governors Island Preservation and Design Manual, which describes how the overall NHL District and its historic buildings and grounds, including the Parade Ground, should be preserved and treated. The Manual also provides guidelines for construction (repairs, renovations and new construction) within the district and describes the consultation process to be taken with the State Historic Preservation Office and NYC Landmarks Preservation Commission. Both NPS and GIPEC are subject to the Deed's preservation covenants and have been routinely consulting with state and city preservation offices on plans and actual work within the district. Your comment raises an additional issue about NPS-GIPEC collaboration in planning, programming and overall operations. Chapter 1, "Collaboration and Partnership" and "NPS Goals: Areas of Mutual Interest" describe areas for NPS-GIPEC collaboration and joint planning. Although this GMP was written prior to the start-up of GIPEC's park planning, the "areas of mutual interest" reflect current and future issues and opportunities. While much of GIPEC's new 40-acre park will be developed in the southern, non-historic portion of the island, that plan will likely also address important areas within the NHL District, such as the Parade Ground, circumference road around the island, signage and circulation. Since these will have a direct impact on the National Monument and NPS operations, NPS will pursue planning sessions with GIPEC to collaborate on areas that affect the NHL District and National Monument and use our Cooperative Management Agreement to clarify roles, responsibilities and operational issues and decisions, as the Deed describes and as logic dictates. | | |

To whom it may concern,

After reading and reviewing the Proposed General Management Plan for the Governors Island National Monument, I would like to take a moment to comment on the proposal. It is my belief as Taxpayer and citizen of the United States of America that it would be a great injustice to utilize the Governors Island National Monument as anything but a source for the education of the visiting public. I understand there is a proposal to develop Castle Williams into a theater to be used by the New Globe Theater. In my opinion as a taxpayer this would be tantamount to stealing from the American public. Castle Williams has stood as a beacon of freedom in New York harbor just as it is and converting the Castle into a theater will do nothing but serve to destroy America's history and the ability for the National Park Service to use the building as an educational tool.

Many men and women that served our Country proudly in many different branches of the Armed Forces served on the Island and its structures protecting our Country from invasion by sea and later to assure that people would remain safe in New York area waterways. To make Castle Williams anything but a monument to those that served would be a slap in the faces of every person that wore the uniform of the United States of America. Not only did people serve on the island, people perished there as well making the island and the structures upon it Hallowed Ground. Do the members of our Country's Armed Forces that died in and around Castle Williams deserve a Shakespearean theater as a monument to their sacrifice? Of course the answer is No.

There are other issues that are of concern within the proposal as well. It is my belief that Castle Williams, Fort Jay, the Glacis, Colonels Row and the South Battery should all be under the protection of the National Park Service. I understand that the protected area that currently exists does not encompass some of these areas but that should be changed. These additional areas deserve the protection of the Park Service for the same reasons I explained previously in the Case of Castle Williams.

The National Park Service has the ability to utilize the Governors Island National Monument for what it should be, a source in New York Harbor to educate visitors from around the world about the history of the United States of America. This opportunity may never present itself again elsewhere in the Country. Where else can you find in one area two or three different types of fortifications used throughout the history of the country? The Park Service would be able to almost tell the entire history of the Country on one island. Another point is that the New York area although rich in history is lacking in the ability for visitation to historic sites mostly due to the modernization to historic areas. The modernization and the destruction of structures on the Island, mainly Castle Williams would repeat the cycle of the removal of New York's historical footprint. The Park Service has been given the opportunity to begin to reverse the process of destruction by turning Castle Williams and the other structures of the Island into a destination of historical education. Currently the children of New York City and the surrounding area have a limited area in which to learn via visitation, the history of the City they live in. Governors Island can fill that void.

The island needs provisions for visitation like facilities for educational programs and museums in order to enhance what is already available to the Park Service on the island.

To sum up my comments as a Taxpayer, I would request that the National Park Service do everything possible to ensure the preservation of the Governors Island National Monument so that it can serve as a monument to those that served and as an educational tool for those in the future. To do anything less would be a disgrace.

Best Regards,

Re: PLEASE APPROVE THE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater.

As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

The design was undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmarks experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most important, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world.

Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter.

I am writing to urge you to allow the adaptive reuse of Castle Williams National Monument, and to select the New Globe Theater as a Centennial Signature Project.

As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

The design was undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmarks experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most important, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world.

Finally, the proposed public-private partnership is an inspired adaptive reuse of Castle Williams, since the fort was built to defend America against the British in the War of 1812. Working in alliance with our former foe, this cultural center would preserve our history and celebrate our common cultural heritage; and, appropriately, be facing the French Statue of Liberty (sitting atop 1811 Fort Wood) as a symbol of UK-US friendship.

When Secretary Kempthorne announced the National Park Centennial Initiative, he said "this is a time for great creativity and imagination." I strongly agree, and ask you to select as a Centennial Signature Project this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument.

Thank you for your consideration.

Re: PLEASE APPROVE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument.

This innovative vision respects the site's history while achieving three vital objectives:

- * PRESERVATION OF CASTLE WILLIAMS - structurally as well as spiritually, the New Globe's architecture would show off the site in the best light;
- * PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT - through entertainment and education, showcasing history alongside Hamlet, the New Globe will infuse New York Harbor and its national parks with new life for years to come;
- * FINANCIAL SECURITY - the New Globe's philanthropic contributions coupled with the steady revenue from theater performances and operations, over and above the park's income from visitation, will breathe new (and renewable) life into the park site, the castle and the harbor for the next generation and beyond.

The New Globe proposal has generated widespread support: from the New York congressional delegation to the entertainment, media and performing arts communities; from the public at large to a host of internationally respected civic and cultural leaders. PLEASE LISTEN TO THIS GROWING CHORUS THAT FAVORS THE NEW GLOBE AND RECOGNIZE THE TRUE POTENTIAL OF CASTLE WILLIAMS AND GOVERNORS ISLAND - a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the NPS.

In his May 2007 report to the president, "The Future of America's National Parks," Interior Secretary Dirk Kempthorne asserts: "We will engage community partners to reach young people and new audiences, enriching their lives and protecting America's treasures for future generations." Here is an opportunity to build a public-private partnership with the New Globe, reach young people and new audiences, enrich their lives and protect the treasure of Castle Williams ... which currently rests dilapidated and infested with hazardous materials.

Castle Williams was constructed to defend America against the British in the War of 1812. The "New Globe for the New World" celebrates this history by creating a unique cultural center, but this time working with our former English foe to preserve America's history and celebrate our common cultural heritage. Appropriately, the center would face the "French" Statue of Liberty (similarly united with Fort Wood) as a complementary symbol of US-UK friendship.

The New Globe plan protects and preserves the 1811 fortification and interprets its role in the defense of New York Harbor and the nation within a 3,000-square-foot museum on the ground floor - highlighting the history of the harbor's forts and exploring a wide range of themes: harbor defense systems, politics, culture, history, transportation, economy, ecology and more. In this manner, the New Globe proposal adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing "an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology."

The New Globe plan fills the open courtyard with the stunning auditorium that (1) preserves the three-tiered open space at the center of the structure and (2) preserves the views onto the sandstone walls through its back walls made of glass. The Draft GMP argues that "visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort's military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public." However, this statement ignores the fact that, during the public scoping period, 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard.

In March 2007, New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, New York delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen signed a letter which requests National Park Service approval of the New Globe plan. Additionally, some 3,000 emails in support of the New Globe were received by the NPS last year.

The planned New Globe is dedicated not just to exploring the military past via exciting interpretive exhibits, workshops and seminars, but also to creating an inspiring future that celebrates cross-cultural understanding via the performing arts.

In order to provide the financial underpinnings for the operation of this museum and for the maintenance of the historic site, and in order to attract a wider, more diverse audience to national parks, the New Globe plan also incorporates the construction of a visionary theater inside the open courtyard of Castle Williams. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster (celebrated for his sensitive treatment of historic structures, such as the British Museum and the German Parliament) creates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London's Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will operate entirely independently of the museum, restaurant and roof deck, which would remain accessible to the general public at all times.

The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity for 1,200 visitors and with 400 "groundling" tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park.

While the draft GMP rightfully thinks about Governors Island National Monument within the larger context of the National Parks of New York Harbor, the preferred Alternative D ("Harbor Center") duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others.

Drawing from the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to "become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours," Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center.

Furthermore, preferred Alternative D is the most expensive of all alternatives and thus proposes to spend $50-60 million in one-time capital costs plus $107-128 million in life-cycle costs to offer redundant programming to the same interest group already served by the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and other National Parks in New York Harbor.

Taking all these considerations to their logical conclusion, Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding to serve a redundant target customer base on Governors Island; in the process, it will cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Unfortunately, the NPS plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling an $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. To prepare the public for this scenario, the draft GMP three times states that: "The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Service wide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future."

Thus, despite President George W. Bush's mandate to "leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors," and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that "a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks," THIS DRAFT GMP PROPOSES YET ANOTHER HUNDRED-MILLION-DOLLAR, FEDERAL-GOVERNMENT-DEPENDENT SITE WITHOUT A VIABLE SELF-SUSTAINING REVENUE SOURCE, WHILE REJECTING AN EXCITING, INSPIRATIONAL AND VISIONARY PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP THAT WOULD ENSURE THE FUTURE FINANCIAL AND HISTORIC INTEGRITY OF THE PARK AND ITS RESOURCES.

Thus far - 5 years after taking over management of the site - the NPS locally has been unsuccessful in securing the federal funding needed to stabilize the decaying structure.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government's responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies - thereby relieving the federal budget of an additional burden. Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. (And in the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.)

Given the New Globe proposal has attracted overwhelming public interest and support as a bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and given the New York congressional delegation's urging "that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater," I respectfully request the National Park Service - as the American public's steward - find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation to include the New Globe. If in the 1880s the same rules and regulations that the National Park Service is trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams had been applied to the Statue of Liberty, that symbol of freedom would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be "mindful that boldness matches our history" (to quote Secretary Kempthorne's opening sentence of "The Future of America's National Parks"), and to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor - the New Globe Theater at Governors Island National Monument.

We urge you to allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater for Castle Williams National Monument. As you know, the New Globe plan re-imagines the military fortification at the heart of New York Harbor as a self-sustaining performing arts venue and a vibrant educational and cultural destination. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster preserves this decaying national monument, provides for exhibition and museum space, and incorporates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and with programming recognizing the cultural heritage of the world.

Since the fortification was originally built to defend America against the British, it seems very appropriate that the United States and the United Kingdom work in partnership to recast this symbol of war into an icon of friendship for the 200th Anniversary of the War of 1812.

The New Globe will be a visionary and inspiring icon for New York Harbor - and a most fitting neighbor for the Statue of Liberty, which similarly united Fort Wood and the colossal statue into a symbol of Franco-American friendship. We therefore, strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of this fortification.

Re: PLEASE APPROVE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument.

This innovative vision respects the site's history while achieving three vital objectives:

- * PRESERVATION OF CASTLE WILLIAMS - structurally as well as spiritually, the New Globe's architecture would show off the site in the best light;
- * PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT - through entertainment and education, showcasing history alongside Hamlet, the New Globe will infuse New York Harbor and its national parks with new life for years to come;
- * FINANCIAL SECURITY - the New Globe's philanthropic contributions coupled with the steady revenue from theater performances and operations, over and above the park's income from visitation, will breathe new (and renewable) life into the park site, the castle and the harbor for the next generation and beyond.

The New Globe proposal has generated widespread support: from the New York congressional delegation to the entertainment, media and performing arts communities; from the public at large to a host of internationally respected civic and cultural leaders. PLEASE LISTEN TO THIS GROWING CHORUS THAT FAVORS THE NEW GLOBE AND RECOGNIZE THE TRUE POTENTIAL OF CASTLE WILLIAMS AND GOVERNORS ISLAND - a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the NPS.

In his May 2007 report to the president, "The Future of America's National Parks," Interior Secretary Dirk Kempthorne asserts: "We will engage community partners to reach young people and new audiences, enriching their lives and protecting America's treasures for future generations." Here is an opportunity to build a public-private partnership with the New Globe, reach young people and new audiences, enrich their lives and protect the treasure of Castle Williams ... which currently rests dilapidated and infested with hazardous materials.

Castle Williams was constructed to defend America against the British in the War of 1812. The "New Globe for the New World" celebrates this history by creating a unique cultural center, but this time working with our former English foe to preserve America's history and celebrate our common cultural heritage. Appropriately, the center would face the "French" Statue of Liberty (similarly united with Fort Wood) as a complementary symbol of US-UK friendship.

The New Globe plan protects and preserves the 1811 fortification and interprets its role in the defense of New York Harbor and the nation within a 3,000-square-foot museum on the ground floor - highlighting the history of the harbor's forts and exploring a wide range of themes: harbor defense systems, politics, culture, history, transportation, economy, ecology and more. In this manner, the New Globe proposal adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing "an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology."

The New Globe plan fills the open courtyard with the stunning auditorium that (1) preserves the three-tiered open space at the center of the structure and (2) preserves the views onto the sandstone walls through its back walls made of glass. The Draft GMP argues that "visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort's military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public." However, this statement ignores the fact that, during the public scoping period, 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard.

In March 2007, New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, New York delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen signed a letter which requests National Park Service approval of the New Globe plan. Additionally, some 3,000 emails in support of the New Globe were received by the NPS last year.

The planned New Globe is dedicated not just to exploring the military past via exciting interpretive exhibits, workshops and seminars, but also to creating an inspiring future that celebrates cross-cultural understanding via the performing arts.

In order to provide the financial underpinnings for the operation of this museum and for the maintenance of the historic site, and in order to attract a wider, more diverse audience to national parks, the New Globe plan also incorporates the construction of a visionary theater inside the open courtyard of Castle Williams. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster (celebrated for his sensitive treatment of historic structures, such as the British Museum and the German Parliament) creates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London's Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will operate entirely independently of the museum, restaurant and roof deck, which would remain accessible to the general public at all times.

The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity for 1,200 visitors and with 400 "groundling" tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park.

While the draft GMP rightfully thinks about Governors Island National Monument within the larger context of the National Parks of New York Harbor, the preferred Alternative D ("Harbor Center") duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others.

Drawing from the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to "become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours," Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6 pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center.

Furthermore, preferred Alternative D is the most expensive of all alternatives and thus proposes to spend $50-60 million in one-time capital costs plus $107-128 million in life-cycle costs to offer redundant programming to the same interest group already served by the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and other National Parks in New York Harbor.

Taking all these considerations to their logical conclusion, Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding to serve a redundant target customer base on Governors Island; in the process, it will cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Unfortunately, the NPS plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling an $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. To prepare the public for this scenario, the draft GMP three times states that: "The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Servicewide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future."

Thus, despite President George W. Bush's mandate to "leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors," and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that "a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks," THIS DRAFT GMP PROPOSES YET ANOTHER HUNDRED-MILLION-DOLLAR, FEDERAL-GOVERNMENT-DEPENDENT SITE WITHOUT A VIABLE SELF-SUSTAINING REVENUE SOURCE,

WHILE REJECTING AN EXCITING, INSPIRATIONAL AND VISIONARY PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP THAT WOULD ENSURE THE FUTURE FINANCIAL AND HISTORIC INTEGRITY OF THE PARK AND ITS RESOURCES.

Thus far - 5 years after taking over management of the site - the NPS locally has been unsuccessful in securing the federal funding needed to stabilize the decaying structure.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government's responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies - thereby relieving the federal budget of an additional burden. Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. (And in the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.)

Given the New Globe proposal has attracted overwhelming public interest and support as a bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and given the New York congressional delegation's urging "that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater," I respectfully request the National Park Service - as the American public's steward - find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation to include the New Globe.

If in the 1880s the same rules and regulations that the National Park Service is trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams had been applied to the Statue of Liberty, that symbol of freedom would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be "mindful that boldness matches our history" (to quote Secretary Kempthorne's opening sentence of "The Future of America's National Parks"), and to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor - the New Globe Theater at Governors Island National Monument.

Re: PLEASE APPROVE THE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater.

As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

The design was undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmarks experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most important, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world.

Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter.

Alternatively, that plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling a $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. “The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Servicewide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future.”

Thus, despite President George W. Bush’s mandate to “leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors” and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that “a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks,” this draft GMP proposes yet another plan for a $100 million of federal-dollar-dependent site without a viable self-sustaining revenue source, while rejecting another exciting public-private partnership for the preservation and future life of the site.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the Monument is not just the government’s responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall the further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies (taking it completely off the federal budget). Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. In the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.

The New Globe plan fills the open courtyard with the stunning auditorium that (1) preserves the three-tiered open space at the center of the structure and (2) preserves the views onto the sandstone walls through its back walls made of glass. The Draft GMP argues that “visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort’s military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public” - however, the statement ignores the fact that, during the public scoping period, 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard.

Regarding public involvement, the beginning of the Executive Summary of the Draft GMP states that “this vision is the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of the NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument over the next 20 years.” It is unclear how the Draft GMP “integrates the aspirations of the public”, if the plan (a) ignores the congressional letter of March 2007 which requests the approval of the New Globe plan - signed by both New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, NY delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen; (b) does not acknowledge 3,000 emails received by the National Park Service in support of the New Globe in 2007, and (c) buries the fact that, during the public scoping period, about 65% called for the New Globe on page 271 in the appendix?

Since the Presidential Proclamation 7402 of January 19, 2001 and 7647 of February 11, 2003 predate the New Globe proposal for Governors Island National Monument; and since, in January 2005, the widely publicized Preliminary Management Alternative B for Castle Williams was to “Rehab for Performance and Visual Arts Center” and the National Park Service ensured the public that this alternative was “consistent with federal laws, such as the National Historic Preservation Act, and with NPS policies;” and since, subsequently, the New Globe proposal has attracted an overwhelming public interest and support for this specific bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and since, in March 2007, the New York congressional delegation did “urge that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater,” the National Park Service - as our steward - needs to find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation.

If, in the 1880s, the same rules and regulations had been applied that the National Park Service is today trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams, the Statue of Liberty would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be “mindful that boldness matches our history” (to quote Secretary Kempthorne’s opening sentence of “The Future of America’s National Parks”), and thus to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor.

Openly targeting to draw on the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to "become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours," Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a this new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center.

Furthermore, preferred Alternative D is the most expensive of all alternatives and thus proposes to spend $50-60 million in one-time capital costs plus $107-128 million in life-cycle costs to offer redundant programming to the same interest group already served by the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and other National Parks in New York Harbor.

Taking all these considerations to their logical conclusion, Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding on serving the identical interest group on Governors Island; and, in the process, cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Alternatively, that plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling a $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. To prepare the public for this scenario, the draft GMP three times states that:

"The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Servicewide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future."

Thus, despite President George W. Bush's mandate to "leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors" and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that "a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks," this draft GMP proposes yet another plan for a $100 million of federal-dollar-dependent site without a viable self-sustaining revenue source, while rejecting another exciting public-private partnership for the preservation and future life of the site.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the Monument is not just the government's responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall the further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies (taking it completely off the federal budget). Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. In the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.

The New Globe plan fills the open courtyard with the stunning auditorium that (1) preserves the three-tiered open space at the center of the structure and (2) preserves the views onto the sandstone walls through its back walls made of glass. The Draft GMP argues that "visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort's military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public" - however, the statement ignores the fact that, during the public scoping period, 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard.

Regarding public involvement, the beginning of the Executive Summary of the Draft GMP states that "this vision is the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of the NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument over the next 20 years." It is unclear how the Draft GMP "integrates the aspirations of the public", if the plan (a) ignores the congressional letter of March 2007 which requests the approval of the New Globe plan - signed by both New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, NY delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen; (b) does not acknowledge over 3,000 emails received by the National Park Service in support of the New Globe in 2007, and (c) buries the fact that about 65% called for the New Globe during the public scoping period on page 271 in the appendix?

Since the Presidential Proclamation 7402 of January 19, 2001 and 7647 of February 11, 2003 predate the New Globe proposal for Governors Island National Monument; and since, in January 2005, the widely publicized Preliminary Management Alternative B for Castle Williams was to "Rehab for Performance and Visual Arts Center" and the National Park Service ensured the public that this alternative was "consistent with federal laws, such as the National Historic Preservation Act, and with NPS policies;" and since, subsequently, the New Globe proposal has attracted an overwhelming public interest and support for this specific bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and since, in March 2007, the New York congressional delegation did "urge that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater," the National Park Service - as our steward - needs to find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation.

If, in the 1880s, the same rules and regulations had been applied that the National Park Service is today trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams, the Statue of Liberty would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be "mindful that boldness matches our history" (to quote Secretary Kempthorne's opening sentence of "The Future of America's National Parks"), and thus to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor.

I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater.

As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

The design was undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmarks experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most important, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world.

Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter.

Re: PLEASE APPROVE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument.

This innovative vision respects the site's history while achieving three vital objectives:

- * PRESERVATION OF CASTLE WILLIAMS - structurally as well as spiritually, the new Globe's architecture would show off the site in the best light;
- * PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT - through entertainment and education, showcasing history alongside Hamlet, the New Globe will infuse New York Harbor and its national parks with new life for years to come;
- * FINANCIAL SECURITY - the New Globe's philanthropic contributions coupled with the steady revenue from theater performances and operations, over and above the park's income from visitation, will breathe new (and renewable) life into the park site, the castle and the harbor for the next generation and beyond.

The New Globe proposal has generated widespread support: from the New York congressional delegation to the entertainment, media and performing arts communities; from the public at large to a host of internationally respected civic and cultural leaders. PLEASE LISTEN TO THIS GROWING CHORUS THAT FAVORS THE NEW GLOBE AND RECOGNIZE THE TRUE POTENTIAL OF CASTLE WILLIAMS AND GOVERNORS ISLAND - a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the NPS.

In his May 2007 report to the president, "The Future of America's National Parks," Interior Secretary Dirk Kempthorne asserts: "We will engage community partners to reach young people and new audiences, enriching their lives and protecting America's treasures for future generations." Here is an opportunity to build a public-private partnership with the New Globe, reach young people and new audiences, enrich their lives and protect the treasure of Castle Williams ... which currently rests dilapidated and infested with hazardous materials.

Castle Williams was constructed to defend America against the British in the War of 1812. The "New Globe for the New World" celebrates this history by creating a unique cultural center, but this time working with our former English foe to preserve America's history and celebrate our common cultural heritage. Appropriately, the center would face the "French" Statue of Liberty (similarly united with Fort Wood) as a complementary symbol of US-UK friendship.

The New Globe plan protects and preserves the 1811 fortification and interprets its role in the defense of New York Harbor and the nation within a 3,000-square-foot museum on the ground floor - highlighting the history of the harbor's forts and exploring a wide range of themes: harbor defense systems, politics, culture, history, transportation, economy, ecology and more. In this manner, the New Globe proposal adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing "an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology."

The New Globe plan fills the open courtyard with the stunning auditorium that (1)

preserves the three-tiered open space at the center of the structure and (2) preserves the views onto the sandstone walls through its back walls made of glass. The Draft GMP argues that “visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort’s military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public.” However, this statement ignores the fact that, during the public scoping period, 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard.

In March 2007, New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler, New York delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen signed a letter which requests National Park Service approval of the New Globe plan. Additionally, some 3,000 emails in support of the New Globe were received by the NPS last year.

The planned New Globe is dedicated not just to exploring the military past via exciting interpretive exhibits, workshops and seminars, but also to creating an inspiring future that celebrates cross-cultural understanding via the performing arts.

In order to provide the financial underpinnings for the operation of this museum and for the maintenance of the historic site, and in order to attract a wider, more diverse audience to national parks, the New Globe plan also incorporates the construction of a visionary theater inside the open courtyard of Castle Williams. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster (celebrated for his sensitive treatment of historic structures, such as the British Museum and the German Parliament) creates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London’s Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will operate entirely independently of the museum, restaurant and roof deck, which would remain accessible to the general public at all times.

The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity for 1,200 visitors and with 400 “groundling” tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park.

While the draft GMP rightfully thinks about Governors Island National Monument within the larger context of the National Parks of New York Harbor, the preferred Alternative D (“Harbor Center”) duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others.

Drawing from the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to “become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours,” Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center.

Furthermore, preferred Alternative D is the most expensive of all alternatives and thus proposes to spend $50-60 million in one-time capital costs plus $107-128 million in life-cycle costs to offer redundant programming to the same interest group already served by the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and other National Parks in New York Harbor.

Taking all these considerations to their logical conclusion, Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding to serve a redundant target customer base on Governors Island; in the process, it will cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Unfortunately, the NPS plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling an $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. To prepare the public for this scenario, the draft GMP three times states that: "The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Servicewide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future."

Thus, despite President George W. Bush's mandate to "leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors," and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that "a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks," THIS DRAFT GMP PROPOSES YET ANOTHER HUNDRED-MILLION-DOLLAR, FEDERAL-GOVERNMENT-DEPENDENT SITE WITHOUT A VIABLE SELF-SUSTAINING REVENUE SOURCE, WHILE REJECTING AN EXCITING, INSPIRATIONAL AND VISIONARY PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIP THAT WOULD ENSURE THE FUTURE FINANCIAL AND HISTORIC INTEGRITY OF THE PARK AND ITS RESOURCES.

Thus far - 5 years after taking over management of the site - the NPS locally has been unsuccessful in securing the federal funding needed to stabilize the decaying structure.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government's responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since New Globe will provide for operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies - thereby relieving the federal budget of an additional burden. Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. (And in the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment is earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.)

Given the New Globe proposal has attracted overwhelming public interest and support as a bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and given the New York congressional delegation's urging "that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater," I respectfully request the National Park Service - as the American public's steward - find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation to include the New Globe.

If in the 1880s the same rules and regulations that the National Park Service is trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams had been applied to the Statue of Liberty, that symbol of freedom would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be "mindful that boldness matches our history" (to quote Secretary Kempthorne's opening sentence of "The Future of America's National Parks"), and to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor - the New Globe Theater at Governors Island National Monument.

UNITED STATES ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY
REGION 2
290 BROADWAY
NEW YORK, NY 10007-1866

MAR 11 2008

Linda Neal, Superintendent
Governors Island National Monument
National Park Service
Battery Maritime Building, Slip 7

New York, New York 10004

Dear Ms. Neal:

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has reviewed the draft environmental impact statement (DEIS) for the General Management Plan for the Governors Island National Monument (CEQ # 20080008) on Governors Island in New York Harbor. This review was conducted in accordance with Section 309 of the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. 7609, and Section 102(2)(C) of the National Environmental Policy Act, 42 U.S.C. 4332(2)(C).

The DEIS presents the analysis of four alternative management plans for the Governors Island National Monument. Governors Island has played a vital role in the defense and development of New York City, and was long used by the U.S. Army and the U.S. Coast Guard. In 2001, approximately 22 acres of the 175 acre island were established as the Governors Island National Monument by Presidential Proclamation 7420. The Monument includes Castle Williams and Fort Jay, which are fine examples of defensive structures from the First and Second American Systems of Fortifications; the glacis (or grassy area) surrounding Fort Jay; the National Park Service (NPS) dock; and Building 140. The purpose of the General Management Plan is to define and describe the vision or central management philosophy for this unit within the National Park System.

The preferred alternative, designated as "Harbor Partnership," would develop the National Monument as a Harbor Center – a hub of activity for visitors wanting to explore Governors Island, New York Harbor and other harbor attractions. Fort Jay, Castle Williams, and the cultural landscape would accommodate the exhibits, activities and programming for the Harbor Center. Fort Jay would be rehabilitated to showcase and accommodate exhibits, harbor research and programs, administrative offices, and in-residence programs for NPS staff. Castle Williams would be rehabilitated to become the island's main interpretive center with a variety of exhibits, programs and installations.

While the proposed project does not present significant environmental concerns, we would like to take this opportunity to alert you to energy savings opportunities that may be considered in the implementation of the preferred alternative. A variety of energy efficient lighting products, appliances, fans, heating and cooling equipment that have received the EnergyStar label are now commercially available; these products can provide lower utility bills and help reduce green house gas emissions. More information about EnergyStar products and locations where they can be purchased can be found at: www.energystar.gov. Additionally, EPA Region 2 has established a multi-disciplinary team (or Green Team) that is well-versed in environmentally preferable design, construction and operations practices that could be implemented for projects such as the Governors Island National Monument. We would be happy to arrange for the Green Team to meet with you to discuss potential options for the project.

Based on our review, we do not anticipate that implementation of the preferred alternative will result in significant adverse impacts to the environment. Accordingly, consistent with EPA policy, we have rated this DEIS as LO, indicating that we lack objections to the project's implementation.

If you have any questions or should you like to meet with our Green Team, please call Lingard Knutson of my staff at (212) 637-3747.

SUMMARY OF RATING DEFINITIONS AND FOLLOW-UP ACTION
Environmental Impact of the Action

LO-Lack of Objections

The EPA review has not identified any potential environmental impacts requiring substantive changes to the proposal. The review may have disclosed opportunities for application of mitigation measures that could be accomplished with no more than minor changes to the proposal.

EC-Environmental Concerns

The EPA review has identified environmental impacts that should be avoided in order to fully protect the environment. Corrective measures may require changes to the preferred alternative or application of mitigation measures that can reduce the environmental impact. EPA would like to work with the lead agency to reduce these impacts.

EO-Environmental Objections

The EPA review has identified significant environmental impacts that must be avoided to provide adequate protection for the environment. Corrective measures may require substantial changes to the preferred alternative or consideration of some other project alternative (including the no action alternative or a new alternative). EPA intends to work with the lead agency to reduce these impacts.

EU-Environmentally Unsatisfactory

The EPA review has identified adverse environmental impacts that are of sufficient magnitude that they are unsatisfactory from the standpoint of environmental quality, public health or welfare. EPA intends to work with the lead agency to reduce these impacts. If the potential unsatisfactory impacts are not corrected at the final EIS stage, this proposal will be recommend for referral to the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ).

Adequacy of the Impact Statement

Category 1-Adequate

EPA believes the draft EIS adequately sets forth the environmental impact(s) of the preferred alternative and those of the alternatives reasonably available to the project or action. No further analysis or data collection is necessary, but the reviewer may suggest the addition of clarifying language or information.

Category 2-Insufficient Information

The draft EIS does not contain sufficient information for EPA to fully assess environmental impacts that should be avoided in order to fully protect the environment, or the EPA reviewer has identified new reasonably available alternatives that are within the spectrum of alternatives analyzed in the draft EIS, which could reduce the environmental impacts of the action. The identified additional information, data, analyses, or discussion should be included in the final EIS.

Category 3-Inadequate

EPA does not believe that the draft EIS adequately assesses potentially significant environmental impacts of the action, or the EPA reviewer has identified new, reasonably available alternatives that are outside of the spectrum of alternatives analyzed in the draft EIS, which should be analyzed in order to reduce the potentially significant environmental impacts. EPA believes that the identified additional information, data, analysis, or discussions are of such a magnitude that they should have full public review at a draft stage. EPA does not believe that the draft EIS is adequate for the purposes of the NEPA and/or Section 309 review, and thus should be formally revised and made available for public comment in a supplemental or revised draft EIS. On the basis of the potential significant impacts involved, this proposal could be a candidate for referral to the CEQ.

NPS Response to the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)

Thank you for your comments. The NPS is a conservation organization and the National Monument has begun to implement measures to conserve energy such as purchasing an electric vehicle and installing motion-sensitive light fixtures in its office headquarters. The implementation of the preferred alternative will further seek to use the latest in energy-saving and sustainable technologies to the greatest extent possible.

We appreciate your suggestions and will not hesitate to consult your office in the future.

Dear Ms. Neal:

Thank you for requesting the comments of the New York State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) for the draft general management plan (DGMP) for Governors Island National Monument in Manhattan. We have reviewed the DGMP in accordance with the provisions of Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 and relevant implementing regulations.

It is our understanding that Alternative D the Harbor Center, is the preferred alternative. Based upon our review, we have no concerns with the conceptual plans presented for this alternative. As this alternative is refined, we ask that the fundamental direction of the NPS at this site to preserve and protect the historic forts not be lost and that you continue to consult with our office. At this time, the DGMP does not provide our office with enough information to concur with an Effect determination. We would prefer to review effects to the historic structures when more details become available.

If you have any questions regarding this letter feel free to contact me at 518-237-8643 extension 3282. Please refer to the SHPO Project Review (PR) number in any future correspondences regarding this project.

Re: National Parks Service Draft General Management Plan for the Governors Island National Monument

The Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation ("GIPEC") is a subsidiary of the New York State Urban Development Corporation d/b/a Empire State Development Corporation ("ESDC"). ESDC is a corporate governmental agency, political subdivision and public benefit corporation of the State of New York. GIPEC is responsible for the planning, preservation, redevelopment, and ongoing operations of 150 acres of the 172 acre Governors Island. It has been charged with bringing Governors Island back to life and ensuring that it serves as a valuable asset and resource for New York City, New York State and the region.

GIPEC is committed to creating a compelling destination for New York residents and visitors and is pursuing a multi phase, mixed-use development strategy. Its current efforts include the creation of a world-class public park and promenade; expanded public access and the creation of signature early uses; the restoration of the Historic District landscape and the stabilization of historic structures under its care, and improvements to the Island's utility, transportation and marine infrastructure. These efforts contribute to the goal of bringing the island back to life with a mix of commercial and non profit tenancies in the historic structures as well as new buildings.

GIPEC supports the National Parks Service's preferred approach to managing the National Monument (Alternative D) and its vision of creating a major harbor attraction offering a variety of experiences and interpretive approaches.

GIPEC believes the most important first step for the National Park Service should be the early re-opening of Castle William to the public.

Castle Williams

GIPEC is enthusiastic about the proposed rehabilitation and reuse of Castle Williams for new activities, exhibits, programs and installations. Castle Williams should be one of the anchor attractions on Governors Island because of its spectacular location, unique architecture, and its relationship to other public amenities, such as the Great Promenade envisioned as part of GIPEC's new open spaces. The State and City of New York have invested well in excess of $100 million to date for capital improvements and operations of the island, including public access, and will continue to invest significant public funds in the park and open space, infrastructure and ongoing operations of the Island. We believe it is critical that Castle Williams be opened for public visitation and for public enjoyment as soon as possible. It is our understanding that approximately $5 million is required for necessary safety and abatement measures in order to open up the building and allow visitors to access the views of the harbor. It is also our understanding that the National Park Service recognizes the need for this investment in all of the alternatives under consideration for public comment.

GIPEC has been disappointed that such funding for the National Monument has not been included in any of NPS' five-year plans including the current one. We believe the Castle Williams renovation work should be a priority project for the Park Service and that such work be performed as a Phase One project of the GMP. Now that the NPS has issued a draft GMP and will shortly have a final GMP for the National Monument, GIPEC hopes that the GMP will help to catalyze the necessary support for this important priority. A re-opening of the Castle in time for the Harbor's Quadricentennial Celebration in 2009 would be a tremendous event for both the National Monument and the Island, as a whole. The opening of Castle William would be a great contributor to New York City and New York State's plans to commemorate Henry Hudson's discovery of the Harbor and to open up the upper Harbor of the City for waterfront recreation.

In addition to the Castle Williams rehabilitation and re-opening, GIPEC, shares many of the same interests and goals of the Park Service as described in its preferred alternative. GIPEC shares and supports many of the National Park Service's goals for the Island including:

- Preserve the National Monument's historic resources for the enjoyment of present and future generations. GIPEC agrees that these unique historic resources, as with those in its care, should be preserved and creatively programmed for the enjoyment of all.

- Offer visitors multiple and varied opportunities to explore and understand the Monument. GIPEC supports the NPS' goal of providing varied, engaging and dynamic programming and interpretive media to engage diverse visitors. GIPEC has made expanded access to the Island an immediate priority to increase visitation to and visibility of the Island.
- Operate the National Monument as part of the larger Island. GIPEC appreciates and shares the NPS's commitment to cooperation as a way to make Governors Island an educational, historic and recreational resource for the people of New York and the United States. There are numerous benefits to such Island partnerships, such as expanded marketing opportunities and greater potential for creating a coherent and recognizable identity for the Island. The Final GMP should include enough flexibility to allow for coordination with GIPEC's future Island-wide plans.

GIPEC is in the process of creating great new public open spaces and now looks forward to collaborating with NPS on finding pro-active approaches to making the Island's history come alive with fresh and engaging programming.

The one item within the preferred alternative that is problematic for GIPEC is the statement that NPS believes a proposed boundary adjustment meets the established criteria for recommendation. We disagree. The Governors Island Preservation and Design Manual provides clear guidelines to NPS and GIPEC as to the proper treatment of the historic landscape. NPS and GIPEC have collaborated closely to date on compliance issues and the appropriate treatment, preservation, and use of the glacis and will continue to do to date. Circumstances leading to the degradation of the glacis are very unlikely, and we believe that reservation of boundary adjustment rights are unnecessary and also run counter to the cooperative relationship that has developed between the parties. We respectfully request that this reservation of boundary reservation rights be removed from the Final GMP.

To conclude, GIPEC supports the preferred alternative in the NPS's Draft General Management Plan for the Governors Island National Monument, which promises to create a unique harbor destination and a great public amenity. We further support the rehabilitation and reopening of Castle Williams to the public as a first phase project.

The reawakening and creative interpretation of the Monument's historic assets is critical to the successful redevelopment of Governors Island.

NPS Response to the Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation (GIPEC)

Thank you for your comments. As described in Appendix B, “there is no evidence of inappropriate treatment of the glacial resources, and NPS and GIPEC are collaborating well to avoid conflicting use of the glacial.” NPS anticipates that collaboration to continue. However, an Analysis of Boundary Adjustment is required by Congress and must be included in all GMP/EISs. NPS planning guidance handbook, Section 4.1.4 clarifies the reasons for including boundary assessment language in the GMP; it has been included in Appendix B in the final.

Dear Superintendent Neal,

After reading and reviewing the Proposed General Management Plan for the Governors Island National Monument, I would like to take a moment to comment on the proposal. It is my belief as Taxpayer and citizen of the United States of America that it would be a great injustice to utilize the Governors Island National Monument as anything but a source for the education of the visiting public. I understand there is a proposal to develop Castle Williams into a theater to be used by the New Globe Theater. In my opinion as a taxpayer this would be tantamount to stealing from the American public. Castle Williams has stood as a beacon of freedom in New York harbor just as it is and converting the Castle into a theater will do nothing but serve to destroy America's history and the ability for the National Park Service to use the building as an educational tool.

Many men and women that served our Country proudly in many different branches of the Armed Forces served on the Island and its structures protecting our Country from invasion by sea and later to assure that people would remain safe in New York area waterways. To make Castle Williams anything but a monument to those that served would be a slap in the faces of every person that wore the uniform of the United States of America. Not only did people serve on the island, people perished there as well making the island and the structures upon it Hallowed Ground. Do the members of our Country's Armed Forces that died in and around Castle Williams deserve a Shakespearean theater as a monument to their sacrifice? Of course the answer is No.

There are other issues that are of concern within the proposal as well. It is my belief that Castle Williams, Fort Jay, the Glacis, Colonels Row and the South Battery should all be under the protection of the National Park Service. I understand that the protected area that currently exists does not encompass some of these areas but that should be changed. These additional areas deserve the protection of the Park Service for the same reasons I explained previously in the Case of Castle Williams.

The National Park Service has the ability to utilize the Governors Island National Monument for what it should be, a source in New York Harbor to educate visitors from around the world about the history of the United States of America. This opportunity may never present itself again elsewhere in the Country. Where else can you find in one area two or three different types of fortifications used throughout the history of the country? The Park Service would be able to almost tell the entire history of the Country on one island. Another point is that the New York area although rich in history is lacking in the ability for visitation to historic sites mostly due to the modernization to historic areas. The modernization and the destruction of structures on the Island, mainly Castle Williams would repeat the cycle of the removal of New York's historical footprint.

The Park Service has been given the opportunity to begin to reverse the process of destruction by turning Castle Williams and the other structures of the Island into a destination of historical education. Currently the children of New York City and the surrounding area have a limited area in which to learn via visitation, the history of the City they live in. Governors Island can fill that void. The island simply needs provisions for visitation, like facilities for educational programs, and museums in order to enhance what is already available to the Park Service on the island.

To sum up my comments as a Taxpayer, I would request that the National Park Service do everything possible to ensure the preservation of the Governors Island National Monument so that it can serve as a monument to those that served and as an educational tool for those in the future. To do anything less would be a disgrace.

Sincerely,

David J. Carlough

This letter is directed to Linda Neal of the National Park Service and other local and state officials regarding the General Management Plan for the future operations of Governors Island, New York.

In 2006 I had the privilege to once again set foot on the hallowed soil of Governors Island. It was the first time in 35 years. Literally the most fulfilling excursion of my life. I have been back three times and I am looking forward to it's opening this summer. Governors Island is a one of a kind destination. It is truly a gem in New York harbor.

I was at first saddened by the deterioration of some of the buildings. After meeting and speaking with several members of the National Park Service I knew that there was hope to preserve Governors Island and it's history. I believe it is in the best interest of Governors Island and New York to adopt alternative plan D of the General Management Plan.

Furthermore I would request that the National park service expand it's control to include the glaxis, the South Battery, St. Cornelius chapel, Nolan Park, Colonels Row, and Liggett Hall so that all of the islands history be preserved.

Lastly I have a comment on the globe theater proposal. Page 54 of the General Management plan states that "the new globe theater proposal has been eliminated from further consideration by the NPS." I am told that 90% of the speakers at the march 10, 2008 hearing were speaking on behalf of the theater proposal. I would hope that this proposal has no life left in it. While there might be a place on the island for this theater, it most certainly cannot be allowed to desecrate a national monument or historic district.

I appreciate having an opportunity to express my opinion on these matters. Thank you to the National Park Service for all their efforts to preserve this gem.

Dear Superintendent Neal:

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the Draft General Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement (GMP) for Governors Island National Monument.

These are the comments of The Coalition of National Park Service Retirees. We are over 640 former employees of the National Park Service with a combined 19,000 years of stewardship of America’s most precious natural and cultural resources. Our members now strive to apply their credibility and integrity as they speak out for national park solutions that uphold law and apply sound science. Our members also support the mission of the National Park Service through public education.

Park Purposes and the Proper Management of Governors Island National Monument:

Our primary concern regarding the GMP is the integrity of Governors Island N.M. as a unit of the National Park System. Inappropriate development or management would compromise both the National Monument and be a threatening precedent for any national park. Governors Island N.M. must be managed, operated and developed in complete accord with its purposes as provided when the area was established, and in accord with the law and policy well established for units of the National Park System.

Castle Williams and Fort Jay were set aside in law for protection by the National Park Service because they are two of the finest historic structures of their type in New York or the Nation. When Presidents Clinton and then Bush established Governors Island National Monument, Castle Williams and Fort Jay were identified as the primary park features within the National Monument.

They were cited as outstanding historic structures, located in the most strategic place in New York Harbor, with a great story to tell visitors about strategic and ecological importance. Castle Williams was also the first such fortification designed and built by an American, the brilliant Jonathan Williams. In addition to being the finest example of its type in the Nation, it represents the absolute priority America placed on the importance of New York and New York Harbor.

In other words, Fort Jay and Castle Williams are not just any military installation, but like all national parks, are of special national significance, and are to be managed for their own sake as a unit of the National Park System.

Any visitor should have the complete opportunity to explore Castle Williams, hear its story, and see from the rooftop the spectacular views of New York and New York Harbor. This would be an important lesson of the interrelationship of geography and strategy, of geology and commerce and ecology, and a Sense of Place. Amid spectacular views, this visitor would understand immediately how important New York and New York Harbor was and is to the Nation.

Management Alternatives:

Alternatives B, C and D all are appropriate and feasible, and all three are consistent with all applicable NPS law and policy, and we have no objection to any of them or any combination of them. We support the NPS Preferred Alternative, Alternative D: Harbor Partnership because, when clarified, it would best accomplish the National Monument purposes. The Harbor Partnership narration should be strengthened by better emphasizing the power and significance of PLACE in the establishment of the National Monument and in its legislative history, such as in NPS congressional testimony that served as the context for Proclamation language.

For action common to all alternatives, NPS is correct to remove non-contributing structures or structural elements as described, because currently they compromise the purpose of the National Monument and the visitor experience.

Similarly, it is not appropriate to permit these primary historic structures to continue to deteriorate. Action is necessary now to stabilize and eliminate the hazmat on Castle Williams. If the public would be able to experience Castle Williams in short order, as portrayed in the DOI Press release accompanying President Bush's Proclamation, a much larger public would be able to appreciate the value of the National Monument just by standing on top of Castle Williams and appreciating that this is the best view anywhere of New York. That view includes Manhattan, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Hudson River, the Statue of Liberty, New York Harbor and much more. (This strategic location is the reason Castle Williams is here in the first place, and the public should be able to appreciate and enjoy it!)

Cooperative Management, Quitclaim Deed and Boundary:

The relationship between GIPEC and the NPS should be expanded and strengthened throughout this document. It is unclear what the role of the NPS/Secretary should be in enforcing the Deed and other transfer agreements, and how and when the NPS should be prepared to do so. Proper monitoring and managing of NPS responsibilities should be better reflected in this document. Otherwise, it is likely the public interest in protecting the landscape immediately adjacent to the park will be neglected. There is ambiguity as to how well protected NHL features are, such as the parade ground. Because the GMP implies the parade ground should be considered for inclusion in the boundary if not properly protected, criteria should be clearer if that protection mechanism exists or how it works. How would the NPS have time to obtain authority to protect the whole parade ground if threatened? On the other hand, NPS and the Secretary want to avoid monitoring Deed enforcement in such a way that complicates or ensnares GIPEC's work or cause the NPS/Secretary to overstep its role. A solution for both parties, to enhance both GIPEC and NPS operation and further build a cooperative and synergistic relationship, would be a clear operations agreement to address all these issues.

Alternatives Considered but Eliminated from Further Study:

We strongly support eliminating from further study the three proposals; Proposal One, The New Globe Theater: Establish a Performing Arts Center Inside Castle Williams and Fort Jay; Proposal Two, Establish and Operate an Army Museum within Castle Williams, and, Proposal Three, Restore the Golf Course.

The New Globe Shakespearean Theater:

Inasmuch as the New Globe Theater is being strongly promoted by a self-constituted group to take over, redevelop and manage Castle Williams and Fort Jay, and has cited the names of many celebrities and former political officials as supporters of the proposal, further comment is warranted. Shakespearean theater in itself is, of course, laudable, but the question is, is the New Globe Theater as proposed appropriate in this National Park System unit?

The proposal to take over Castle Williams and convert it into a Shakespearean theater and Fort Jay into housing for theater actors and their families would seriously impair these historic structures and their purposes, and are inappropriate.

Installing a full-time Shakespearean theater and theater administration in this National Monument would violate the National Park Service responsibility to properly protect and interpret these forts according to the law. The primary park features would be managed for purposes unrelated to park purposes, and unrelated to the national significance of the site or appropriate visitor use.

A Shakespearean theater does not need to be built within this national park, as there are numerous other appropriate sites elsewhere on Governors Island and other places in New York.

Taking over a national park for such purposes unrelated to the park would be a terrible precedent for Governors Island and for every park within the National Park System nationwide.

In recent years the NPS has been besieged by improper proposals to convert management or use of a national park for special interest or for private purposes. For example, we have seen a state push to take over the operation of Grand Canyon National Park, thereby undermining the Act of 1916 that establishes the National Park Service specifically to provide stewardship and management of parklands. We have seen private or special interests seek to require Yellowstone National Park to permit snowmobiling, thus undermining the health of the park and of the visitors, and compromising the experience of visitors who come to enjoy Yellowstone in accordance with its purposes.

There may always be the danger that some people want to convert the magnificent resources in our national parks for their special interest uses or revenue production. However, the NPS should not permit this at Governors Island National Monument or any national park.

The Draft GMP is correct to state that park visitation "would essentially be pre-empted" by the theater as proposed, and the Coalition of National Park Service Retirees strongly recommends this analysis not be compromised in the final document.

We believe the proposed Shakespearean theater and its entire infrastructure would constitute "impairment" both visually and physically as addressed in the Act of 1916. The design would overwhelm the beauty and meaning of Castle Williams. This spectacular facility would completely undermine the visitor's appreciation of the National Monument. In explaining the Act of 1916 and the Act of 1970, as amended, the NPS Management Policies, 2006 identify the essence of the problem of this proposal when they state:

At the heart of these laws is the principle of conserving the natural and cultural resources and values for which a park has been set aside – its purpose and raison d'etre – for the enjoyment of the people of the United States and its future generations 'in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired.' (Section 1.4.1; Emphasis Added)

By definition this Shakespearean theater proposal is intended to, and would have the effect of redirecting the park purpose AWAY from the legal purposes establishing the National Monument.

In fact, the New Globe website and the New Globe advocates, at the March 10 public hearing, specifically state that the purpose of Castle Williams should be redirected away from "military" and strategic issues and commemoration. A change in purpose of a national park can only be made by the Congress. Taken as a whole the proposal violates numerous citations of law, regulation, Management Policies, Director's Orders and the Quitclaim Deed, and we would be happy to provide references if the NPS so requests.

Included in these violations is the consideration of what would constitute an appropriate agreement or lease for third-party management or partner. The Director's Order specifically states:

Historic structures may be assigned to other entities through leases, permits, or concession agreements if there are no feasible NPS uses. (NPS 28.8.C2, Emphasis Added.)

Clearly this standard is not met in the case of Governors Island National Monument. Alternatives B, C and D are all fully feasible NPS uses, and unlike the Shakespearean theater proposal, all would be consistent with park purposes.

Appropriate partnership is further clarified by the NPS Management Policies, 2006:

Proposed uses must not unduly limit public appreciation of the property; interfere with visitor use and enjoyment of the park; or preclude use of the property for park administration. . .
(Section 5.3.3)

As we have explained above, the theater as proposed would completely compromise the visitor appreciation of the park and its purposes, and would eliminate space for necessary park operations.

It is inappropriate for the NPS to consider a proposal to redevelop Castle Williams for purposes that would compromise the cultural resource and park purposes, from an organization with no track record and with no partnership agreement with the park. NPS should never consider developing such an agreement without competition. There is no justification for a sole-source. Even if some similar agreement were appropriate, competition would permit the NPS to thoroughly vet the capacities of the competing organization(s) involved, require feasibility analyses, and make a decision or select an appropriate vendor in the public interest, with defined criteria centered on park purposes.

Our observation is that successful partnerships begin at the park level, as developed and supported by the park superintendent. They are developed symbiotically, with great respect for the needs of each party, but in full recognition of the laws and policies governing the National Park System. Parties seeking to be a partner of the NPS do not try to force the hand of the superintendent, or reach above or complicate the integrity of a superintendent, but would first develop a mutual understanding – a win-win relationship – at the park level.

To put it plainly, this proposal would take over a National Park System unit for private purposes. The proposal has no relationship to U.S. heritage or history. It would be havoc to the integrity of the National Park System.

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

Comments on the National Park Service draft General Management Plan

First let me identify myself. I am the daughter of a U.S. Army officer stationed on Governors Island, where I lived with my parents and siblings, from 1951-1953. More recently I visited the Island in 2005 and again in 2007. I remain very interested in the future of Governors Island.

Second, I need to tell you that I find it very difficult to respond to the NPS proposals for the Island because they are, of necessity, limited to that part of Governors Island which has been designated as a National Monument. As I said, I am concerned about the entire island

Of the 4 alternatives I prefer B: Governors Island History Center. The National Park Service has much experience developing and managing historical sites and can do that very well. I believe this would attract many New York residents as well as tourists; people are attracted to the unknown and Governors Island has been an "off-limits" attraction for years. Collaboration with GIPEC is essential. I hope this would include the rehabilitation and opening to the public of homes in Nolan Park (buildings 2 through 20); as well as the NPS plan of opening the Commanding Officer's residence (bldg 1) to the public. I find it regrettable that the South Battery/Officers' Club was not included in the National Monument. I hope this is an oversight that the NPS is working to correct.

I understand that the NPS recommends developing a "Harbor Center" approach for the Governors Island National Monument. I think this would completely destroy the unique, 300 year history of this island. The problems with this approach are many including financing long-term from unspecified partners who may or may not share the NPS vision; rehabilitating and changing the functions of 1812 Fort Jay and prison/Castle Williams to become research and interpretative centers. A better idea might be to build on the "landfill" part of the Island buildings designed for this purpose, or transfer the Harbor Partnership concept to Ellis or Liberty Island. The NPS believes this "Harbor Center" would draw more visitors than other alternatives; I suggest that the "state of the art" park planned on the Island will do that and more, regardless of the plan for the Governors Island National Monument. The trick may be to structure the National Monument buildings and activities in such a way that the public is able to enjoy and learn from them without destroying Governors Island in the process.

Please, treat the area of Governors Island from the ferry landing to Division Row as a historic community to be restored and treasured. Thank you for consideration of these comments. I shall follow your decisions with great interest.

Dear Ms. Neal:

Our West Point Society of New York just learned of an endeavor by New Group Theater of New York City to convert Castle Williams on Governors Island from its current status as a National Monument to a Shakespearean theater. This is totally contrary to the mission and purpose of the National Monument. We are the Alumni organization of the United States Military Academy Graduates, founded in 1926. Our membership varies by active duty requirements, but has reached 1,000 at one time and we are one of the two largest USMA Societies, and our programs reach all of West Point's 2,400 alumni in the New York metropolitan area. Our members represent every profession and many businesses in New York. Last Friday 400 guests joined us and Justice Scalia at our Annual Dinner in NYC. One of our Officer/Directors died on 9/11, and some are now deployed overseas. We oppose any such use of Castle Williams other than as a National Monument under the auspices of the National Park Service.

Our official history indicates that in 1965 "The Society underwent another period of rapid growth; headquarters were moved from the military establishment on Governors Island (to Manhattan)." I remember that in the late 70's and 80's we often had WPSNY Board meetings on Governors Island. In fact, we also used the Officers Club there for our Annual Founders Day Dinner. Often the event included a visit to Castle Williams, named for Jonathon Williams, who was West Point's first graduate, in 1802. Williams subsequently served as Superintendent of West Point, a post held by the likes of Robert E. Lee, Douglas MacArthur and William Westmoreland. This 82-year association with Governors Island, we submit, makes the West Point Society of New York very qualified to address the issue of whether Castle Williams remains a National Monument.

We have reviewed the National Park Service (NPS) draft General Management Plan (GMP) and the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for Governors Island National Monument, and fully support the NPS in its mission for the future of the National Monument. The historic fortifications of Castle Williams and Fort Jay "are among the best remaining examples of early American costal fortifications." Additionally, the 22-acre National Monument site, upon which these two forts are situated, offers the National Park Service exceptional opportunities to further develop the National Monument site for the benefit of the public. Visitors to the National Monument have increased every year since the National Monument was established by Presidential Proclamation on 1/31/2003. The NPS anticipates that visitors will increase to 500k over time excluding persons who visit other parts of the island. This NPS projection is dependent upon public financing and acceptance of one of its GMP/EIS alternative proposals. The remaining 150 acres of Governors Island, excluding the 22-acre National Monument, will be "developed" under direction of a City-State Partnership.

The aspirations of the New Group Theater are admirable, but there are numerous other sites available to them, both on the remaining 150 acres of Governors Island, or in New York City. The National Monument is absolutely not the appropriate place for such an endeavor.

The West Point Society of New York, therefore, very strongly supports the National Monument under the continuing auspices of the National Park Services. I have been authorized to send this letter by the President of the West Point Society of New York.

Dear Superintendent Neal:

West Point graduates served on Governor's Island from the Academy's earliest days until the military left Governors Island late in the twentieth century. Castle Williams is named in memory of Colonel Jonathan Williams, the first commander of the Army Corps of Engineers (and Superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy) but also a dynamic leader in the early days of the design and construction of American coastal defenses. Williams and his students built generations of fortifications from Maine to Alaska, and you are preserving two of the few remaining jewels of those systems in Castle Williams and Fort Jay.

I know you are now involved in planning the future of the National Monument. Preservation and interpretation at Fort Jay and Castle Williams will be a part of any alternative you choose, and your stewardship in maintaining these two fine examples of early coast defense fortifications is much appreciated.

Some Association of Graduates members have heard of an initiative aimed to transform Castle Williams into a Shakespearean theater. A "New Globe Theater" can be built anywhere and can be built far closer to original specifications if it is constructed for that purpose. To attempt to transform one of the few remaining early fortifications for such a use would be totally inappropriate. West Point graduates and their friends look forward to visiting Governors Island to learn more about our military heritage. They have plenty of other places to go for theatrical entertainment. We will strongly support your efforts to defeat this ill-advised "New Globe Theater" concept.

This action

Dear Superintendent Neal:

The New York Times carried an interesting feature on Governors Island a few weeks ago. Those of us who are telling the "Army Story" are pleased with the prospect of many visitors having access to that wonderful site. I know the National Park Service will do a great job of interpreting the stories of the generations of Soldiers whose service had links to Castle Williams and Fort Jay.

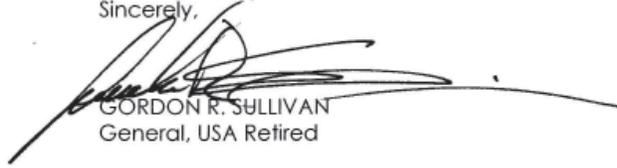

I know you are now involved in planning the future of the National Monument. Preservation and interpretation at Fort Jay and Castle Williams will be a part of any alternative you choose, and your stewardship in maintaining these two fine examples of early coast defense fortifications is much appreciated.

Here at AUSA we are equally interested in the history of Governors Island after the fortifications became obsolete. In the years after the Civil War, commanders included Major Generals Winfield Scott Hancock, Phil Sheridan, John Schofield, O.O. Howard, Nelson Miles, and Wesley Merritt. Major General William Shafter commanded during the Spanish American War, and Arthur MacArthur assumed command when he returned from the Philippines. Generals Leonard Wood, Tasker Bliss, and J. Franklin Bell all commanded in the years before the United States entered World War I, and Generals Robert Bullard, Charles Summerall, Hanson Ely, and Hugh Drum were among the commanders in the inter-war years. General Courtney Hodges redeployed the First Army Headquarters to Governors Island when World War II ended. There's an enormous amount of Army history tied up in your National Monument, and we are reassured by your work to preserve and interpret it.

Some AUSA members are concerned by an initiative aimed to transform Castle Williams into a Shakespearean theater. I know the National Park Service would not support such an initiative since it is contrary to your purpose and mission at the National Monument. A "New Globe Theater" can be built anywhere and can be built far closer to original specifications if it is constructed for that purpose. To attempt to transform one of the few remaining early fortifications for such a use would be inappropriate, and I will support all National Park Service efforts to resist such folly.

Dear Superintendent Neal:

The stewardship the National Park Service has brought to bear on Governors Island since the National Monument was created is deeply appreciated by all of us who are dedicated to the history of the American Soldier. The partnership you have created with the state and city government should result in the development of great public spaces elsewhere on the island while preserving the heritage within the Park boundary. I worry that many members of the public do not understand that partnership or appreciate the fact that the National Park Service mission and purpose within the boundary are well defined and will result in the preservation and protection of Castle Williams and Fort Jay while interpreting them and their contribution to the nation.

Your plans for preservation within that boundary are laudable. I fully agree with the plan to remove the later construction that hampers the viewshed around Castle Williams. The plan to remove the parking lot and establish an appropriate pedestrian walkway between Castle Williams and Fort Jay will add immensely to the interpretive power of the site. Removing the remnants of the golf course and restoring the glacial in that area will also improve our ability to understand the military use of the island.

I have reviewed the new General Management Plan quite carefully. I am gratified to see that the preservation/interpretation mission for Castle Williams and Fort Jay will be supported by all courses of action considered in the plan. I strongly support your preferred alternative, "Harbor Partnership." If the National Park Service can be a leader in that approach a far greater number of visitors can be exposed to the unique heritage of Governors Island, and you will be encouraged to tell the broadest possible story of military service in the New York City area down through the centuries. Governors Island is the only remaining site in the harbor where that important task can be performed.

Thank you for including and discussing some ideas that could not be considered as alternatives. Our Foundation supports the Army Museum system, and you have properly presented the reasons the Army cannot establish or maintain a museum on Governors Island. At the same time, you have made it clear that documents, art, and artifacts from the Army's collection can be loaned to the National Park Service—a relationship that has been helpful in many of our National Military Parks for decades. You were also right to dismiss the idea of maintaining a golf course or transforming Castle Williams into a Shakespearean theater. The former would be a minor distraction inappropriate to the mission. The latter would be absolutely contrary to the mission and purpose of the National Monument and obviously cannot be considered. I fully support the reasoning against the New Globe Theater that is set forth in the General Management Plan.

Castle Williams and Fort Jay are two of the finest examples of defensive structures erected in the early decades of our Republic. They formed a foundation for nearly two centuries of military presence in New York Harbor. Your plans to preserve them are laudable and have my full support.

Dear Superintendent Neal:

Our organization exists to help educate the American public on the history and heritage of the American Soldier. The National Park Service has long been a major partner in that effort in many venues. Yours is one of the newest, but it has enormous potential because of its location and the unique architectural artifacts it contains.

I know you are now involved in planning the future of the National Monument. Preservation and interpretation at Fort Jay and Castle Williams will be a part of any alternative you choose, and your stewardship in maintaining these two fine examples of early coast defense fortifications is much appreciated.

Some of our Foundation members have become concerned by an initiative aimed to transform Castle Williams into a Shakespearean theater. I know the National Park Service would not support such an initiative since it is contrary to your purpose and mission at the National Monument. A "New Globe Theater" can be built anywhere and can be built far closer to original specifications if it is constructed for that purpose. To attempt to transform one of the few remaining early fortifications for such a use would be totally inappropriate, and I will support all National Park Service efforts to resist such challenges to the preservation of our nation's military heritage.

Sincerely,

Mike Perry

Dear Linda,

My daughter, Zoe, and I were fascinated by the hearing last night on the proposals for the Governor's Island programming, as outlined in the four various plans. We were also quite taken with the opinions expressed by the New Globe Theatre group. As a passionate preservationist, I well understand your authority as a National Parks Service employee to care for the physical plant, as well as the historical import, attached to the two forts on the island, particularly Castle William. It is too bad that somehow the theatre idea could not come to fruition, or be considered as part of Governor's Island future plans somehow. But you heard everything last night, and I sympathize with the dilemma you face, especially as it would appear that the Parks Service was against Shakespeare, himself.

I enjoyed the London Globe theatre, as a new structure in London, having gone to see a production of Julius Caesar there in 1999. It certainly was not in the most accessible area of London, yet people seemed to flock there. It was quite a contained unit, not spilling out to the street at all and giving the quite distinct feeling of the 16th century open theatre. The night we attended, the standing audience was forced to use umbrellas due to the rain. It was a unique theatre experience. I could not help but think of loads of people coming by ferry to see the productions on Governors Island, which I would assume would be held in the summer.

I just want to say that without the consideration of the New Globe theatre, I believe that Plan D would certainly be more relevant to a contemporary crowd. The focus on the harbor opens up the possible programs to a more varied group and is a logical way to integrate the island with the other island monuments, both geographically and historically. I am assuming also that the art programs we sponsor at the National Academy School of Fine Arts, using the great facilities of Governors Island, would still be open to us. I enclose your interest a summer catalogue, with an image by Kamilla Talbot, of the harbor, and the skyline, as painted from the island!!! I thought you would like to see how wonderful it looks.

Thank you, Linda, s for all the work you do for the island and the efforts on behalf of the citizens of this city and country.

All the best, and it was good to see you last night.

Dear Director Reynolds:

After carefully reviewing the National Parks Service (NPS) General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument, I am writing to urge you to reconsider the conclusions presented in that document. The New Globe Theater is a far more appropriate and attractive use than any of the four alternatives presented. Additionally, the rationales for eliminating the New Globe from consideration (pages 159-165) seem thin and subjective and appear to have been addressed very well by the New Globe proposal. The fact that the project brings money for the restoration and will create its own revenue for future programming is no small consideration. Given the overwhelming popularity of this proposed project, it appears to me that the NPS has been given a public mandate, and I urge you to heed it.

The reversible adaptive reuse of Castle Williams, as designed by Lord Norman Foster, will protect, not damage the historic fabric of the building. A space in the design is dedicated to a museum about the castle and its role in the history of the harbor. The proposed education program is vibrant and exciting. This use, much more than the four proposed by NPS, seems much more likely to attract a high volume of visitorship to the monument. I remain committed to the mandate to preserve and celebrate the rich history of the island, and feel that this project in conjunction with other activities elsewhere on the island would be most effective.

Now, we have an opportunity to act boldly and create something truly amazing. The New Globe is that project and I urge you to reconsider reinstating the New Globe, not only as an alternative, but as the preferred choice for renovating and refurbishing Castle Williams on Governor's Island

Very truly yours,

Alan J. Gerson

Dear Linda,

I felt privileged to attend the Public Hearing on Governors Island General Management Plan (GMP) and Environmental impact Statement (EIS) on March 10 at Federal Hall, Manhattan.

Let me second the praise for the magnificently detailed and visually sensitive Plan Book(Summer 2007).

You may not remember that I proposed a Museum of Military History on Governors Island in August, 2006. Your response led me to conclude that there would be little chance to consider this idea with the limited funds at your disposal.

I spent all of the year 2007 trying to convince Leslie Koch and the 5 design group finalist to incorporate this Museum plan into their proposals. As you know GIPEC is proceeding with a very modest implementation of the first phase of the approved design.

I am once more turning my efforts back to you as Superintendent of The National Monument.

Enclosed is a modified plan which I hope you would incorporate into your ALTERNATIVE B - HISTORY CENTER with a greater emphasis on American and New York Military History.

Five pages of Exhibit Themes are attached to give you a sense of why the focus should be on Military and not on superfluous themes which might be better handled by GIPEC; such as artistic and musical performances, ecology and harbor development and marine biology.

It is important that Americans do not deny or forget the heroism of all our military, past present and future.

My formal proposal is included. It stresses the "WHYS" of the need.

Good luck with your final choice which will guide you in the management of the Monument for the next 15 to 20 years.

Sincerely,

Ralph Casado

FORT JAY MUSEUM OF AMERICAN MILITARY HISTORY Governors Island National Monument

Here are some of my thoughts about the look and feel of the museum that are based on my research of the new Marine Corps Museum in Quantico Virginia, The International Spy Museum in Washington and The New York State National Purple Heart Hall of Honor which opened November 2007.

A meandering stone wall leads to the Atrium entrance of a glass walled star-shaped structure over old fort Jay with panoramic views of lower Manhattan, The Statue of Liberty and the great bridges of Brooklyn.

The ticketing area has a wall size plan of the various galleries clearly indicated and animated by a cinematic collage of visuals depicting the contents of each gallery.

Outside, on the manicured grounds, are areas for picnic and food kiosks as well as toilet facilities with handicap access.

A visit to Governors Island can be an experience that lasts for 3 or more hours. Visitors will board rolling sight seeing trams that cover the highlights of The National Monument narrated by National Park Service Guides.

INTERVIEW WITH THEN DEPUTY MAYOR DAN DOCTOROFF

METRO New York- September 5, 2006

MICHAEL R. VENTURA

QUESTION: “What will the city look like 10 years from now?”

DAN DOCTOROFF

ANSWER: “...It will look completely different... You will see some of the greatest architectural landmarks anywhere in the world. You will see a new era of public facilities-like stadiums or transportation infrastructure. You will see a city that will get close to 50 million visitors with dozens of new hotels accommodating them... This is one of the most important times from a development standpoint in New York City history.”

A WINDOW OF OPPORTUNITY

In 2003 The United States Government sold Governors Island to New York State for $1.00. It is 172 acres in size.

That year The Governors Island National Monument was transferred to The Department of The Interior and is now managed by The National Park Service. It is 22 acres in size. Its Superintendent is Linda Neal.

The National Park Service is soon to put in place A General Management Plan (GMP) and Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) which will guide the management of the Monument for the next 15 to 20 years.

In 2004 The City and State of New York formed Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation (GIPEC). Its President is Leslie Koch. GIPEC was charged with redeveloping the 150 acres surrounding The National Monument.

WHY A MUSEUM OF AMERICAN MILITARY HISTORY?

As a college professor, teaching for the past 15 years, I have found an appalling lack of knowledge among students about the most important events in the history of The United States.

Our high schools have failed miserably in telling students how past generations have fought to protect our cherished freedoms.

The Museum of American Military History will teach that history and communicate the value of patriotism.

"Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes"

WILLIAM PRESCOT, Bunker Hill, Boston - 1775

WHY NOW?

We are engaged in a war like one we have never known; against an unseen foe who can and has attacked anytime, anywhere, against anyone, as was horribly demonstrated in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania on September 11, 2001.

This war began much earlier. The World Trade Center was attacked for the first time in 1993. The Marine Barracks in Beirut were attacked, The U.S. Embassies in Africa were attacked, the USS Cole was struck, the US Army barracks in Saudi Arabia were attacked. These brutal and unprovoked acts continued into the present, when the Madrid Railway was attacked and when The London Underground and a bus were also attacked.

*"These are the times that try men's souls.
The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will,
in this crisis shrink from the service of their country;
but he that stands by it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman..."*

THOMAS PAINE, "The Crisis", - 1776

WHY HERE?

THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION (1775 -1783)

New York City was the site of the first and largest battles of The American Revolution. Many patriot prisoners languished and died aboard a rotting ship commanded by the British in New York Harbor. Their bones washed up on our city's shores and are now interred in a little visited Monument in Fort Green Park, Brooklyn. After the war Manhattan was the fledgling nation's first capital.

Governors Island is the site of Fort Jay, built to withstand a British attack on New York during The War of 1812.

THE CIVIL WAR (1860-1865)

New York regiments played a crucial role during the Civil War. New Yorkers like Walt Whitman, America's poet, ventured south to help tend the wounded. Brooklyn's Monument to The Grand Army of the Republic, arguably even more impressive than The Washington Square monument in Manhattan, is barely noticed by passersby.

"From the halls of Montezuma, to the shores of Tripoli we fight our countries battles on the land as on the sea..."

MARINE HYMN - 1847

WHY HERE?..

SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR (1898)

The great New Yorker, Teddy Roosevelt, formed his “Rough Riders” and rode off to fame and glory at the battle of San Juan Hill in Santiago de Cuba.

WORLD WAR I (1914-1919)

The City was the departure point for “doughboys” who went “OVER THERE” to help end the war.

A statue of Father Duffy, Chaplain for The Fighting 69th Regiment, stands in Manhattan as do many other regimental memorials

Sergeant Alvin York, originally a conscientious objector fought in “The War to end wars” and was credited with killing 25 German soldiers and capturing 132 others. He earned The Congressional Medal of Honor and was given a ticker tape parade by a grateful New York City.

WORLD WAR II(1941-1945)

Once again the city was the last stop for GI’s shipping out to fight the fascists in Europe and Africa. Today, a USO facility still exists on Lexington Avenue to comfort today’s men and women in the military who are far away from home.

“Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead!..”

ADMIRAL FARRAGUT, BATTLE OF MOBILE BAY - 1864

WHY HERE?..

KOREAN WAR (1950-1953)

An unexpected invasion by North Korea into the sovereign nation of South Korea prompted UN and US action. New York Congressman Charles Rangel, in the Army at that time, earned both a Bronze Star and a Purple Heart.

That conflict has yet to be resolved by all the nations concerned.

VIETNAM (1962-1975)

The city has experienced the confused patriotism of this controversial conflict.

DESERT STORM (1990-1991)

In honoring our troops when they returned to New York americans came to terms with our military and its role in preserving another nation's sovereignty.

IRAQ WAR (Today)

Our troops need our support, more than ever.

Dear Mr. Casado:

Thank you for writing my office regarding your proposal to build a museum on Governor's Island chronicling the illustrious history of the New York State military.

In short, I think you have a great idea to use this space for a military museum. Few sites on American soil have experienced military action seen on Governor's Island. This site, currently not being properly used, has been the topic of much discussion about how to best redevelop it.

Pursuing this museum will not be an easy task, however. There are many stakeholders that wish to use this space for different purposes. I urge you to keep up your advocacy and write to other elected representatives to propose this idea for Governor's Island.

Thanks again for your letter, and keep up the good work.

Dear Mr. Casado,

I am writing to express my enthusiastic support for your proposed Governors Island Museum of American Military History. New York City has played a vital national role in all of America's wars, and Governors Island—the country's longest continuously operated military base, when it closed in 1996—makes a fitting site for telling the story of the armed forces.

In The Battle for New York: The City at the Heart of the American Revolution, I show how the city became the pivot on which the Revolutionary War turned, after the British captured it in 1776, and George Washington spent the next seven years trying to take it back. Governors Island, because of its strategic position at the mouth of the East River, played a critical role in saving the Continental Army from destruction after the Battle of Brooklyn, the first battle in U.S. history—the first battle after the Declaration of Independence. In The Devil's Own Work: The Civil War Draft Riots and the Fight to Reconstruct America, I describe New York City's role not only as the financial, commercial, and industrial hub of the Union, but as the nexus of the northern and southern states. Because of the city's strong commercial ties to the Cotton Kingdom, the riots that erupted in July 1863—still ranked as the deadliest in American history—reflected the polarizing issues of the larger war between the North and South. Governors Island served as an arms depot and gathering point for the troops who saved the city from total destruction during the riots.

Today, at a time in our history when there is no draft, an all-volunteer force shoulders the burden of military service. Instead of the Founders' ideal of having citizen-soldiers drawn broadly from the society at all levels, we have a growing cultural gap between the bulk of the population and the professional force that carries out the necessary and dangerous work of national defense. The need for a cultural institution that will teach the general public about the history of the armed forces, and about what they do today, has never been greater. There is much rhetoric today about supporting the troops; telling their story directly, without jingoism or propaganda, will be sufficient to demonstrate their essential role in American history and will at least be a small step to honoring their service.

Sincerely,

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In his May 2007 report to the president, The Future of America's National Parks, Interior Secretary Dirk Kempthorne asserts: "We will engage community partners to reach young people and new audiences, enriching their lives and protecting America's treasures for future generations." Here is an opportunity to build a public-private partnership with the New Globe, reach young people and new audiences, enrich their lives and protect the treasure of Castle Williams ... which still rests dilapidated and infested with hazardous materials after five years of NPS management.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing "an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology" by restoring Castle Williams to its 1811 glory and interpreting its role in the defense of New York Harbor and the nation within a prominent 3,000-square-foot museum on the ground floor.

The New Globe plan also features the construction of a visionary theater inside the empty, open courtyard – a reversible, non-invasive design which would not harm the historic structure. This cultural center would provide a viable self-sustaining revenue source to provide for the rehabilitation and maintenance of the monument; would attract a much wider audience of all demographics to the National Parks of New York Harbor; and, last but not least, would recast a reminder of UK-US military animosity into an international icon of friendship, complementary to the French Statue of Liberty.

The New Globe's innovative design by Lord Norman Foster would secure the historic integrity of the fort while allowing for an adaptive reuse with a world of benefits – thus, more than any other alternative, fulfilling the NPS mission of preservation and public engagement.

This innovative vision respects the site's history while achieving three vital objectives:

- PRESERVATION OF CASTLE WILLIAMS - structurally as well as spiritually, the New Globe's architecture would show off the site in the best light;
- PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT - through entertainment and education, showcasing history alongside Hamlet, the New Globe will attract a wider and more diverse audience and infuse New York Harbor and its national parks with new life for years to come;
- FINANCIAL SECURITY - the New Globe's philanthropic contributions coupled with the steady revenue from theater performances and operations, over and above the park's income from visitation, will breathe new (and renewable) life into the park site, the castle and the harbor for the next generation and beyond.

The New Globe proposal has generated widespread support: from the New York congressional delegation to the entertainment, media and performing arts communities; from the public at large to a host of internationally respected civic, cultural, and business leaders. Please heed the growing chorus that favors the New Globe and recognize the true potential of Castle Williams and Governors Island – a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the NPS.

We request that you fulfill public aspirations and reconsider the General Management Plan (GMP) for Governors Island National Monument.

IGNORING PUBLIC ASPIRATIONS

In the Executive Summary, the Draft GMP states that the proposed vision is “the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of the NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument over the next 20 years.” However, when examining public involvement from 2003 to 2007, it becomes apparent that the Draft GMP has disregarded the aspirations of the public and the public process has been compromised.

The Draft GMP names the key stages of the public involvement and civic engagement as: (1) initial public scoping meetings; (2) development of preliminary alternatives; and (3) development of refined alternatives.

(1) Initial Public Scoping Meetings:

In November 2003, the NPS held first public meetings in Manhattan and Brooklyn to acquaint the general public and interested organizations with the new National Monument and the GMP planning process. After meetings with GIPEC staff and their consultants, open meetings with three community boards and other regulatory agencies, “a park planning workshop, held by the Governors Island Alliance, GIPEC’s open houses, and consultations with NPS leadership helped to further refine the alternatives.” (p. 250)

However, the Draft GMP does not include the findings of the park planning workshop held on June 12th, 2004, which brought together 150 park activists, community representatives, design and park professionals (though it includes a photo from the workshop on page 20). The Governors Island Alliance and the Regional Plan Association – which convened the full-day workshop – published the findings in their report, New York’s Next Great Place: Governors Island Park Planning Workshop. On page 7, the findings clearly state: “A military museum/history center could be located in Fort Jay to serve school groups and adults with a performance space in Castle Williams for performances and gatherings.”

Furthermore, the park planning workshop concluded that: “Historical reenactments of the type seen in Colonial Williamsburg are not appropriate for the Island.” (Please compare to photograph on page 12 of the Draft GMP.)

(2) Development of Preliminary Alternatives:

The public process continued, according to the Draft GMP, as follows: “a second newsletter, distributed to a growing mailing list, summarized the concerns heard in the initial public meetings, shared the “Foundation,” and presented the three refined alternatives.”

This second newsletter of January 2005 proposed “Rehab for Performance and Visual Arts Center” for Castle Williams (see illustration below) as one of the three preliminary management alternatives, which – and quoting directly from the NPS newsletter – are “consistent with federal laws, such as the National Historic Preservation Act, and with NPS policies.”

This same Alternative B labeled Fort Jay with “Rehab for short-term stays related to cultural programs,” which led the New Globe to propose housing the actors in Fort Jay (an idea which had been encouraged by the NPS in 2004, since it continued the family housing function of Fort Jay). While an ideal place for the resident acting company to stay, the artists could reside anywhere on the GIPEC portion of Governors Island and the New Globe instead maintain those alternative structures.

(3) Development of Refined Alternatives:

The Draft GMP continues on page 250: “Feedback from the newsletter is summarized in Appendix D. The responses to the newsletters, and comments received from the public over several summers, confirmed the public’s interest in the alternatives, and led the Superintendent and Regional Director to identify the preferred alternative (D—Harbor Partnership).”

When consulting Appendix D, the draft reiterates: “Public feedback—via the newsletter, opinions expressed by tour takers, and other personal interactions—about these Conceptual Alternatives informed NPS and its consultants during the refinement of the alternatives for the Draft GMP.”

And, on page 271 in Appendix D, the findings are summarized as follows:

“Do you have any preferences among the conceptual alternatives or among the uses suggested for the buildings?”

- About 65% of the all the respondents wrote to support the New Globe Theater; many of these were also generally supportive of a performance and visual arts emphasis for the island in Alternative B. Those who supported the New Globe Theater felt it to be a unique and imaginative use well-suited to Castle Williams architecture.
- Although most people did not explicitly choose a preferred alternative, the majority of respondents supported a performance and visual arts emphasis (many of these also supported the New Globe in particular). Of those who selected a preferred alternative, B was the most popular.

- Supporters of an arts and culture emphasis stated that arts programming would bring repeat and year-round visitors, appeal to a wide range of people from all over the city and world, help to revitalize downtown Manhattan, and enhance the city's standing as a cultural and arts center by bringing a classical theater use currently in demand in New York. Many said that emphasizing arts and culture would be more forward-looking and positive than an emphasis on the island's past."

Therefore, to summarize, the initial public scoping meetings of 2003-04 resulted in the development of "rehab for performance and visual arts center" for Castle Williams as a preliminary management alternative in 2005, and about 65% of the general public requested this alternative for their new public park.

How can 65% requesting the New Globe have "confirmed the public's interest in the alternatives, and led [the NPS] to identify the preferred alternative (D – Harbor Partnership)"? It would appear unfair that the Draft GMP states that the process integrated the aspirations of the public, if it ignored the findings from the major keystones of public involvement and civic engagement.

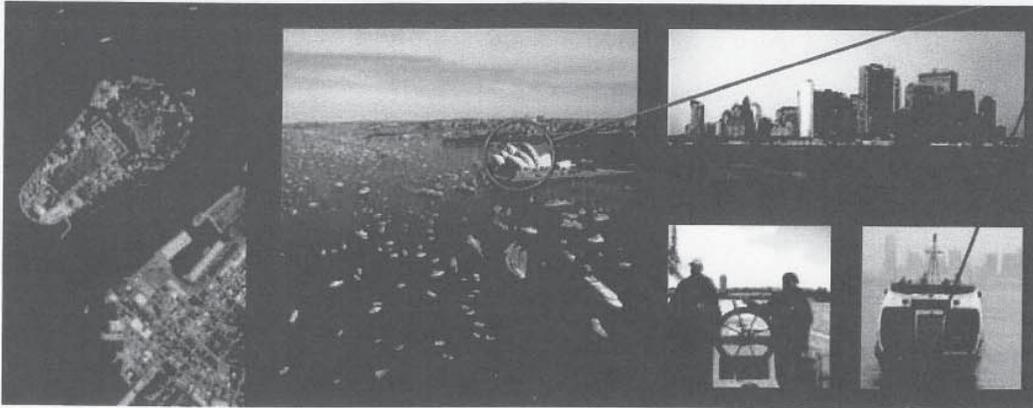

In addition, the Draft GMP neglects to include the following attestations of public support for the New Globe proposal:

- (1) On 30 June 2005, the New York City Council adopted the New York City Budget, which promised $2,000,000 in capital funding for the New Globe in FY2007.
- (2) On 18 October 2005, Community Board #1 unanimously passed a resolution stating that "Community Board #1 supports the concept for an adaptive use of Castle Williams as a performance space for their program, and is enthused by the New Globe Theater's presentation."
- (3) In response to Request for Expressions of Interest (RFEI) in 2005 and the Request for Proposals (RFP) in 2006, GIPEC included the New Globe on its shortlist of development proposals for Governors Island.
- (4) From early 2007, some 3,000 emails from the general public were received by the NPS in support of the New Globe proposal – many requesting the New Globe to be chosen as a Centennial Signature Project.
- (5) In April 2007, a congressional letter signed by New York Senators Charles Schumer and Hillary Clinton, Congressman Jerrold Nadler (whose district includes Governors Island), New York delegation Chairman Charles Rangel and another dozen congressmen strongly urged the National Park Service to approve the New Globe plan. (See attached.)

Furthermore, it is misleading that the Draft GMP lists individuals amongst "Early Supporters" of the NPS plan on page 309 – such as Senator Charles Schumer, Senator Hillary Clinton, Congressman Nadler, Kent Barwick, and more – who have subsequently endorsed the New Globe proposal. Such an outdated supporters list might instill in readers of the Draft GMP a greater confidence in the NPS's preferred alternative than is warranted.

Similarly misleading, the "Preferred Alternative D" display at the Open House on 27 February 2008 prominently included a photograph of the Sydney Opera House (see detail below) – leading some visitors to conclude that the NPS preferred alternative accommodated the New Globe proposal.

As a final observation, the public process was dramatically compromised by NPS rangers openly speaking negatively about the New Globe proposal on public tours and even, in the case of Ranger Megan Taylor, abusing her NPS position to influence the 60-day public comment period by rallying the Governors Island Brats to submit public comments opposed to the New Globe proposal.

In conclusion, this Draft GMP calls into question the integrity of the public process. It is apparent that by not identifying a preferred alternative for Governors Island National Monument that accommodates the New Globe proposal, the NPS ignored the findings of public involvement and civic engagement from 2003 to 2007.

ASSESSING NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL

The Draft GMP briefly evaluates the New Globe proposal to determine “appropriateness and feasibility,” and concludes that the proposal would result in impairment of park fundamental resources and values.

For reasons outlined below, the New Globe believes this conclusion to be erroneous and only a question of interpretation of existing legislation. However, if the NPS’s hands are indeed tied due to governing laws, then – given the overwhelming public support for the proposal – we respectfully request that the NPS work with the New Globe to accommodate steps to amend the extant legislation ... especially since the New York congressional delegation already strongly urged the NPS to approve the New Globe proposal in 2007.

Following is a discussion of each of the points of contention outlined in the Draft GMP, from pages 162 to 164.

- (1) On page 162, the New Globe proposal is summarized as follows: “The New Globe Theater has proposed that Castle Williams be converted into a Shakespearean theater as part of a performing arts center.” However, the description of the New Globe neglects to explain that the proposal of a UK-US cultural center is inspired by the very history of the fortification. Castle Williams was constructed to defend America against the British in the War of 1812. The “New Globe for the New World” celebrates this history by creating a unique cultural center, but this time working with our former English foe to preserve America’s history and celebrate our common cultural heritage. The cultural center would preserve, respect and interpret the past, but also create a future for the derelict fort – thus not only keeping its spirit alive, but also providing the funding to maintain the physical resource. Appropriately, this center would face the “French” Statue of Liberty (similarly united with 1811 Fort Wood) as a complementary symbol of US-UK friendship.

- (2) On page 162: “The proposal also calls for three of the four barracks in Fort Jay to be used to house the Globe Theater’s company of actors and their families.” As mentioned previously, the Preliminary Management Alternative B called for “Rehab for short-term stays related to cultural programs” for the future function of Fort Jay. Of course, the acting company could reside anywhere on the GIPEC portion of Governors Island and the New Globe instead maintain those alternate buildings.
- (3) On page 162: “There is no such [theatrical] precedence of use associated with Castle Williams or Fort Jay; therefore, for this and other reasons pertaining to the National Monument’s purpose, integrity and significance, the New Globe Theater proposal has been eliminated from further consideration by NPS.” The argument that there is no theatrical precedence at Castle Williams is objectionable for a multitude of reasons: (a) due to Governors Island’s long use as a restricted military facility, its history has virtually no relation to the people for whom the Monument’s rehabilitation is intended; (b) its sister fort, Castle Clinton in Battery Park, also constructed by Jonathan Williams for the same war but not situated on a restricted island, functioned as an opera house and theater from 1824-1854; (c) a greater tradition of adaptive reuse of military fortifications exists in New York Harbor – e.g., Castle Garden (Castle Clinton), New York City Aquarium (Castle Clinton), Ellis Island (Fort Gibson), and the Statue of Liberty (Fort Wood); (d) cultural adaptive re-uses of historic sites have resulted in an overwhelming increase of attendance levels and have been effective not just from an economic, but also from a preservation and design standpoint (e.g., Fort Mason (Golden Gate Recreational Area); Musée D’Orsay (Paris); Tate Modern (London); The Royal Exchange (Manchester); Beurs van Berlage (Amsterdam); Rotunda on New Holland Island (St. Petersburg), etc.); and, finally, (e) there is a theatrical precedence of use for Castle Williams: it is well publicized that, after its military and penitentiary functions were obsolete, the fort was used by the Coast Guard as a Haunted House!
- (4) Regarding the “National Monument Purpose” on pages 162: “The Monument’s purpose is twofold: to preserve and protect those resources and values which are fundamental to it and to provide for their interpretation via public programs and access.” The New Globe plan preserves and protects the 1811 fortification and interprets its role in the defense of New York Harbor and the nation within a 3,000-square-foot museum on the ground floor – highlighting the history of the harbor’s forts and exploring a wide range of themes: harbor defense systems, politics, culture, history, transportation, economy, ecology and more. In this manner, the New Globe proposal adheres to the national monument’s stated purpose of providing “an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology.”
- (5) The section continues on page 162: “Two Presidential Proclamations deliberately kept the forts separate from the rest of the island’s redevelopment to ensure that their architecture and histories would be forever protected and made permanently available to the public.” Over the last five years, as the National Park Service assumed stewardship of Governors Island National Monument and has been continually unsuccessful in securing the $5.8 million necessary to remove the hazardous materials, stabilize the fortification, and halt its severe deterioration, it has become apparent that the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will actually better “preserve and protect those resources and values” and better “provide for their interpretation via public programs and access” since the not-for-profit organization offers to fundraise for the stabilization and rehabilitation of Castle Williams.

(6) On page 162-163: “To significantly alter any of the character-defining features of the structures or to make alterations such that those features are obscured would hinder the Park Service from meeting its obligation to preserve and protect fundamental resources which are “necessary to fulfill specific purposes identified in the establishing legislation or proclamation of the park” and would constitute impairment.” The architectural design by Foster and Partners does not significantly alter any of the character-defining features of the structure, as the insertion is fully reversible and does not impinge on the 1811 historic fabric. All elements deemed “historically significant” in the National Register of Historic Places are preserved. In addition, the proposed design does not obscure character-defining features – on the contrary, the design honors the evolution of the fortification and invokes the precedent of the steel and concrete prison addition in the open courtyard from the 1930s/40s, when the circulation zone was inserted into the courtyard and the sandstone walls were also visible through the glass walls. As demonstrated by the 1930s/40s prison insertion in the courtyard, such additions may be removed at a later stage of the resource’s life (and the New Globe proposal even earmarks funding for such a removal in its financial plan).

(7) On page 163: “Daily visitation of the castle’s interior would essentially be permanently pre-empted for the theater function. Visually, spatially, and in terms of communicating the fort’s military function and history, the visitor to the National Monument would be confronted with a very large, permanent intrusion. This would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public or consistent with the purpose of the National Monument and the NPS mission.” Arguing that the New Globe “would not be the superlative visitor experience expected by the public” is unacceptable, because the statement neglects the fact that (a) during the public scoping period, about 65% of respondents requested the presence of the theater in the open courtyard; (b) the 3,000 sq. ft. museum, restaurant and roof deck will be open to the general public at all times (independent of theatrical operations); (c) the courtyard will be accessible for daily visitation, and – during matinees and evening performances – the courtyard will actually be packed with hundreds of visitors; (d) for those few individuals who chose to tour the site during performance time, the courtyard will be visible through the glass walls; and, most importantly, (e) the underlying logic of the argument is flawed because, when considering total attendance figures, significantly more visitors will experience the courtyard of Castle Williams during those 8 performances per week than without the theater function.

(8) Regarding “Integrity,” the Draft GMP states on page 163: “The NPS is required to protect and interpret the meaning and significance of the fort, not just its physical structure. Converting it into a theater would fundamentally change the public’s perception of the building’s meaning and significance and intrude on an otherwise complete visitor experience.” All of these arguments have been addressed above and, as stated previously, the judgment of impairment appears to be a question of interpretation – especially since the Draft GMP shows that the presence of a shop in Castle Williams (see image detail from Draft GMP, page 7) is judged to impair neither the national monument purpose, nor the integrity of the military and penitentiary significance.

- (9) The discussion on “Integrity” continues on page 163: “Unlike Castle Clinton at Battery Park, Castle Williams has no history of use as a theater; rather, its primary historic uses have been as a defensive battery and military prison. Use as a theater would not enable the public to visit and appreciate the full military significance.” Let us stress once more that the New Globe proposal includes a prominent museum about the fort’s history as a defensive battery during the War of 1812. Furthermore, we ask that, when considering whether the military integrity is preserved by our proposal, please do not ignore that the New Globe plan has been endorsed by the most prominent and distinguished military figures of the United States, such as Dr. Henry Kissinger (56th US Secretary of State, Nobel Peace Prize Winner), James A. Baker III (61st US Secretary of State, Presidential Medal of Freedom), General Colin Powell (65th US Secretary of State, Presidential Medal of Freedom), Robert McNamara (8th US Secretary of Defense, Presidential Medal of Freedom) Dr. James Schlesinger (12th US Secretary of Defense), and Dr. Harold Brown (14th US Secretary of Defense, Presidential Medal of Freedom).
- (10) Regarding “Significance” as discussed on page 163, we would like to clarify that the proposed public-private partnership does not impair the resource but, on the contrary, provides the funding to preserve, respect, and celebrate the historic significance of Castle Williams – however, it also bestows a future significance requested by the public process.
- (11) Regarding “Inconsistencies with Established Standards, Guidelines and NHPA” as described on page 163, we disagree with the NPS finding that “the actions proposed for the Globe Theater do not meet the requirements set forth in any of these regulatory instruments.” The architectural inset by Foster and Partners in the empty open courtyard is reversible, non-invasive, and preserves the open three-tiered courtyard – in a similar manner as did the concrete prison additions of the 1930s/40s. In meetings from 2003 to 2008 with, e.g., President Kent Barwick and Senior Vice President Frank Sanchis of the Municipal Art Society; Present and Former Chairs Robert Tierney, Sherida Paulsen and Laurie Beckelman of the NYC Landmarks Preservation Commission; Ruth Pierpont of the State Historic Preservation Office (“I see no red flags”); Professor Kenneth Jackson (Former President of the New-York Historical Society); Chairman Mike Wallace of the Gotham Center for New York City History and Pulitzer Prize-winning author of “Gotham”; Executive Director Chase Rynd and Curator Martin Moeller of the National Building Museum in Washington, and many more, the New Globe team has been repeatedly assured that the proposal does not impair the national monument. On the contrary, by providing a viable financial plan, the adaptive reuse would actually be instrumental in preserving the fortification, save the resource from further decay, and provide for the public enjoyment of the monument.
- (12) On page 163: “Although the Manual provides some latitude about covering the courtyard, it clearly states that it must remain an unfilled space.” Again, a question of interpretation. The Manual’s exact words are “the multistory courtyard should be maintained” and we firmly believe that the New Globe plan for the amphitheatrical addition does maintain the multistory courtyard. Isn’t the definition of an amphitheater to have an unfilled space at the center? We also find it interesting that the similarities to an amphitheater were already apparent to William Rideing in 1881, when Castle Williams was still a functioning prison: “We stand in the reverberant amphitheater formed by the circular walls.” (See “Garrison Life at Governor’s Island,” from Scribners Monthly, Volume 21, Issue 4, page 595.)
- (13) Finally, if the NPS interprets the New Globe proposal as not fulfilling NPS Policies, 2006, Section 1.4.3: “Congress has affirmed that when there is a conflict between conserving resources and values and providing for their enjoyment, conservation will be predominant (NPS Management Policies, 2006, page 10),” then we respectfully request a public hearing in Washington for Congress to review the New Globe plan prior to progressing with the GMP process. We sincerely doubt that Congress will rule that the NPS interpretation of the 2006 Management Policies is warranted in this case, especially considering that the New York congressional delegation already strongly urged the NPS to approve the New Globe plan in 2007.

To conclude the assessment of the proposed public-private partnership, we believe that the New Globe proposal is as visionary and inspired as uniting the Statue of Liberty with Fort Wood. There are many parallels: (a) the Statue of Liberty is a cultural adaptation of a 1811 military fort in New York Harbor; (b) the statue is an international symbol of friendship with another country; and, finally, (c) the cultural adaptation introduces a much wider and more diverse audience to the fortification.

When Founder Barbara Romer made this argument on 3 May 2006, Commissioner Maria Burks replied that “the Statue of Liberty was a mistake” and “it was a horrible thing that happened to Fort Wood” (sentiments repeated to the staffs of Senator Schumer (Andrew Lederman), Senator Clinton (Danielle Kline) and Congressman Nadler (Mike Hurlbut) on Capitol Hill on 29 March 2007). The New Globe would like to take this opportunity to reiterate that its proposal for Castle Williams is historically sensitive and reversible, preserves all aspects of the 1811 fort – thus not overpowering the historic structure physically or spiritually, and incorporates a prominent museum about the War of 1812 and the fort’s role in the harbor defense system. While the New Globe does recast a reminder of UK-US military animosity into an international icon of friendship as a complementary symbol to our beloved French Statue of Liberty, it will equally draw millions to the fort that otherwise would not consider visiting a historic military site.

ALTERNATIVE D =

DUPLICATIVE AND CANNIBALIZING OTHER HARBOR SITES

While the draft GMP rightfully thinks about Governors Island National Monument within the larger context of the National Parks of New York Harbor, the preferred Alternative D (“Harbor Center”) duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others.

Drawing from the visitor base of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island by forcing the Monument to “become a primary stop on harbor ferry tours” (p. 9), Alternative D fails to attract a wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor. On the other hand, the New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center.

Furthermore, preferred Alternative D is the most expensive of all alternatives and thus proposes to spend $50-60 million in one-time capital costs plus $107-128 million in life-cycle costs to offer redundant programming to the same interest group already served by the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island and other National Parks in New York Harbor.

Taking all these considerations to their logical conclusion, Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding to serve a redundant target customer base on Governors Island; in the process, it will cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Unfortunately, since (a) the NPS has not even allocated $5.8 million to stabilize the fort over the last 5 years, and (b) the Service is battling an $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall, Alternative D likely condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades. To prepare the public for this scenario, the Draft GMP states three times that: “The implementation of the approved plan will depend on future funding and Servicewide priorities. The approval of a GMP does not guarantee that funding and staffing needed to implement the plan will be forthcoming. Full implementation of the GMP could be many years into the future.”

PHILANTHROPIC LEVERAGE AND THE FUTURE OF THE NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Despite President George W. Bush's mandate to “leverage philanthropic, partnership, and government investments for the benefit of national parks and their visitors,” and despite the Centennial Initiative promise that “a new era of private-public partnerships will bring greater excellence to parks,” this Draft GMP proposes yet another hundred-million-dollar, federal-government-dependent site without a viable self-sustaining revenue source, while rejecting an exciting, inspirational and visionary public-private partnership that would ensure the future financial and historic integrity of the park and its resources.

Thus far – five years after taking over management of the site – the NPS locally has been unsuccessful in securing the $5.8 million of federal funding needed to stabilize the decaying structure.

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government's responsibility. The New Globe will help raise funds to forestall further severe deterioration, stabilize the structure, and remediate the building to allow for summer performances during the planning and development period. Furthermore, the proposal builds capacity for park operations and maintenance, since the New Globe will provide for the operation (incl. additional staffing) and maintenance of the national monument without government subsidies - thereby relieving the federal budget of an additional burden. Finally, for self-sustaining operations, an endowment will be raised from private sources. (And in the unlikely scenario that an exit strategy becomes necessary, the endowment will be earmarked for the removal of the reversible theater inset in the open courtyard.)

We think that it is most exciting that our new national park in New York Harbor has attracted so much positive attention and so much philanthropic interest. After all, over the last months, the New Globe proposal has been endorsed by over a dozen billionaires, as well as the greatest philanthropic supporters of National Parks – ranging from individuals such as Lee Iacocca, David Rockefeller Sr., Marian Heiskell, to corporate partners such as American Airlines, Unilever, Coca-Cola, or programmatic partners such as the National Geographic Society. This will be a win-win situation!

PUBLIC RESPONSE TO DRAFT GMP AND NEXT STEPS

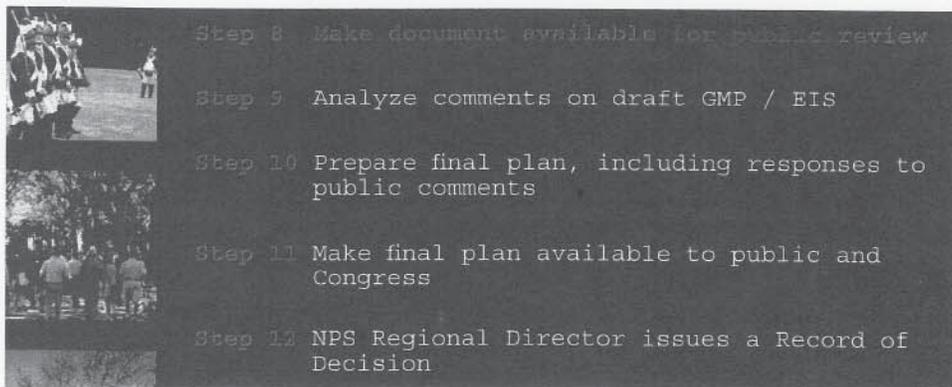

It should be noted that the New Globe proposal has generated more public comments than the entire NPS Centennial Challenge, that highly publicized initiative with its 40 nation-wide listening sessions. Furthermore, the submissions did not all stem from New York, but – in line with Castle Williams being a national monument – originated from all over the world, from Vermont to Florida, from Texas to Oregon, from Puerto Rico to United Kingdom, from Argentina to Singapore.

In addition, a bi-partisan petition (see attached) demonstrated the breadth of support for New Globe. Amongst those urging approval of the proposal are: President JIMMY CARTER (Nobel Peace Prize Winner), Dr. HENRY KISSINGER (56th US Secretary of State), JAMES A. BAKER,

When looking forward at the next steps in the GMP Process, we expect the NPS to respect the public comments and ascertain the necessary steps to enact the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater, be it via reconsidering interpretations of extant legislation, via amending the Presidential Proclamation, or via other venues. If public involvement and civic engagement are again ignored in the final plan, this action will need to be explained in public hearings in Washington. Furthermore, the New Globe would consider enacting the Freedom of Information Act to better understand how the integrity of the public process was impaired, and how a federal agency can ignore congressional letters, 65% majorities, and impose a plan without sufficient documented public support.

Furthermore, in anticipation of the continuing process, we would like to understand why Superintendent Linda Neal told New Globe supporter Eric Jones at the Open House, when discussing the Step 11 on the NPS display (see image above), that getting Congress's approval for the final plan for Governors Island is only “a courtesy”? And why the words “and Congress” were subsequently removed from Step 11 on the display for the Public Hearing one week later, on 10 March 2008?

CONCLUSION

Since the Presidential Proclamation 7402 of January 19, 2001 and 7647 of February 11, 2003 predate the New Globe proposal for Governors Island National Monument; and since, in January 2005, the widely publicized Preliminary Management Alternative B for Castle Williams was to “Rehab for Performance and Visual Arts Center” and the National Park Service ensured the public that this alternative was “consistent with federal laws, such as the National Historic Preservation Act, and with NPS policies;” and since, subsequently, the New Globe proposal has attracted an overwhelming public interest and support for this specific bold and imaginative public-private partnership; and since, in March 2007, the New York congressional delegation did “urge that the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater,” we respectfully request the National Park Service - as the American public’s steward - find a way to either reinterpret NPS Management Policies or adjust/expand existing legislation to allow for the New Globe proposal.

We strongly urge you to listen to the general public, to be “mindful that boldness matches our history” (to quote Secretary Kempthorne's opening sentence of “The Future of America's National Parks”), and to have the vision to keep national parks relevant in the 21st century and to create another great American icon in New York Harbor – the New Globe Theater at Governors Island National Monument.

New Globe Petition (status as of March 18, 2008)

Dear Director Bomar:

We urge you to allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater for Castle Williams National Monument. As you know, the New Globe plan re-imagines the decaying fortification at the heart of New York Harbor as a self-sustaining performing arts venue and a vibrant educational and cultural destination. The reversible design by Lord Norman Foster (celebrated for his sensitive treatment of historic structures, such as the British Museum and the German Parliament) preserves this deteriorating monument, provides for an exhibition and museum space, and incorporates a stage for world-class productions of Shakespeare as well as works by modern playwrights, classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events.

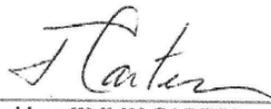

Working in partnership with Shakespeare's Globe in London, the New Globe's Artistic Board includes actors Philip Seymour Hoffman, Kevin Kline, Al Pacino, Estelle Parsons, and Mark Rylance, as well as directors Kenny Leon and Sam Mendes. The New Globe will celebrate cultural diversity, develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and – with its Education Program – serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year.

Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most importantly, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures.

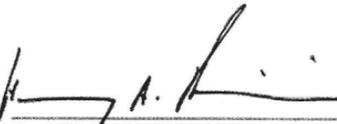

Since the fort was originally built to defend America against the British, it seems very appropriate that the United States and the United Kingdom work in partnership to recast this symbol of war into an icon of friendship for the 200th Anniversary of the War of 1812.

The New Globe will be a visionary and inspiring icon for New York Harbor – and a most fitting neighbor for the Statue of Liberty, which similarly united Fort Wood and the colossal statue into a symbol of Franco-American friendship. We therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the fortification.

Director Mary Bomar
National Park Service
1849 C Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20240

Dear Director Bomar:

We urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater. As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan reimagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

The design was undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmarks experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 monument and will protect it from further deterioration, is environmentally sustainable, and most important, will inspire millions to visit the Island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor.

The New Globe will develop new audiences by providing 125,000 affordable tickets, and its Education Program will serve 100,000 students of all social, cultural and economic backgrounds every year. The theater celebrates cultural diversity with an acting company reflecting the melting pot of New York and by offering programming celebrating the cultural heritage of the world.

We also urge that the New Globe Theater be included as one of the Centennial Signature Projects given the large amount of support and its positive impact. Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. We therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument.

Secretary of the Interior Dirk Kempthorne
NPS Acting Regional Director Chrysandra Walter
Commissioner of the National Parks of New York Harbor Maria Burks
Superintendent of Governors Island National Monument Linda Neal
Members of Appropriations Subcommittee on Interior and Related Agencies
Members of Energy and Natural Resources Subcommittee on National Parks

Following are articles submitted during the 03.10.08 public hearing. They are considered part of the testimonies and the public record. Many of these are comments that were submitted through the PEPC system and read aloud during the hearing. None of these submissions have been coded, entered or re-entered in PEPC.

My name is Barbara Romer and I'm the Founder of the New Globe.

Let me begin by stating that our proposed public-private partnership clearly adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing "an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense, and its ecology" by restoring Castle Williams to its 1811 glory and interpreting its role in the defense of New York Harbor AND the nation within a 3,000-square-foot museum.

Yes, the New Globe plan also features the construction of a visionary theater inside the empty, open courtyard – a reversible design which would not harm the historic structure. This cultural center would provide a viable self-sustaining revenue source to provide for the rehabilitation and maintenance of the fort; would attract a much wider and more diverse audience to the National Parks of New York Harbor; and, last but not least, would recast a reminder of UK-US military animosity into an international icon of friendship, complementary to the French Statue of Liberty.

If you question whether the military establishment would embrace the New Globe, please note that we count amongst our supporters General Colin Powell, Dr. Henry Kissinger, Secretary James Baker, as well as former US Secretaries of Defense McNamara, Schlesinger, and Brown.

The Draft GMP states that the proposed vision is "the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of the NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument."

However, the public's aspirations favoring the New Globe are clear:

A congressional letter signed by Senators Clinton and Schumer, Congressman Nadler, New York delegation Chairman Charlie Rangel and another dozen congressmen strongly urged the National Park Service to approve the New Globe plan in 2007;

And, during the public scoping period, about 65% of respondents called for the approval of the New Globe - a fact buried on page 271 in the appendix of the Draft GMP.

Please recognize the breadth of our growing bi-partisan support. Amongst those urging you to approve the proposal are: President Jimmy Carter, Former US Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt, NEA Chair Dana Gioia, other household names such as Walter Cronkite, Gloria Steinem, Regis Philbin, Kenneth Cole, Diane von Furstenberg, literally more than a dozen billionaires, as well as the greatest philanthropic supporters of National Parks – ranging from individuals such as Lee Iacocca, David Rockefeller Sr., Marian Heiskell, to corporate partners such American Airlines, Unilever, Coca-Cola, or programmatic partners such as the National Geographic Society. Then there is the financial community with Charles Schwab, John Mack, John Reed, John Whitehead, Diana Taylor, Jim Wolfensohn; preservationists, conservationists and city planners such as Theodore Roosevelt IV, Prof. Ken Jackson, Mike Wallace, Brenda Levin, Kent Barwick, Frank Sanchis, Laurie Beckelman, Downtown voices such as Julie Menin, Bobbie Douglass, Madelyn Wils; ... and, of course, the artistic community – ranging from Woody Allen to Toni Morrison, from David Bowie to Kate Winslet, from Mike Nichols to Paul Newman, from Judi Dench to Robin Williams.

Since Superintendent Neal previously mentioned that our New York support is insufficient since Castle Williams is a national monument, please listen tonight to public comments from Alabama to Hawaii, from Florida to Texas, from London to Paris.

Please reconsider this public-private partnership which has been so warmly embraced by the general public. The New Globe is the only inspired, financially viable, and bold proposal worthy of America's Gateway.

PLEASE STAND.

MARIA THOMAS-LISTER, from Painesville, Ohio:

I cannot imagine anyone NOT supporting the New Globe. New York is a beacon of cultural significance; what better way to grace the harbor than to create this facility, a preserver of past and incubator of future cultural genius?

I urge you to support the generations of fine artists that will emerge from this project - generations to come will be blessed.

TIM HEITMAN, from San Diego, California:

Theatre goes traveling to New York, the largest single contingent of visitors to the city -- THAT industry has reached out to your island project giving you the chance to tap into that ENORMOUS exposure and cash flow and not only are you not jumping at the chance to find ways to make it happen but you are actually rejecting the idea outright?

I may just be one of those lowly visitors of New York theatre from San Diego but I guess I've been reassured that our National Park Service is still comfortably in the hands of beauracratc, tunnel visionaries who can't see past the end of their desks.

Open your eyes and smell the free money! Make this happen and in a few short years you'll be the heros of the Service that went against the backward flow to create something new, and (gasp!) different, (and not so incidentally financially successful).

Governors Island National Monument
Draft General Management Plan
March 10, 2008

Statement of Peg Breen
President, The New York Landmarks Conservancy

The New York Landmarks Conservancy has advocated for the preservation and reuse of the historic buildings on Governors Island for more than a decade. We supported the creation of the National Monument and continue to lobby for adequate federal funding of the Monument.

We welcome this long awaited draft general management plan. While alternatives B and C have merit, we support the Park Service's preferred alternative—alternative D.

Castle Williams and Fort Jay are national treasures. They stand on their own as important destinations with exciting stories to tell. We believe that emphasizing Castle Williams as not only the iconic symbol of Governors Island, but also as the heart of the system of Harbor Parks, offers the greatest merit.

Doing so would help the Island attract some of the millions of people who visit Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty each year. And it would help boost attendance at the other valuable, but lesser trafficked park sites.

High attendance at the Monument would encourage increased exploration and appreciation of the rest of Governors Island as well. Alternative D would foster a seamless visitor experience.

While the Park Service is looking for partners to create and support alternative D, I note that the draft plan states: "Public appreciation of the historic forts is among the principal purposes of the National Monument."

We agree. That is why the Landmarks Conservancy has never supported the proposal for a new globe theater in Castle Williams.

New Yorkers have many opportunities to see Shakespeare's plays. There is only one Castle Williams. Inserting a theater into Castle Williams would subordinate the fort to create a limited use for a limited audience. It would negate the historic importance two presidents recognized in creating and reauthorizing the Monument; and it prevents the interesting and valuable range of activities and audiences alternative D would provide.

The notion may sound appealing because relatively few people have seen Castle Williams. But imagine turning Hamilton Grange over to a bed and breakfast operation or offering a long term catering lease here in Federal Hall. We must not diminish the Monument.

It is very important that the City and State commit steady capital funding to attract private investment in the rest of Governors Island. It is just as crucial that the National Park Service and Congress commit operational and capital funding to the Monument. We do not feel the plan places enough emphasis on that.

The National Park Service does a lot of good work. But it doesn't do it quickly. In this instance, however, the Park Service must quickly complete this plan. This will allow the Monument to get back on the Park Service's priority funding list.

Page 2

As the draft plan notes, Governors Island played an important role in the defense and development of New York City for two centuries. Appropriate investment and uses in the Monument will allow Governors Island to provide a cultural and economic boost to the city and region for centuries to come.

Thank you for the opportunity to present the Landmarks Conservancy's views.

ANDREW OSWALD, from Brooklyn, New York:

After researching the proposed New Globe Theatre on Governor's Island I was shocked to learn that there was any resistance at all. It seems like a win situation on all sides.

Not only would the architecture preserve the fort in its entirety but it would revitalize interest in the fort itself. It would give people a reason to visit the site. There are many historic landmarks in New York but having the theatre encased in the fort would make it a destination point for people all across America.

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument.

Statement on Governors Island National Monument

Draft General Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement

March 10, 2008

For two centuries, Governors Island, with its storied past and breathtaking views, was public land that the general public could not visit. After years of effort on my part and others to get the Federal government to transfer ownership of Governors Island to the State and more years of subsequent planning and preparation, we are finally on the brink of seeing this already unique place be transformed into an incredible asset for the City. It is truly a great day to finally be here to give comments on the Draft General Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement for the redevelopment of the Governors Island National Monument so that this great asset can finally be enjoyed as much as the public as possible.

Unfortunately, we have a long way to go until the public can truly enjoy the national monument. Because State and City efforts to redevelop this piece of American history are being dragged down by the Federal government's failure to live up to its responsibilities. When President Bush transferred ownership of Governors Island to the State in 2003, he also officially designated Fort Jay, Castle Williams, and parts of the Historic Parade Grounds a National Monument. Pre-existing asbestos and lead conditions within the buildings of the Monument have kept Americans from fully experiencing and enjoying New York's newest national park.

For four years, I have attempted to appropriate funds at the behest of the Governors Island Alliance to enable the National Park Service to remediate these conditions and truly open Governors Island National Monument to the public. Each year, assurances have been given by Park Service officials in Washington that the remediation project would be reflected in the President's budget request the following year. However, again, HazMat remediation for Governor's Island is not on the priority list. This year I again, will attempt to appropriate the necessary $5 Million to rehabilitate and remediate the Monument.

We cannot afford to wait any longer. A continued delay in completely opening the National Monument to visitors will interfere with or impede the upcoming redevelopment process. Having a National Monument on Governors Island should be an asset, not a liability. Until the Federal government take the necessary health and safety measures to make this a fully functioning national park, they are hanging an albatross around the necks of the State and City officials and the civic leaders who are working to make Governors Island the newest unforgettable destination in the greatest city in the World.

In addition, I am disappointed that the National Park Service so easily dismissed the New Globe Theater proposal for the adaptive reuse of Castel Williams in the Draft General Management Plan. As you know, last year Senator Schumer, Senator Clinton and I wrote a letter to Secretary Boman urging that the New Globe Theater proposal be included in this Draft General Management Plan. The proposal of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams is just the type of innovative and adaptive reuse proposal that would make the island a world renowned tourist destination, adding a unique cultural component to New York City and Governors Island. The New Globe in my and my colleague's opinion would not only act as a tourist destination but would be an economic catalyst for Governors Island and generate the necessary funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I again renew my support and urge that the New Globe Theater be reevaluated and included in the Final General Management Plan for the Island and for it to be designated a Centennial Signature Projects, given the large amount of support and its positive impact.

CANDY MANUEL, from Kilmarnock, Virginia:

In London in 1962 an 8 year old girl stepped onstage for the first time portraying Prince Arthur in a professional production of Shakespeare's King John. I was that girl and the play and that theatre shaped my life forever.

King John and several other lesser known works of the Bard are seldom seen except in very special venues dedicated to such work, the New Globe would be just such a place. What a huge boost to education in and around NYC to say nothing of the enormous amount of tourism it would engender!

What do you have to lose? Nothing - you have everything to win.

The Founding Chapter of The American Institute of Architects

Testimony of the American Institute of Architects, New York Chapter National Parks Service Formal Public Hearing March 10, 2008

On behalf of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and its 4,000 architect and public members we would like to express our support for the National Parks Service's efforts to plan for a rejuvenated and exciting Governor's Island.

As a member of the Governor's Island Alliance, the AIA NY Chapter has continuously advocated for an expansion of public access and programs on the Island. GIPEC's choice of a stellar design team (composed of West 8, Diller Scofidio & Renfro, Rogers Marvel Architects, Quennell Rothschild & Partners, and SMWM) for the southern portion of the island will ensure a diverse and interested flow of visitors to Governor's Island. The alternative chosen by the National Parks Service for their General Management Plan must take advantage of this diverse flow, and the exciting topography and architecture of the island.

00005 Therefore we applaud the vision of the NPS in choosing as their "preferred alternative" a dynamic plan that offers a wide perspective on harbor and New York history. This plan builds on existing efforts to bring visitors to the water by alliance like New York City's Harbor District and National Parks of New York Harbor. That programming and design not be done in isolation, or for a selective audience, but fit into a broader vision for New York City's waterfront, is crucial to the success of Governor's Island as a destination.

00030 We urge the NPS to fund this forward thinking vision for a park that is truly one of a kind.

Sincerely,

HEATHER HEELS, Woodside, from New York, New York:

We are so lucky as a community to have the opportunity to expand artistic forces beyond pre-established boundaries. As a theatre artist and teacher, I know the importance of the arts in our world. I also know that Shakespeare is an incredibly unifier, and can bridge gaps between generations, ethnicities and classes. He is a truly undeniable influence on our cultural development, and I think that the New Globe is an incredible opportunity to bring the New York community closer together.

SASHA HAYES-RUSNOV, from Winslow, Maine:

The simple truth is that the opportunities for cultural enrichment in this country are dwindling. In their place, educational change marked by a steady increase in the use of standardized testing is robbing our youth of a basic grounding in the arts and reading that makes for a happy and productive society.

While one could argue that such things are not the concern of the Parks Service, the entire mission of your department is the edification of Americans through the use of our preserved public lands. I believe that the New Globe project is well within this mandate, and I urge you to work with those who would see it develop for the betterment of the country.

WENDY KLUG, from Malden, Massachusetts:

PLEASE- National Parks Service -

The US needs to be at the forefront of the Arts, and the Next generation of children and Adults should have the opportunity to experience Arts and culture at Castle Williams.

The Arts is what builds inquisitive minds and nourishes the soul.

Please don't let this opportunity to show the world that the people of the United States care about the Arts go by.

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater.

Submitted Testimony Alexander R. Brash, NE Regional Director

RE: “Draft General Management Plan – Governors Island National Monument”; Public Hearing on Monday, March 10, 2008 at Federal Hall National Memorial, New York, N.Y.

I am Alexander Brash, Northeast Regional Director of the National Parks Conservation Association (NPCA). Since 1919, NPCA has been the leading independent voice of the American people for protecting and enhancing our National Park System for present and future generations. I am pleased to submit this statement on behalf of our more than 340,000 members nationwide who visit and care deeply about America’s national parks.

Foremost, we would like to recognize Governors Island National Monument for the great potential this site has for augmenting the rich history of New York Harbor once the site is truly open to the public. We would like to make four points with respect to the Draft General Management Plan.

First, we sadly note that while the Memorial was first established in 2001, and then reauthorized in 2003, more than seven years have passed and little has tangibly happened in order to elevate this great site to its potential. With the GMP almost in hand, we now urge the National Park Service to immediately provide the $5.8 million dollars in funding needed to clean up and fully open this site by the 400th Anniversary of Henry Hudson’s arrival off of Manhattan.

While NPCA recognizes that the National Park Service suffers from a shortage of funding for our national parks that is more than $800 million every year, and has thus created a maintenance backlog that exceeds several billion dollars, we believe that cleaning up and opening up Governors Island should be a priority in FY’09. In immediately funding such work, the National Park Service will begin to provide its fair share of the funds needed to fully open all of Governors Island. By opening Castle Williams and Fort Jay to the public, the ferries bringing millions to the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island might also begin to stop at Governors Island, and not only will these early visitors get to experience long lost historic treasures in the harbor, they will also help build a constituency for the city and state’s efforts regarding the rest of the island. Adding stops will also be a giant step forward in supporting the long-held collective dream of having multiple sites around the harbor for visitors and a ferry service capable of supporting such a vibrant vision.

The second point is that , with respect to the Alternatives for Governors Island National Memorial (GINM) as proposed in the Draft GMP, we strongly encourage the National Park Service to take a more holistic view and undertake a broader strategic examination of their efforts regarding the New York Harbor Parks before adopting Alternative D. What is particularly striking is that while Alternative D proffers GINM as the harbor's hub, the critical element, which is in fact under NPS's control, is not being pursued in order to make this plan feasible. In short, if the National Park Service truly wants to make Governors Island the harbor's hub, then all tourists visiting NPS sites in the harbor should be funneled through the site, and the ferries to and from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island should be loaded from Governors Island and not from Battery Park.

Testimony of Alexander R. Brash, NE Regional Director

If such an arrangement is not that which the NPS is intending to pursue, then Governors Island will not be a hub for the harbor, though still a great stop among many others around the harbor. If this latter scenario is the true direction the NPS is heading in, then with the Governors Island Alliance we too suggest that it is more likely that GINM will play a strong role in welcoming visitors to the island as a whole. For that reason we think other Alternatives - which stress the Monument's connection to the rest of the Island and to the surrounding Harbor - are more appealing and realistic. We join with Governors Island Alliance in encouraging NPS to further explore these Alternatives as it moves forward with the General Management Plan.

In concluding on this subject, we firmly believe that before this GMP is approved, it is incumbent upon the city, state, and NPS to prepare and publicly share a long-term strategic plan for how visitors will be moved around the inner and outer harbor in the years to come, and to delineate how the use and access at each city, state, federal and private attraction or site will be integrated with this plan.

The third point is that NPCA has for more than ninety years worked to protect and enhance our national parks, and at the moment, we are very focused on working with the NPS as we examine how our national parks may best serve this nation's people in the 21st century while still adhering to the strict and proper mandates of the Organic Act. With the national park system's centennial looming in 2016, NPCA has recently been strongly supporting the Centennial Initiative, both as a concept in examining how visitors may best interact with each site, and also as a means to bring additional resources and partners to the table as our national park system evolves.

With the Centennial Initiative in mind, we commend the National Park Service for dramatically broadening their horizons here in New York City and working with a number of partners in a myriad of new ways to provide better visitor services and richer experiences at each park site. In addition, as various projects have moved forward, we also commend the NPS for carefully examining the historical nature of each site and ensuring their, and their partner's, efforts affirm its historical past and are respectful of its integrity.

On Governors Island, we support the NPS's decision not to include the proposal for the New Globe Theatre in its GMP. The reasons are simple. Both Castle William and Fort Jay are truly unique sites in New York Harbor, the last icons of their kind, standing testimony to the great role of defensive forts along America's shores through history. Like Fort Sumter, these two forts provide the potential to bring understanding and appreciation of sacrifice and honor to generations of Americans; indeed these sites are uniquely positioned to bring this message to a much larger and more diverse audience than most other forts. Further, unlike Castle Clinton in Battery Park which has had a more diverse history, including that of providing entertainment to the people, the forts on Governors Island have no such provenance, and we concur that it would be inappropriate to inject such a new use here.

Our fourth and final point is about the idea of supporting a new approach in interpretation for the National Park Service, here and across the board for the Centennial Initiative. We would like to encourage the NPS to not just preserve these two forts on Governors Island, but to move them well beyond such a staid benchmark. We believe these forts hold the possibility of bringing American history alive in this region of 22 million residents and in a city with more than a million schoolchildren. We encourage the NPS to think of Williamsburg, Sturbridge, or even a day in mid-April at Minuteman. We believe these two forts should join such historical sites, be fully restored and then brought alive with period characters and pageantry. These two forts, so close to tens of millions of potential visitors, have the opportunity to cost-effectively bring a living national park experience to a great host of Americans, and indeed to a great number of Americans who may never have the opportunity to visit our iconic western treasures.

In concluding, let me thank the NPS for providing the opportunity to submit this testimony, and again to commend the NPS for its current efforts around the Big Apple, and indeed all across our great nation. NPCA continues to believe that our national parks should be a national priority, and we hope that by their Centennial in 2016, the entire National Park System will be a model of American excellence and innovation, yet still grounded by its mandate to protect the natural and cultural heritage we hold so dear.

Thank you for this opportunity to testify, and more importantly for releasing the draft General Management Plan for Governors Island National Monument.

The Governors Island Alliance is a coalition of more than 50 environmental, preservation, and business organizations. We are committed to seeing Governors Island redeveloped as a great civic space for the New York and the Nation. Over the past ten years, the Alliance and its members have worked hard to see the creation of the National Park, the return of the rest of the Island to the people of New York for no cost, and the Island become immediately accessible to the public.

I have five points to make this evening. The first is the simplest and most important:

Governors Island National Monument was first established in 2001 by President Clinton and then reauthorized by President Bush in 2003; more than five years ago. Governors Island National Monument has the potential to become one of the most visible National Parks in the country, providing visitors and local residents with an opportunity to learn about nation's past while taking in extraordinary views of the Statue of Liberty.

The National Park Service needs to move forward – now – to realize this opportunity. Making the National Monument safe, accessible, and attractive will require addressing basic health and safety issues that currently prevent its two National Landmark forts from being opened to the public. This is an especially vital role during these early years of the Island's redevelopment. The highest priority is addressing asbestos and lead paint issues in Castle Williams and Fort Jay, and opening one of the circular stairways in Castle Williams, one of New York Harbor's most prominent landmarks. Completion of this project will enable visitor to enter the former prison cells and gun emplacements in the iconic 1811 Castle and access the Castle's roof for spectacular views of the Statue of Liberty and Manhattan skyline.

The Park Service and Congress should provide the needed funding (an estimated $ 5.8 million) in fiscal year 2009. These projects (PMIS # 95280) had been included in the NPS Line Item Construction priority list as of FY 06 but were dropped from the priority list because, we understand, the Park's General Management Plan was not completed. It's now done. The proposed haz mat clean up is part of the "No Action Alternative" included in the Plan. It's past time for the federal government to deliver on the promise it made in establishing the National Monument.

New York has already committed about $ 120 million for capital repairs and about $ 70 million in operating support since taking title. The Federal Government should contribute its fair share to making the Island and its National Monument safe, accessible and attractive, starting with some basic safety needs.

2. We think it is particularly important for the Park Service play a strong role in welcoming visitors to the Island as a whole. For that reason we thought Alternatives C or D – which stress the Monument's connection to the rest of the Island and to the surrounding Harbor – were the most appealing. The National Monument should not look inward, but should – through the programs and physical improvements identified in the Plan – extend itself to the exciting developments taking place on the Island and the Harbor. We would encourage NPS to explore either of these alternatives as it implements the General Management Plan.

3. Establishing the Monument as a center for Harbor interpretation (Alternative D) will require coordination with other NPS and other Harbor destinations. One immediate opportunity to connect the Island with other National Parks would be for the National Monument to be marketed as a destination for the millions of visitors to the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. NPS should aggressively work with the new ferry concessionaire to encourage those passengers to visit the Island as well.

4. The Plan appropriately recognizes Castle Williams as the Island landmark. In addition to removing asbestos and making the other improvements that will enable the public to visit its halls and roof, the NPS should early on remove the non-contributing buildings and create a green landscaped setting for this icon. Over the long term, it is clear that vehicular traffic around the Castle should be designed to have minimal impacts to this important public space.

5. In closing, let me discuss the proposal of the New Globe Theatre – one of many private proposals for the Monument and the Island. The Alliance's encourages private proposals that offer programs supportive of a great civic space, keep within approved historic restrictions and an overall planning framework, and do not privatize public spaces on the Island.

As the public stewards of the Monument for this and subsequent generations, the Park Service clearly believes that conversion of the Castle into a theatre as proposed by the Globe is not in keeping with the Monument's purpose, and would constitute a major impact that would forever impair the resources and values fundamental to the Monument.

We are a coalition, and within that coalition, we have members who strongly agree with the conclusion reached by the Park Service. Other members of our coalition believe firmly that the vision and private philanthropy represented by the Globe proposal is an exciting and appropriate use and could constitute the private partnership that will likely be required for the Castle to be fully rehabilitated. Consequently, we are not in a position to advocate for the Globe proposal at this time.

Thank you.

RENEE HIRSHFIELD, from Saint Louis, Missouri:

Since childhood, I have embraced the theater as an art form and responded as well to the theaters themselves, those magnificent physical structures embodying both the majesty and sheer entertainment value of the spoken (and sung) word. Significantly, my interest for the theater in New York was influenced and encouraged by my mother, a transplanted North Carolinian.

Thus, I regard the New Globe proposal as a national imperative that would benefit not only New York but also the country as a whole. The National Park Service would do well by all Americans to revitalize the present structure and transform it into a revenue-producing--and, more importantly, soul-enlightening--cultural and educational center.

SOFIA LANDON GEIER, from New York, New York:

I cannot imagine tourists flocking to Governors Island to "tour" the dilapidated former fort. The Fort is part of history, yes, but, history is well-served by existing Park Service entities such as Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty.

New York City needs more revenue. Let's be sensible and make the best choice for the people of our city and give tourists another reason to choose New York City as a top destination.

For those of us who live in New York, one trip to Ellis Island, one day spent waiting in line to visit Lady Liberty, one 3 hour ride on the Circle Line is plenty.

The New Globe would give NYC residents reason to venture to Governor's Island again and again -- for pleasure, for culture, for education about our city's past.

We need a structure with a purpose that will "thrill" us, not a musty reminder of past glory on the battlefield. Castle Williams is not Gettysburg. Enough of war, if you please.

ETHAN GETO, from New York, New York:

Dear National Park Service,

The New Globe Theater is the perfect fit for Governor's Island -- it will serve tourism and economic development as well as providing an unparalleled cultural and educational resource for residents of the New York metropolitan region. A world-class theater is much more relevant to New Yorkers than turning a fort into a military museum. Moreover, I understand that the New Globe proposal calls for the history of the fort to be presented in an interesting and informative manner.

Please respect public opinion and give New Yorkers a vibrant theatre arts center and a compelling reason to visit Governor's Island (where my Dad was stationed for a time during WW II).

RICHARD HOUGH, Little Silver, NJ
THE NEW GLOBE

As a student of history with a particular interest in the War of 1812, I am a strong proponent of the New Globe Proposal. The New Globe offers the potential for a true public/private partnership which both preserves the historic significance of the island ~~site~~ and creates a ^{needed} meaningful differentiating characteristic from other monuments in the area. This should obviate the need for a faced ferry ride to or from other ^{HARBOR} sites. Just as the Statue of Liberty stands atop Fort Wood, the New Globe not only protects the historic integrity of Castle Williams, it provides a means to introduce people to the history of Governor's Island. As we approach the 100th Anniversary of the War of 1812, let's support a plan which acknowledges & educates visitors on the Island's role defending NY Harbor ⁱⁿ the ^{past} while beginning the new role of defending our culture.

DEBORAH THAWLEY,
wife of Australian Ambassador Thawley, from Washington, District of Columbia:

It is the most inspired use of the site that I can imagine. It will transform New York the way the Opera House did Sydney. The fact that the building will be designed by Sir Norman Foster will make it truly special.

Every visitor to New York will want to visit it. It's a spectacular idea."

KEVIN KELLY, from Provo, Utah:

THIS IS AN AMAZING PROJECT. I'VE BEEN TO GOVERNORS ISLAND WITH A YOUTH GROUP. IT IS A VERY SPECIAL PLACE.

THIS IS THE PROJECT THAT WILL SAVE THE ISLAND FROM RUIN.

I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument.

I'm a New York resident who regularly takes advantage of the many National Park Service attractions in the area -- as well as other facilities. And I believe that the New Globe Theater would be a remarkable and unique addition to the New York landscape.

The alternative plans I've heard about seem duplicative and wasteful, and it's a disappointment that the New Globe proposal is not more eagerly embraced by the National Park Service.

I've visited most of the surrounding Harbor sites -- including Governor's Island -- and the New Globe proposal is the most exciting idea I've heard in a very long time combining history, public engagement and viable financial approaches. I urge you to make Governor's Island more than another visitor center with a bunch of plaques and dioramas by switching to the New Globe Theatre's idea of a vital theater center inside a beautifully restored historical monument.

In the same way that the Delacorte Theatre anchors Central Park and brings both residents and tourist into the park, the New Globe Theatre's proposal would guarantee a regular stream of people enjoying the New York experience and culture downtown.

I grew up outside Manhattan and then lived in Manhattan as a young adult. I feel it vital to maintain our great city's history and to support our city's position as the center of great theatre in America. In no other city is live theater part of each family's tradition the way it is in Manhattan. New Yorkers love their theatrical spaces and this one would be most beloved by the people who live there.

There is wide-spread support for this innovative & exciting project - 65% - that's a big number!

It is both unique - drawing it's own audiences to the island - and complementary to the other proposed activities - both illic and active.

Plus what better use for this magnificent structure - to drop a theater into this fort.

It is the quintessential restoration & adaptive re-use project.

It is mysterious how the esteemed National Park Service could have lost this project out of its plans - a project that will be responsible for raising so much private money and has so much Govt support including from both of our Senators.

I urge you to re-consider and include this great project in your plans for the historic

As a Broadway actor and writer - and as the son of a twenty-five year veteran of the military who often went to Governor's Island for everything from medical check-ups to shop for groceries - I urge you to approve the New Globe project. Not only would it enrich the cultural heritage of our great city, but it would also help to preserve Governor's Island in a way heretofore unseen. How many New Yorkers even know about or have visited the Island? Now, with this great project - it would not only raise awareness of the historical significance of Governor's Island, but ensure it's financial survival and preservation through an active connection with the vibrant arts community of New York City. And what better way to use an old military fort - a sign of war - than to turn it into a place of creation, art and entertainment that will delight generations of New Yorkers and visitors to our city alike for years to come.

Give Governor's Island the boost and chance it needs to thrive in the future of our city - not by relegating it to the status of relic - but by giving the New Globe approval to become a part of the rich tapestry of New York.

In no other city is live theater part of each family's tradition the way it is in Manhattan. New Yorkers love their theatrical spaces and this one would be most beloved by the people who live there.

JAMES GALLAGHER,
from Pompton Plains, New Jersey:

The last thing this country needs at this time is another monument to warfare.

I am a decorated Korean War soldier who recognizes our dire need for positive vision and positive values - as exemplified by the New Globe Theater. It would be a travesty to glorify this decaying hulk as a war monument when it never even engaged in firing a shot.

Better we accept the public's outcry for peace and inspiration. I gladly join my name to this appeal.

JOEY GUASTELLA, from Howard Beach, New York:

The New Globe is an amazing prospect, and, as a third generation New Yorker, I was filled with pride at the prospect of such an accomplishment to take place in the city in which I was born and raised.

The historical significance of this project is monumental, and the window of opportunity for all levels of education programs to follow is wide open. Can you imagine the impact that a cultural venue such as THIS would have on our youth, as well as what this can tell the entire world about New York City's respect for historical preservation and the arts? Additionally, the very idea of a form of US-UK cultural alliance through such site can resound internationally.

I appeal to the National Park Service to approve the New Globe.

BECKY NORDMANN, from Brooklyn, New York:

This is a wonderful idea for New York City! I think it would be an excellent use for the old Castle William. And a very unique attraction that would draw visitors from all over the world.

JUNE BRIGGS, from New York, New York:

I've been a New Yorker all my life and have been to Governor's Island many times during its Coast Guard period.

I've followed the many suggestions for the future use of the island from Casinos to Convention facilities and beyond. The idea for the New Globe is the only one that makes sense to this native New Yorker.

KATHLEEN RANDALL, from New York City:

Converting Castle Williams into a performing arts venue is a practical, perfect use of the structure.

Such a venue will contribute far more to the life of the city than a preserved empty monument to view as an object or another history museum.

MARK PALERMO, from Washington, D.C.:

The Globe's proposal is an appropriate use of the site. It would be a great example of sensitive development of an historic property, and it would make Castle Williams an instant cultural icon.

JON PALMER CLARIDGE, from Chevy Chase, Maryland:

I am an arts professional in the National Capital Area and have had great dealings the National Park Service here.

The New Globe Project seems like an absolute win-win.

MAGDA SPASIANO, from South Boston, Massachusetts:

I am a theater teacher in Boston, working with under-served, at-risk youth, and introducing them to the wide and wonderful world of Shakespeare. We attend productions all over the Greater Boston area, but when we talk about the Globe, that's pretty much all we can do - talk. We will not be making a trip to London any time soon. . .

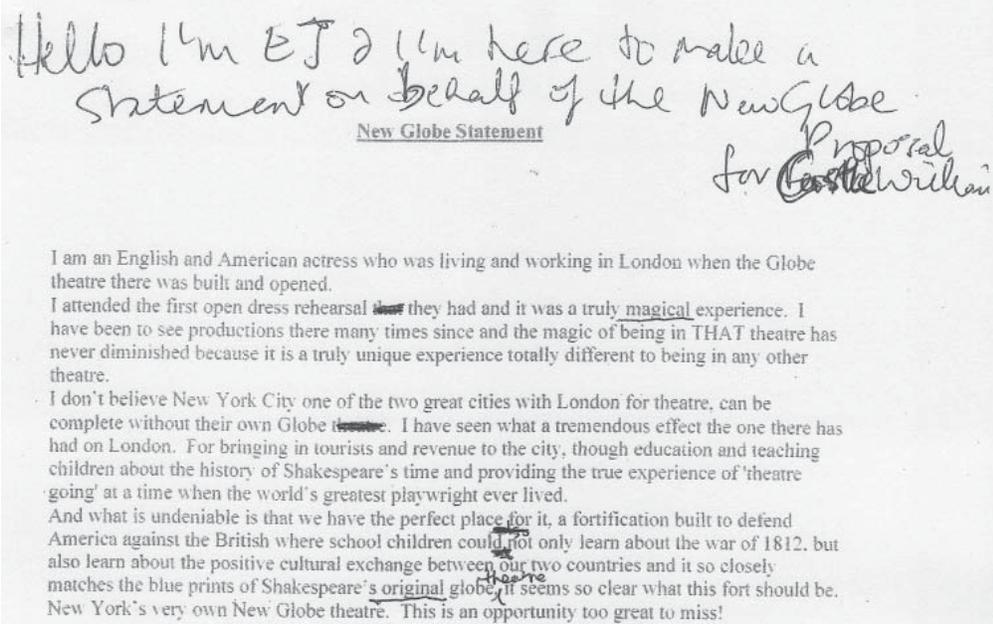

. . . but we could get to New York.

The experience that my students would gain from a visit to a park, museum and Shakespeare show, would make it a required part of any program I run.

MARTIN MOELLER, from Washington, DC:

As curator at the National Building Museum, I am quite familiar with the proposed project, which I consider to be extraordinary both in its inventive design and its sympathetic treatment of the existing historic structure. The new architectural elements, which will be entirely reversible, complement the scale and character of the existing structure while giving it new life. I suspect that, when completed, this project will be considered an outstanding example of adaptive re-use, worthy of global acclaim.

The project also provides an unprecedented opportunity for New York City and for the National Park Service. It will be a boon -- culturally, recreationally, and economically -- for the city and for the nation as a whole. I urge you to approve this exciting and intelligently conceived initiative."

Usually in the habit of advocating for patients, I thank you for the opportunity to advocate on behalf of establishing a Globe Theater at Castle Williams.

For over 400 years, the words of Shakespeare have made connections with people of all ages and all backgrounds as with performance art in general, which has been part of all societies since our very beginnings.

How wonderful it would be, to twin the serene beauty of Governor's Island with a magnificent educational and performance venue which would attract people from all over the world, bearing witness to both the greatness of nature as well as the greatness of man.

I request that you give careful consideration to the plethora of benefits of establishing a New Globe Theater, as described by the various documents that you've received, as well as the comments of others here today.

You are being given an historic opportunity to create another great landmark for New York and our nation.

May you be blessed with great wisdom and foresight.

Governors Island National Monument – Draft Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement

Good evening. I am Warrie Price, founder and president of The Battery Conservancy. The Conservancy began operation in 1995 to partner with New York City, New York State and the Federal Government to revitalize the park's 25 acres at the tip of Manhattan – historically called "The Battery".

I am pleased to give the following remarks in response to the Governors Island National Monument - Draft General Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement. First, let me commend the National Park Service staff for a most readable and accessible document. I especially like the large format numbering system and the graphic design of the table of contents. As Federal documents go, this one hits a high mark for legibility.

I speak now from my own experience throughout the past 14 years at the Battery. From the beginning of The Battery Conservancy's work to rethink, redesign and rebuild the Battery landscape it has been most important to "listen" to the site's unique stories. We understand the Conservancy must be current in understanding public needs while at the same time honoring the past.

Our sites must be welcoming and reachable, as access to the water for ferry transport has always been prominent in our plan for the rebuilding of the Battery. Secondly, but equally important, is to return both the park and the Castle to their historic roles as Downtown destinations. The Battery has traditionally been a place of gatherings and cultural performances and now it is the only open air Public Assembly space left in Lower Manhattan.

We are also interested in communicating to the public the importance of ecological sustainability and how this plays a key role in the park's rebuilding efforts. We have ventured towards sustainable horticulture and native plant cultivation by planting over 70,000 sq. feet of perennials and implementing eco-friendly and organic gardening techniques.

The next step in the continually evolving role of The Battery Conservancy will be transforming from designers and builders to hosting cultural events and educators. We have already started to initiate this transformation by designing a 21st century carousel that is inspired by the Battery's historic role as a place for entertainment and home to New York's first aquarium from 1896 to 1941. SeaGlass, Carousel at the Battery will incorporate an innovative, aquatic themed design and focus on cultural and educational programs.

As world-renowned architect, Frank Gehry, designs the Battery Playspace, he plans to use the historic stones from the 1700's which were discovered by the MTA during their excavation for the new subway tunnel. Mr. Gehry plans to reuse what was recovered from the stone walls to reinterpret the history of the Battery and its unique location, on the banks of the Hudson River.

The GMP plans for the historical north end of Governors Island respects these historic treasures. We stand ready to work with you as we all come together to develop a cohesive plan to unite all the harbor sites. We will show the world where we began as a nation, where we have been, and now -- how we welcome the future.

I grew up on Governor's Island and have many wonderful memories. Of all the ideas I have heard so far, I really like this one. It is perfect for that building. I therefore strongly urge you, for the sake of the history of NY and the people that lived on that island for 200 years, please consider this proposal earnestly.

FERNANDE RAINE, Executive Director,
Carr Center for Human Rights Policy,
Harvard University:

Knowing of the different alternatives, there is no doubt in my mind that the New Globe Theater and the Performing Arts present the only plan that would allow the island to become a factor in city life.

The New Globe would create a new icon of world-openness, art, community, and beauty at this important entry point to the greatest city in the world. What potential! What a vision! I am excited already to attend opening night, whereas I can be sure that neither the military museum nor the harbor building would hardly -- if ever -- draw me to Castle Williams (and I am a military historian...).

Subject LETTER TO NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
 From Kathy Eby <keby219@yahoo.com>
 Date Sunday, March 9, 2008 1:37 pm
 To Thomas Fleishell <tfeish@optonline.net>

This letter is directed to Linda Neal of The National Park Service and other local and state authorities regarding the General Management Plan for the future operations of Governors Island, New York.

From 1969-1971 I was fortunate to have lived on Governors Island while my father served in the U.S. Coast Guard. Those two short years were the ones that most profoundly influenced me in many ways and for many reasons. I had never before or never since, experienced such a deep and emotional sense of community and belonging. When I return to Governors Island it still feels most like "home" to me. This unexplainable phenomenon and passion for Governors Island seems to be shared by the majority of those who have had the same privilege to have lived on the island. Talk to any former military resident and they will share similar stories and sentiments which we all respect and relate to.

As a military brat, I certainly respect and agree with the importance of preserving our historical structures such as the Fort Jay and Castle Williams. It is because of my personal and emotional ties to the island that I feel it is imperative to also let the later story of the Army and Coast Guard military history continue to be told in it's entirety through the National Park Service. For this reason I strongly support Alternative Plan D of the General Management Plan.

HOWEVER, I WOULD ALSO REQUEST THAT THE NPS CONSIDER OBTAINING AND OPERATING THE FOLLOWING:

THE SOUTH BATTERY- The third fort constructed in 1812 as a defense to Buttermilk Channel. It only seems fitting that all forts be owned and operated under the same scope and management plan.

THE OPEN SPACE AND LANDSCAPING SURROUNDING FORT JAY- This area is known as the parade ground and golf course. These landscapes are an integral part of Fort Jay, as they were originally constructed and sculpted for the specific purpose of providing additional outer defenses to our military. I feel these areas should be retained as part of the fort property and restored to their original form as much as possible. This will give visitors a realistic perspective of why they existed in relationship to the surrounding waterways and outlying areas.

ST. CORNELIUS CHAPEL- Built in 1906 with an English Gothic design of the 14th century, this chapel may not have been as significant militarily, but I feel it would best be protected, maintained by the NPS for it's historical value.

Lastly, I feel I must comment on the outstanding proposal for a Globe Theater. Castle Williams has existed very closely to it's original state for the past 197 years. This structure has earned the most significant and prestigious designation allowed in the U.S. as a National Monument. The fort and the purpose for which it was built, to protect our country from the British during the war of 1812, deserves and commands ongoing respect for the people, troops and for country which it has served. Any changes to the interior or otherwise would detrimentally and irreparably affect the very essence of Castle Williams as being one of the most significant early coastal fortifications in our history.

I feel very strongly that the consideration of a theater of any kind is an outrageous and a disrespectful injustice that compromises the integrity of Castle Williams for a lesser good. Also; I do not feel that a private entity using public property for their personal interest and gain is in the best interest for the future preservation of Governors Island. I believe it would be difficult to maintain an amicable, successful partnership when two entities cohabitate with different objectives.

I am grateful to have the opportunity to express my opinion and suggestions in this format. I thank all those who are currently putting forth the effort to improve the management of this very special place in the New York harbor, known as Governors Island.

Respectfully submitted,

Hello Tom -

Hope you and your family are all well!

I'd like to say thank you for your willingness to attend the NPS Forum and represent us. I would love to be there standing with you, but my schedule at the moment is crazy on all fronts. I do hope to come back possibly during the summer, and will certainly be there once again for Open House NY on Columbus Day weekend to give tours and tell our stories.

Attached is my statement. I will be submitting this to the Park Service's web site, as well. If you are able to read it, that would be fantastic. I will look forward to trying to get together with you for a visit my next time in town, lunch will be on me!

Best regards,

Statement regarding the National Park Service General Management Plan for Governors Island

I was a wide eyed 10 year old boy when I moved with my family to Governors Island in the summer of 1965. There could not have been a more fascinating place to arrive for a boy of that age, and I was immediately enamored by Fort Jay and Castle Williams. My paper route in the Fall of 1965 included the US Army MP Guard Shack just inside the double doors of Castle Williams, and every morning I would read the words "Commenced in 1807, Completed 1811" with awe.

Over the last few years, it has been my distinct pleasure to volunteer my services to the National Park Service in leading guided tours of these magnificent historical structures, not only telling visitors to the island about the history of the structures, but to personalize these tales in a way that allowed a view of what living on this island was like, and how large these forts loomed among those of us who were privileged enough to be able to call Governors Island home.

While many former residents will mourn the loss of Governors Island as a base and a home, I am thrilled to see this beautiful island now a part of New York, and the residents of New York now having the opportunity to enjoy what we as members of the military and their dependents have enjoyed for 200 years. Thirty-eight years after my family's departure from Governors Island, the historic north end of the island looks not one bit different. And I would hope it would continue to look that way for generations of New Yorkers to enjoy in the future, so that they can visit, enjoy and appreciate in the way those of us who lived there were permitted.

I believe Plan D of the National Park Service General Management Plan for Governors Island will offer the residents of New York, as well as tourists to the area to access the island and appreciate its history in the best possible way. Fort Jay and Castle Williams are structures that deserve to be preserved and restored to their constructed purpose, and New York residents and island tourists deserve the opportunity to see these structures, and experience a part of history. I am greatly appalled by the efforts of the Globe Theater group to permanently alter and destroy Castle Williams. There are precious few such structures in our country for the public to see. It makes no sense to destroy a 200 year old artifact of our history for any purpose. Castle Williams, as an artifact of history, and of America's defense, along with the honor of its service as a military prison, deserves to be preserved and shown in all of its glory, for everyone to enjoy.

I would also like to express my disappointment in the limited extent of the Governors Island National Monument, and would like to recommend that its boundaries – and therefore the administration by the National Park Service – be extended to include the parade grounds, South Battery and the stately homes and structures included in the areas known as Nolan Park and Colonel's Row. Preservation of these homes and buildings in a park like setting will offer visitors the chance to experience the beauty of Governors Island in the manner that has made this island the best home ever for those who were lucky enough to draw the assignment.

I am grateful for the opportunity to have these feelings heard and entered into record. It is my sincere hope that the National Park Service be given the approval to begin the effort to bring their plan to reality. I have supreme confidence that the island will be best preserved for future generations under their leadership.

Majestic. One of the prettiest pieces of real estate in this country. Historic. She truly is grand, Governors Island...OUR Island, emotional deed holder present!

The plans and proposals presented over the last year and months have left me feeling sad and at the very best... I sort of have been in a mind set of, well, this seems less 'awful' than that. A water park? My God! Historic!!!! Spirit and life there, unseen perhaps but 'felt'. So much presented seems like it would defame this grand lady, my humble opinion.

I am privileged to have lived and loved and grown on this incredible and wonderfully grand Island. It is so difficult to convey the feelings that so many of us have for and about Governors Island, yet at the same time it is remarkable how many of us feel the same, sort of like the Island is part of us, running through our veins and giving us life. I so disagree with the statement "you can't go home again". Happily I walked off the Coursen and onto sacred ground and knew I was home, home again. I do believe in the 'sacred ground' too, not just being emotional. We need to protect the historical integrity of this Island and it's sacred ground as well. Native American Indians played here too!! Wives and children waited for husband's and father's to return from duty, waiting at the dock for the ship to come in...safe return of the men who protected our homeland and our seas.

How incredibly fortunate I have been to have lived and shared my life on this Island with people I can only describe as "the finest kind", life long memories and sentimental journeys. Family, friends, history...the Island's and my own. More than 35 years later and I still call her home, in my heart and my soul. First love and oh so much more! Yes, majestic and grand and beloved...Governors Island.

Alternative Plan D, best one I have seen. My trust is with you as well as my thanks.

Dear Sirs and Madams,

I appreciate the opportunity to voice my opinion on this matter. Being a past resident of Governors Island I have continually been interested in the goings on of that magical island in NYC harbor. My family made it our home from 1972 until 1983. We lived in three different housing locations and visited every nook and cranny the island has to offer. At this time I would like to cast my vote for the Alternative Plan D. I believe that plan will be most efficient for the island. I do not believe the island has been the same since it was robbed of it's residents. I have visited the island a couple of times over the past few years and have had a aching heart due to the lack of activity and seem to feel the island feels the same way. It used to flourish with the families there long ago and I truly believe the island is not the same without them. I think the Alternative D Plan will be the best option for the island and I believe the new residents will cherish the island as much as the past ones have. I would also like to say I am against the Globe Theatre idea for Castle Williams. I believe changing ANY part of the Castle will ruin it forever. PLEASE, do not change any of the old structures on the island. They hold so much history and it would be a tragedy if that history is altered. I know there are so many others that feel the way I do and I hope each and every one of our voices are heard. Thank you again for this opportunity Tom, thanks for agreeing to represent us!. I was sure you would not mind me giving Kathy your email for her to request your help to represent our voice. I would definitely be there with you if I could - know that I will be there (as we all will) in spirit. So I wanted to send my comments on to you if you can use them on Monday. I also sent my comments via their website. Thanks again, and I look forward to the next time we can meet again!

Here is my comment:

I would like to lend my support to Alternative Plan D.I also oppose any future consideration for the Globe Theater.As a former resident of Governors Island as a Coast Guard dependent from 1969-1976, I am very attached to ensuring the true historic preservation of our National treasures such as we have on Governors Island. These monuments such as the Castle Williams, and Fort Jay are a lasting tribute and honor to all our military forces that have and continue to preserve our freedoms we continue to enjoy as Americans. Thank you for considering our voices in your plan development,

Hi Tom,

I'm including my statement that I would appreciate deeply just being on you, and possibly read when you appear in our behalf at the public hearing.

Thank you,
JoAnn (Aguirre) Burkett

I'm writing this to ask that you consider alternative D. I have an interest in keeping Governors Island's Historical Landmarks as close to their original state as possible. The history that these landmarks have in our American History as well as in many, many people's lives who lived on Governors Island is of great importance. Personally, I lived and played there for 5 1/2 years of my childhood. I was so very blessed to live there from 1966-1971. Many of us who share a personal history of Governors Island have found each other and continue to share our lives. This place that we called home, we still do. Part of what makes this place so very special is it's role in American History. Governors Island needs to be preserved in as much of it's historical state for education of it's importance in American History.

ERIC DE CAVAINAC, from New York, New York:

It is ludicrous to ignore what could become an enduring cultural icon for the City of New York. The New Globe Theater represents a forward thinking use for the national monument that is visionary as well as economically viable.

The NPS preferred use for Castle Williams represents the typical, boring and uninspired thinking that is the archetype of inefficient government bureaucracy. Congratulations on drafting yet another example of why most educated Americans disengage from public activities, and actively seek to eliminate government from any aspect of their lives.

Please reconsider the draft, and listen to the people whose taxes are ultimately funding the plan. We don't need another soulless multimedia staging area to bore tourists while hocking hot dogs and junk food. Aim higher.

My name is Melinda Hall and I came from Austin TX to speak to you tonight, I'd like to read a statement on behalf of the New Globe but ~~here is a letter from~~

Legendary Broadway Producer and Director

HAROLD PRINCE: who could not join us ~~but~~
Mr. Prince writes:

I have been so excited anticipating the construction of The New Globe Theater in New York Harbor. What an amazing way to enter New York. It's been a long time since the Statue of Liberty took her perch; The Globe
Theater should be an exciting adjunct.

The Globe promises to be not only a great tourist attraction but hugely supportive of New York's role as A center of the living arts in our country."

Thank you, HAL Prince

Shakespeare is the voice of humanity - let this voice be heard

My mother was offended recently by the cover of the Middlebury alumni magazine, which said something like "Shakespeare! Still relevant!" She felt it was an insult to the bard--and to the magazine's readers--to imply that his relevance was even in question. Still more recently, my husband and I attended a local production of Macbeth, and were somewhat astonished by our line-by-line familiarity with the play--and not because we were such good students of literature in our time, but because modern discourse is pebbled with Macbeth references.

Every speaker of English should be not steeped, but drenched, in Shakespeare. And just as chamber music is best heard in a small venue, and movies are best seen on the big screen, the sunbeams-and-butterflies, angelic choirs, absolute best way to experience Shakespeare would be in our very own New Globe on this side of the pond. Castle Williams is like a gift that brings us so far on our way to that goal – and allows the forgotten military fort of the past to play an active part in the New York Harbor of the future; approving the New Globe is "a consummation devoutly to be wished."

JONATHAN SIEDERS, from Plano, Texas:

I am impressed with the ingenuity of your plan to build the new globe theater within the existing Castle Williams. It respects the historic significance of the fort, while giving us the opportunity to celebrate a new day; an opportunity to build an experience of culture from the ashes of a symbol of war. This is a rare opportunity. Please do not let it pass.

I live in Dallas, Texas. I visited New York with my wife and daughter in 2005; we had a wonderful time, visiting many of the "must do" sights of New York: the Statue of Liberty, the Met, the Guggenheim, Central Park, and Times Square. And of course, the ground zero site. We would love to visit New York again; however, there are many places we have not been, that we would love to experience. But I can truly say there are two things that would definitely bring us back to New York: the memorial at the World Trade Center, and the New Globe Theater.

THE DANIEL FAMILY, from Spring Green, Wisconsin:

My family and I have been generational supporters of the Park service. We are proud to live in a country with a department that is dedicated to stewarding our natural areas.

We honor and defer to your choices (even the ones that seem to make little sense to us) knowing that you are looking at a much larger picture than the one my family is privy to. We are emailing because of this: the Daniel Family (all four generations that still camp and hike) offers their support of the New Globe Project believing it will become a marvelous national treasure.

Thank you for the wonderful work you do and also for the fantastic staff (on the parks level) that share our summers with us.

ADD (A) INTRO

The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument is a superb idea. I urge you to support it.

As a teacher of college students who came from across the country for ten spring semesters to study New York's culture, I saw the strength of New York's audience for theater and the rich promise the performing arts hold for the city. In my current role as a foundation executive supporting art and culture, I regard the chance for a major cultural institution on Governors' Island as a unique opportunity for New York.

Live theater is at the heart of New York's cultural life -- not just Broadway, but the dozens of small theaters and performance spaces that make New York, and not London, the theater capital of the English-Speaking world. In any given week we have more plays here than anywhere else in the world. In addition, we have great universities with excellent training programs in the performing arts. And we have thousands of actors and other theater professionals.

But to maintain and strengthen this crucial cultural and economic part of the city's life, we need an institution that will give the classics of English theater a regular home, with first class productions and great acting.

The New Globe Theater will offer not only Shakespeare but also works by modern playwrights. And it will add classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London's Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will help what we need most for good theater -- not only a broader audience, but a more deeply thoughtful one, ready to take in the riches of our strongest artistic traditions

The economics of this plan work. The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity for 1,200 visitors and with 400 "groundling" tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park.

It is folly to sacrifice these riches. Your currently preferred Alternative D ("Harbor Center") offers nothing nearly so valuable: it duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others.

ADD (B) OVER

You have a chance to create a great new institution that will both save and enliven one an important historic building. This plan will add something unique to the city's cultural strengths. I assure you that people will come to Governors' Island for first-class cultural experiences, and that they will come back again and again. None of the other alternatives before you will so quickly build this kind of dedicated following. None will do nearly as much to give the Island the life and the liveliness it needs to flourish.

It fills me with great concern that Superintendent Linda Neal told me, when discussing the 12 steps of the GMP Process at the Open House, that getting Congress's approval for the final plan for Governors Island is only "a courtesy" – especially as the National Park Service has already ignored a congressional letter urging the approval of the New Globe.

If you do not listen to our expressed wishes during the public scoping period, when 65% requested the New Globe, AND you do not listen to our elected officials, then how is this a public process? Hiding behind the argument that placing a REVERSIBLE theatrical inset in the EMPTY OPEN courtyard of the fort "impairs" the resource is not acceptable – especially since the theater would actually pay for the restoration and maintenance of the resource.

Your first newsletter from November 2003 states: "By participating in the National Park Service planning process, YOU CAN MAKE SURE YOUR VOICE IS HEARD!" The public has loudly requested the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe. Please honor your role as the public's steward.

Let me conclude by asking you to please comment why the Service, against the public's expressed wishes, instead favors the most expensive alternative that would require tens of millions of dollars in capital and annual operational funding AND thus cannibalize visitors, revenue and funding from the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island, and the other national parks in New York Harbor?

| 6282 | I'm going to be reading a statement from Mark Palermo of Washington, D.C. The Globe's proposal is an appropriate use of the site. | 6283 | My name is Adler. I'm a living historian. I've been a living historian for close to thirty years. I volunteer at Old Bethpage Restoration Village on Long Island. I also am a volunteer at The National Park Service. I've done living history at Gettysburg, Antetiam , Fort McHenry and lately, the past two years, I've been the Military Commander at Governors Island for their civil war weekend. Putting a theater in Castle Williams is a travesty. That's hallowed ground. Both federal and Confederate soldiers died this. It's hallowed ground just like Gettysburg, Antetiam and Manassas is. And the wheels of progress of the Federal Government, yes, they turn very slowly. But if you go to Gettysburg, and you see what happened there in the past ten years, a lot of property has been acquired, non-historic buildings have been torn down and the battlefield is being restored as fast as they can to what it was 140 years ago. And to put a theater in that fortification is no -- it's terrible. I'm not against putting a theater, building a New Globe Theater. You want to build a theater, put it in Central Park. That's where it belongs. It's a centrally located place. Thank you. | 3/10/2008 | | ADLER , Mark . | No |

| 5951 | Re: NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL Thank you for holding the recent hearing in Federal Hall on March 10th - I was there, and to experience democracy in action in such historic surroundings was to feel in touch with the founding ideals of this country. I have worked in New York for five years but my home is in a World Heritiage City - Bath, in England - where we have grappled, not always successfully, with keeping historic buildings vital by renewing their usefulness. We have learned that a building little visited is a building with little chance to engage with its community. I heard many good reasons for supporting the new globe on March 10, but I also heard and appreciated concern from those wish Castle Williams to perserved as 'pure'. If the globe prosposal intended to materially alter the building, I would share their concern - but instead it celebrates its unique circular couryard by using it to house the new globe. Finally, having seen the part played by the London Globe Theatre in revitalising Southwalk and bringing a new appreciation of the city's relationship with the water, I am sure the New York version can do the same. An American, Sam Wannamaker, made the London Globe possible - please give all us of us, from all around the world, the chance to make the New York globe a reality. | 3/16/2008 | | Alston, Giles . | No |

| 6308 | Let the record show you've pronounced it extremely well. I'm Raoul Bahnani (ph) and I'm a private citizen, and enthusiastic supporter of the New Globe proposal and respectfully submit a couple of comments from people who couldn't be here tonight on behalf of the New Globe Theater as well. Ethan Geto of New York, New York, some of you may know: Dear National Park Service, the New Globe Theater is the perfect fit for Governors Island. It will serve tourism and economic development as well as providing an unparalleled cultural and educational resource for the residents of the New York metropolitan region. A world-class theater is much more relevant to New Yorkers than turning a fort into a military museum. Moreover, I understand that the New Globe proposal calls for the history of the fort to be presented in an interesting and informative manner. Please respect public opinion and give New Yorkers a vibrant theater arts center and a compelling reason to visit Governors Island. Again, by the way, his father was stationed for a time in World War II on Governors Island. And then the other comment comes from Sofia Landon Geier, who couldn't be with us tonight, from New York, New York: I cannot imagine tourists flocking to Governors Island to tour a dilapidated former fort. The fort is part of history, yes. But history is well served by the existing Park Service entities such as Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. New York City needs more revenue. Let's be sensible and make the best choice for the people of our city and give tourists another reason to choose our city as a top destination. For those of us who live in New York, one trip to Ellis Island, one day spent waiting in lined to visit Lady Liberty, one three-hour ride on the Circle Line is plenty. The New Globe would give NYC residents reason to venture to Governors Island again and again, for pleasure, for culture, for education about our city's past. We need a structure with a purpose that will thrill us, not a musty reminder of past glory on the battlefield. Castle Williams is not Gettysburg. Thank you. | 3/10/2008 | | BAHNANI, Raoul . | No |

| 2496 | I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. I'm a New York resident who regularly takes advantage of the many National Park Service attractions in the area -- as well as other facilities. And I believe that the New Globe Theater would be a remarkable and unique addition to the New York landscape. The alternative plans I've heard about seem duplicative and wasteful, and it's a disappointment that the New Globe proposal is not more eagerly embraced by the NPS. I've visited most of the surrounding Harbor sites -- including Governor's Island -- and the New Globe proposal is the most exciting idea I've heard in a very long time combining history, public engagement and viable financial approaches. I hope you will approve the proposal and reject the alternatives. | 2/26/2008 | | Bassetto, Victoria . | No |

I'm here to read a statement from Renee Hirshfield from St. Louis, Missouri: Since childhood, I have embraced the theater as an art form and responded as well to the theaters themselves, those magnificent physical structures embodying both the majesty and sheer entertainment value of the spoken and sung word. Thus I regard the New Globe proposal as a national imperative that would benefit not only New York but also the country as a whole. The National Park Service would do well by all Americans to revitalize the present structure and transform it into a revenue-producing and more importantly, soul-enlightening cultural and educational center. I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. I'm sure you have already heard about the plans. Since so much thought has gone in to preserving much of what is already there i can see very little downsides to approving this program. | 6285 | Thank you. I'm Alexander Brash, Northeast Regional Director of the National Parks Conservation Association, which since 1919 has been a leading independent voice of the American people protecting and enhancing our national parks. And I'm pleased to submit this statement on behalf of our 340,000 members nationwide. Foremost, we would like to recognize Governors Island National Monument for the great potential for the site in augmenting the rich history of New York Harbor once it is truly open to the public. And I'd like to make four points. First, we sadly note that while the Memorial was established in 2001, and reauthorized in 2003, more than seven years have passed and little has tangibly happened in order to elevate this great site to its potential. And while the GMP is almost in hand, we would now urge the National Park Service to immediately provide the $5.8 million needed to clean up and fully open this site by 400th anniversary of Henry Hudson's arrival off Manhattan. While NPCA recognizes that the National Park Service suffers from a shortage of funding for our national parks on the order of more than $800 million every year, and thus has created a maintenance backlog exceeding several billion dollars, we believe that cleaning up and opening up Governors Island should be a priority in FY '09. In immediately funding such work, the National Park Service will begin providing its fair share of the funds needed to fully open all of Governors Island, and in doing so, will also provide an additional place for people visiting the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island to land and stop on the ferry, and will also help buttress the ferry service which would bring a vibrant vision of an inner and outer harbor ferry service to fruition. Our second point is that, with respect to alternative D, we strongly encourage the National Park Service to take a more holistic view and undertake a broader strategic examination of their efforts before adopting Alternative D. What's particularly striking is that while alternative D proffers Governors Island as a harbor's hub, a critical element, which is under the NPS' control, but is not being pursued in order to make this plan feasible. In short, if the National Park Service truly wants to make Governors Island the harbor's hub, then all tourists visiting the NPS' sites in the harbor should be funneled through the site, and ferries to and from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island should be loaded from Governors Island and not Battery Park. And if such is not the arrangement that NPS, the National Park Service is intending to pursue, then Governors Island will not be a hub of the harbor, though a great stop along the way. If this latter scenario is the true direction the NPS is heading in, then with Governors Island Alliance, we, too, suggest it is more likely that GINM will play a strong role in welcoming visitors to the island as a whole. And for that, we suggest other alternatives. | 3/10/2008 | National Parks Conservation Association | BRASH , Alexander . | No |

| | The third point is that NPCA has for more than 90 years worked to protect and enhance our national parks, and at the moment, we're very focused on working with the national parks on the Centennial Initiative. While still adhering to the strict and proper mandates of the Organic Act. With the Centennial looming in 2016, we're looking for how visitors might best interact with each site. We commend the National Park Service for dramatically broadening its horizons here in New York City, and working with a number of partners in new ways. With respect to Governors Island, and the proposal for the New Globe Theater, we believe it is not a good place on Governors Island. The reasons are simple. Both Castle Williams and Fort Jay are truly unique sites in New York Harbor. They are the last icons of their kind, standing testimony to the great role of defensive forts along America's shores. Like Fort Sumter, these two forts provide the potential to bring understanding and appreciation of sacrifice and honor to generations of Americans. Indeed, these sites are uniquely positioned to bring this message to a much larger and more diverse audience than other most other forts. Further, unlike Castle Clinton and Battery Park, which has a more diverse history, including that of providing entertainment to the people, the forts on Governors Island have no such provenance, and we concur that it would be inappropriate to inject such a use here. And finally, we'd like to support a new approach for interpretation here and across the board for the Centennial Initiative. We would like to encourage the National Park Service to not just preserve these two forts on Governors Island, but to move well beyond a staid benchmark. We believe these forts hold the possibility of bringing alive in this region of 22 million residents and a city with more than a million schoolchildren. We would like the Park Service to think of Williamsburg, Stourbridge and even a mid April day a Minuteman. We believe these two forts should join such historical sites to be fully restored and then brought alive with period characters and pageantry. These two forts, so close to tens of millions of potential visitors, have the opportunity to cost-effectively bring a living national park experience to a great host of Americans, indeed, to a great number of Americans who may never have the opportunity to visit our iconic western treasures. Thank you. | | | | |

| 6261 | I'm not a government agency. I'm a private nonprofit. You want to change your mind? All right. I'm Peg Breen, president of the New York Landmarks Conservancy, a private nonprofit preservation group. We've advocated for the preservation and reuse of the historic buildings on Governor's island for more than a decade. We've supported the creation of a National Monument, and continue to lobby for adequate federal funding of the monument. We welcome this long-awaited draft general management plan. While alternatives B and C have merit, we support the Park Service's preferred alternative, alternative D. Castle Williams and Fort Jay are national treasures. They stand on their own as important destinations with exciting stories to tell. But we believe that emphasizing Castle Williams not only as the iconic symbol of Governors Island, but also as the heart of the system of harbor parks, offers the greatest merit. Doing so would help the island attract some of the millions of people who visit Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty each year, and it would help lift attendance at the other valuable but lesser trafficked park sites. | 3/10/2008 | New York Landmarks Conservancy | BREEN , Peg . | No |

| | High attendance at the Monument would encourage increased exploration and appreciation of the rest of Governors Island as Alternative D would foster a seamless visitor experience. While the Park Service is looking for partners to create and support Alternative D, I note that the draft plan states that, "Public appreciation of the historic forts is among the principal purposes of the National Monument." We agree, and that is why the Landmarks Conservancy has never supported the proposal for a new Globe Theater in Castle Williams. New Yorkers have many opportunities to see Shakespeare's plays. There is only one Castle Williams. Inserting a theater into Castle Williams would subordinate the fort to create a limited use for a limited audience. It would negate the historic importance two presidents recognized in creating and reauthorizing the Monument and it prevents the interesting and valuable range of activities and audiences Alternative D would provide. The notion may sound appealing because relatively few people have seen Castle Williams. But imagine proposing a theater in the middle of Fort Sumter. Imagine turning Hamilton Grange over to a bed-and-breakfast operation or turning Federal Hall into the latest Cipriani events space. It is very important that City and State commit steady capital funding to attract private investment to the rest of the Island. It is just as crucial that the National Park Service and Congress commit operational and capital funding to the Monument. And we do not feel the plan places enough emphasis on that. The Park Service does a lot of good work, but it doesn't do it quickly. In this instance, however, the Park Service must quickly complete the plan to allow the Monument to get back on the Park Service's priority funding list. | | | | |

| 3205 | Re: PLEASE APPROVE THE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater. This venture strikes me as an extraordinary combination of making use of an historical site, developing an important cultural outlet and expanding on one of the most important industries of the New York City region: live theatre that attracts visitors from all over the "Globe." Surely the statistical, financial and cultural success of Shakespeare's Globe in London and the esteemed list of supporter for this project suggest how valuable this undertaking can be. Here is an opportunity to bring new attention to an existing national landmark and to create something new and exciting for our citizens as well. I urge you not to let this moment pass. Whatever concerns you may have about the project are surely ones that can be addressed in collegial and constructive collaboration. Please give this proposition your most serious attention and consideration. Thank you, Terry Burgler Citizen and Patron | 2/28/2008 | Burgler, Terry . | No |
| 4274 | Please reconsider your negative ranking of the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. The New Globe proposal offers, among many positives, two very valuable opportunities. The first is marrying two important aspects of our cultural heritage: the historic identity of the Fort and the inherent tradition of Shakespeare in our country's development. The National Endowment for the Arts has recognized the works of Shakespeare as an American tradition that was part of the making of our nation. Families coming to America or the settlers expanding our boundaries were most likely to have two books with them to sustain them: the Bible and the Works of William Shakespeare. Shakespeare is as much a part of our cultural tradition as the Bible is of our religious roots. Using Governors Island to celebrate both military and cultural American identities is an opportunity, not a problem. Secondly, the creation of the New Globe would spark interest (and attendance) for the site far beyond what the resored landmark would command on its own. Shakespeare is still a grass roots American enthusiasm. Hundreds of thousands of people travel | 3/5/2008 | Burgler, Terry . | No |

| | hundreds and even thousands of miles to attend their favorite American Shakespeare festivals every year. Many plan travel agendas to visit a series of festivals, in part so they can enjoy the other historical and cultural sites of the region--why not offer both in a single setting. Shakespeare theatres are among the top destination sites in our country. I would consider visiting Governors Island if I were in the neighborhood. I'm a history nut. I grew up around Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown. But I would unquestionably travel from Ohio to see the site were it to house the New Globe, and very possibly return again and again. Why would you not wish to enfranchise this national monument with that kind of appeal? Top off these two arguments with the cultural enrichment that the New Globe would bring to local community as so many festivals have done throughout the country. Talk to the local governments, the local businessmen, the educators and the local population of almost every Shakespeare Festival in the country and they will be nearly unanimous in their description of their local festival as a jewel of the community. Have you done your research on this? Are you thinking with vision for the future or merely saluting old guidelines? I am sure you believe you are acting with integrity and logic in your deliberations on this matter, but please consider revisiting your conclusions. There are literally millions of us out here that would be delighted should you change your mind. | | | | |
| 4548 | I'm writing this to ask that you consider alternative D. I have an interest in keeping Governors Island's Historical Landmarks as close to their original state as possible. The history that these landmarks have in our American History as well as in many, many people's lives who lived on Governors Island is of great importance. Personally, I lived and played there for 5 1/2 years of my childhood. I was so very blessed to live there from 1966-1971. Many of us who share a personal history of Governors Island have found each other and continue to share our lives. This place that we called home, we still do. | 3594 | Please support the proposal to create a New Globe Theater inside historic Castle Williams on Governors Island. It would be a wonderful addition to New York's cultural offerings. In London, the recreated Globe Theatre was, and continues to be, a major factor in encouraging visitors to the South Bank of the Thames. The New Globe Theater would likely have a similar effect on use of Governors Island, especially in the evenings. Abandonment of the proposal would be a huge mistake and would represent a lost golden opportunity. Thank you for considering the preferences of New Yorkers and others who love the performing arts in our City. | 2/29/2008 | | Burns, Erin . | No |

The Island watched over and protected New York for 200 years along with the men whom watched along and took care of her. Both did their duties with honor and pride, protecting us. Men from the South, That fought for the Confederate Army, died in Castle Williams because the Castle was used as a POW camp during the civil war, Fort Jay and the Grounds around it, Men from the Union Army till the Army's of this day and age were stationed, drilled and lived life there. Many Great Men passed through Governors Island and did great things to ensure our protection, Because they did it for duty, honor and country, Not for themselves, but for each other, But most important, for Us. Now in return to honor them, for given their all, we are going to let some Huckleberries Turn this most historic and Hallowed Ground in to a Shakespearean Theater/cat sanctuary, Let me shake and scratch this into all whom wants this to happen, It's wrong and it not the right thing to do. | 6273 | I'm Margaret Castillo, co-chair of the historic building committee of the AIA and I'm reading testimony on behalf of the AIA New York chapter. On behalf of the New York chapter and its four thousand architects and public members, I would like to express our support for the National Park Service efforts to plan for a rejuvenated an exciting Governors Island. As a member of the Governors Island Alliance, the AIA New York chapter has continuously advocated for an expansion of public access and programs on the island. GIPEC's choice of a stellar design team for the southern part of the island will ensure a diverse and interested flow of visitors to the island. The alternative chosen by the National Park Service for their General Management Plan must take advantage of this diverse flow, and the exciting topography architecture of the island. We therefore applaud the vision of the National Park Service in choosing as their preferred alternative a dynamic plan that offers a wide perspective on harbor and New York history. The plan builds on existing efforts to bring visitors to the water by alliance like New York City's Harbor District, and National Parks of New York Harbor. That programming and design not be done in isolation for a selective audience, but fit into a broader vision for the New York City's waterfront, is crucial to the success of Governors Island as a destination. We urge the National Park Service to fund this forward thinking vision for a park that is truly one of a kind. Thank you for permitting me to be able to testify. | 3/10/2008 | | CASTILLO , Margaret . | No |
| 449 | I am a Civil War buff, and also a history buff. I just want to comment on leaving history as it is in New York. Has New York not destroyed enough of its past history? The American Revolution was fought in and around New York in many locations, but what remains? It would be a sin to destroy any more history that New York may have left to visit wouldn't it? Please let something remain, if only a little reminder of what New York meant to the Civil War. Thanks, Darren Cecchini | 2/18/2008 | 119 NYSV | Cecchini, Darren S. | No |

| 3168 | If you are part of creating an incredible Shakespeare company here in New York City, you will be part of a lasting gift to our city, region, country and world. Yes we have Shakespeare in the Park, but that is only one Shakespearian production a year, always highly conceptualized. Imagine a company devoted to Shakespeare's incredible language doing 3-6 productions a year and during the school year as well. I urge you to look to the success of London's Globe Theatre and Royal Shakespeare Company. If America had the equivalent of the Royal Shakespeare Company, imagine the generation of actors and audience you would be growing. Now is the time to lead and help create something truly wonderful for ours and future generations. We've had so much destruction within this decade. Now is the time to move forward into cultural creation. Please seriously consider what an incredible gift this would be. Imagine what it would mean to a generation of New York schoolkids to grow up with Othello, Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, The Merry Wives of Windsor to name a few. | 3604 | I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater. You have an opportunity to do something that will make a huge positive change to both New York City and the entire country. Embrace it. This is a vision whose time has come. It is Doable and it would change the face of this country. I had the great good fortune to grow up with one of the greatest American Shakespeare companies, American Players Theatre, run by Randall Duk Kim and Anne Occhiogrosso, within easy driving distance from my home, and I know it impacted my whole generation. We got to grow up with Shakespeare as a part of our lives, and he is a master teacher on what it means to be Human. Believe me, if this came to pass, I would throw everything I have into making it a reality and the best it could be. Please see the big picture! Please allow this to go forward! This is on the level of Central Park. If you haven't yet seen Shakespeare as it was meant to be done, without the gimmicks and the concepts, you don't know what you're missing. It should happen in New York. Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter. | 2/29/2008 | Chewning, Frances . | No |

| 6033 | This letter is directed to Linda Neal of the National Park Service and other local and state officials regarding the General Management Plan for the future operations of Governors Island, New York. In 2006 I had the privilege to once again set foot on the hallowed soil of Governors Island. It was the first time in 35 years. Literally the most fulfilling excursion of my life. I have been back three times and I am looking forward to it's opening this summer. Governors Island is a one of a kind destination. It is truly a gem in New York harbor. I was at first saddened by the deterioration of some of the buildings. After meeting and speaking with several members of the National Park Service I knew that there was hope to preserve Governors Island and it's history. I believe it is in the best interest of Governors Island and New York to adopt alternative plan D of the General Management Plan. Furthermore I would request that the National park service expand it's control to include the glacis, the South Battery, St. Cornelius chapel, Nolan Park, Colonels Row, and Liggett Hall so that all of the islands history be preserved. Lastly I have a comment on the globe theater proposal. Page 54 of the General Management plan states that ' the new globe theater proposal has been eliminated from further consideration by the NPS." I am told that 90% of the speakers at the march 10, 2008 hearing were speaking on behalf of the theater proposal. I would hope that this proposal has no life left in it. While there might be a place on the island for this theater, it most certainly cannot be allowed to desecrate a national monument.or historic district. I appreciate having an opportunity to express my opinion on these matters. Thank you to the National Park Service for all their efforts to preserve this gem. | 03/16/2008 | GI Brats | Kept Private | Yes |

| 4504 | Statement regarding the National Park Service General Management Plan for Governors Island I was a wide eyed 10 year old boy when I moved with my family to Governors Island in the summer of 1965. There could not have been a more fascinating place to arrive for a boy of that age, and I was immediately enamored by Fort Jay and Castle Williams. My paper route in the Fall of 1965 included the US Army MP Guard Shack just inside the double doors of Castle Williams, and every morning I would read the words "Commenced in 1807, Completed 1811" with awe. Over the last few years, it has been my distinct pleasure to volunteer my services to the National Park Service in leading guided tours of these magnificent historical structures, not only telling visitors to the island about the history of the structures, but to personalize these tales in a way that allowed a view of what living on this island was like, and how large these forts loomed among those of us who were privileged enough to be able to call Governors Island home. While many former residents will mourn the loss of Governors Island as a base and a home, I am thrilled to see this beautiful island now a part of New York, and the residents of New York now having the opportunity to enjoy what we as members of the military and their dependents have enjoyed for 200 years. Thirty-eight years after my family's departure from Governors Island, the historic north end of the island looks not one bit different. And I would hope it would continue to look that way for generations of New Yorkers to enjoy in the future, so that they can visit, enjoy and appreciate in the way those of us who lived there were permitted. I believe Plan D of the National Park Service General Management Plan for Governors Island will offer the residents of New York, as well as tourists to the area to access the island and appreciate its history in the best possible way. Fort Jay and Castle Williams are structures that deserve to be preserved and restored to their constructed purpose, and New York residents and island tourists deserve the opportunity to see these structures, and experience a part of history. I am greatly appalled by the efforts of the Globe Theater group to permanently alter and destroy Castle Williams. There are precious few such structures in our country for the public to see. It makes no sense to destroy a 200 year old artifact of our history for any purpose. Castle Williams, as an artifact of history, and of America's defense, along with the honor of its service as a military prison, deserves to be preserved and shown in all of its glory, for everyone to enjoy. | 03/07/2008 | | de Carteret, Steve J. | No |

Preservation of these homes and buildings in a park like setting will offer visitors the chance to experience the beauty of Governors Island in the manner that has made this island the best home ever for those who were lucky enough to draw the assignment. I am grateful for the opportunity to have these feelings heard and entered into record. It is my sincere hope that the National Park Service be given the approval to begin the effort to bring their plan to reality. I have supreme confidence that the island will be best preserved for future generations under their leadership. Steve de Carteret 5338 South Valdai Way Aurora, Colorado 80015 steve@dtnpro.com Governors Island Resident August, 1965 to June, 1970 | | | | |

When people think Shakespeare, right now they imagine London and Stratford-on-Avon, England, or maybe even Stratford, Canada, or the Folger Library in D.C., but these places aren't easily accessible to the majority of the U.S. residents, whether due to distance, cost or restriction to scholars. Being a past resident of Governors Island I have continually been interested in the goings on of that magical island in NYC harbor. My family made it our home from 1972 until 1983. We lived in three different housing locations and visited every nook and cranny the island has to offer. At this time I would like to cast my vote for the Alternative Plan D. I believe that plan will be most efficient for the island. I do not believe the island has been the same since it was robbed of it's residents. I have visited the island a couple of times over the past few years and have had a aching heart due to the lack of activity and seem to feel the island feels the same way. It used to flourish with the families there long ago and I truly believe the island is not the same without them. I think the Alternative D Plan will be the best option for the island and I believe the new residents will cherish the island as much as the past ones have. Usually in the habit of advocating for patients, I thank you for the opportunity to advocate on behalf of establishing a Globe Theater at Castle Williams. For over 400 years, the words of Shakespeare have made connections with people of all ages and all backgrounds, as with performing art in general, which has been an important part of all societies since our very beginning. How wonderful it would be to twin the serene beauty of Governors Island with the magnificent educational and performance venue which would attract people from all over the world, bearing witness to both the greatness of nature as well as the greatness of man. I request that you give careful consideration to the plethora of benefits of establishing a New Globe Theater, as described by the various documents that you've received, as well as the comments from other people here today. | 4915 | Majestic. One of the prettiest pieces of real estate in this country. Historic. She truly is grand, Governors Island...OUR Island, emotional deed holder present! The plans and proposals presented over the last year and months have left me feeling sad and at the very best... I sort of have been in a mind set of, well, this seems less 'awful' than that. A water park? My God! Historic!!!! Spirit and life there, unseen perhaps but 'felt'. So much presented seems like it would defame this grand lady, my humble opinion. I am privileged to have lived and loved and grown on this incredible and wonderfully grand Island. It is so difficult to convey the feelings that so many of us have for and about Governors Island, yet at the same time it is remarkable how many of us feel the same, sort of like the Island is part of us, running through our veins and giving us life. I so disagree with the statement "you can't go home again". Happily I walked off the Coursen and onto sacred ground and knew I was home, home again. I do believe in the 'sacred ground' too, not just being emotional. We need to protect the historical integrity of this Island and it's sacred ground as well. Native American Indians played here too!! Wives and children waited for husband's and father's to return from duty, waiting at the dock for the ship to come in...safe return of the men who protected our homeland and our seas. How incredibly fortunate I have been to have lived and shared my life on this Island with people I can only describe as "the finest kind", life long memories and sentimental journeys. Family, friends, history...the Island's and my own. More than 35 years later and I still call her home, in my heart and my soul. First love and oh so much more! Yes, majestic and grand and beloved...Governors Island. Alternative Plan D, best one I have seen. | 4994 | I am a twenty-three year old theatre major at Middlebury College. Theatre is my absolute passion, and I have had the good fortune to be a born and raised New Orleanian, and thereby growing up in a city which fosters a strong respect, appreciation, and love of the arts. New York is also a city renowned for its support and encouragement of art in all of its many forms, including, of course, theatre. Approval of the New Globe would not only enrich the city's artistic life, it would be a valuable addition to the country as a whole. Think about it: people come to New York in droves just for theatre, just for art, just for music, etc., etc. The installment of the New Globe would most certainly bring in more visitors from abroad, both tourists and guest lecturers, performers, and teachers. I would be highly surprised if the Royal Shakespeare Company, among others, didn't become involved in one way or another. The potential for cross-cultural interaction, educational opportunities (summer programs, workshops, classes), a cultivation of appreciation for art and theatre among America's youth, and the chance to add another cultural element (classic theatre) to a city that is already an international theatre landmark is simply too important and valuable to pass up. Any establishment that will tie people together, that will foster a common interest spanning numerous countries and cities, that will cultivate an understanding of history, literature, art, theatre, that will provide today's youth with something to look forward to and work with others...the country needs something like that. The world needs something like that. And we should do it now, instead of waiting for someone else to do it. Life really is too short to go around putting things off...I think that New Yorkers and New Orleanians would agree on that, considering what the past years have brought to our cities. Please consider this decision carefully. Your thoughtfulness, regardless of your ultimate decision, will be much appreciated. | 03/10/2008 | | Faust, Lucy . | No |

I've done extensive exhibit work in museum design. I helped to create an extension of the National Civil Rights Museum, also the Pope John Paul II Cultural Center in Washington, and have done design work for the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. All of these projects were inspired by the idea that the study of history need not be dusty or static. | 03/10/2008 | | FIFIELD, Anne . | No |

| 3632 | O that this too solid opportunity should be destroyed! Theater is essential to the development of the human mind, body, and soul. Everyone can enjoy theater and everyone can enjoy Shakespeare and his world if it is made available to them. I'm a Shakespeare student at The University of New Hampshire and I have never been able to make a pilgrimage to the Globe theater in London. The restoration of this old fort into the New Globe theater will give all people a chance to witness this crucial cultural phenomenon of Renaissance theater. Attendance and cash flow shouldn't be a concern as this will be a major tourist attraction for all people, not just historians and Shakespeare scholars. Please go forward with creating the new globe. | 6291 | Thank you for this opportunity to testify, and more importantly, for releasing the Draft General Management Plan for Governors Island National Monument. I am speaking as the Chair of the Governors Island Alliance, a coalition of more than fifty organizations committed to seeing Governors Island redeveloped as a great civic space for New York and the nation. Over the past ten years, the Alliance and its members have worked hard to see the creation of the National Park, the return of the island to the rest of the people of New York, to the people of New York for no cost, and the island become immediately accessible to the public. I should mention, I am a Brooklyn resident, and I was chair of the City Council subcommittee that oversaw the New York City Landmarks Preservation for the historic district on the island. We -- I'm going to paraphrase some of our written testimony, which I'll share with the court reporter offer. The National Park Service needs to move forward now to realize the opportunity that Governors Island presents. I don't mean to belabor the record on that, but we do believe that the highest priority is addressing asbestos and lead paint issues in Castle Williams and Fort Jay and opening one of the circular stairways in Castle Williams, one of New York's most prominent landmarks. Completion of this project will enable visitors to enter the former prison cells and gun emplacements in the iconic 1811 castle, and access to roof for spectacular views. The Park Service should provide funding needed immediately, an estimated $5.8 million. These projects have been included as line items but were dropped from the budget in FY '06 because we understand that the General Management Plan was not completed. That's now done, and the proposed Haz-Mat cleanup is part of the no-action alternative plan. It is past time for the federal government to deliver on its promise. New York has already committed $120 million for capital repairs and about $70 million in operating support since taking title. The Federal Government should contribute its fair share. Secondly, we think that it's important for the Park Service to play a strong role in welcoming visitors to the island as a whole. For that reason, we thought alternative C or D were the most appealing. The National Monument should not look inward but should, through its programs and physical improvements identified in the plan, extend itself to the exciting developments taking place on the island and in the harbor. | 03/10/2008 | Governors Island Alliance | FISHER, Ken . | No |

| | We also want to encourage the establishment of the Monument as a center for harbor interpretation. Alternative D will require coordination with other NPS and other harbor destinations. One opportunity would be the National Monument being marketed as a destination for the millions of visitors to the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, and you should be working presently with the new ferry concessionaire to encourage those passengers to visit the island as well. The plan appropriately recognizes Castle Williams as the island landmark. In addition to removing the asbestos and the other improvements that will enable the public to visit, the NPS should early on remove the non-contributing buildings and create a great landscaped setting for this icon. Over the long term, it is clear that vehicular traffic around the castle should be designed to have minimum impacts to this important space. And finally, just to summarize, our organization is not taking a position on the Globe Theater. We encourage private proposals that offer programs supportive of a great civic space, keep within the approved historic restrictions and overall planning framework, don't privatize public spaces. The Park Service clearly believes that conversion of the castle into a theater as proposed by the Globe is not in keeping with the Monument's purpose, and would constitute a major impact and impair the resources and values fundamental to the Monument and siphon off funds. Nonetheless, some of our member organizations do applaud both the creativity and vision and private philanthropy represented by the Globe proposal. And as an alliance, respectful of the opinions of our various constituents, we're not in a position to advocate for the Globe proposal at this time. | | | | |
| 6297 | My name is Ken Fitch. We are a nation of laws. Laws exist to protect the citizens, but also are shared resources and heritage. Governors Island National Monument is subject to stipulations of two presidential proclamations that have the force of law. Clearly alternative D, the history center, fulfills most effectively and admirably the intents, purposes and spirit of the official National Monument designation and complies with the appropriate legal stipulations. Alternative B provides for the preservation of the historic structures, and the significant cultural landscape. Significantly, it also honors the living legacy of those who have dedicated their lives in service to our country to protect all of us, a two-hundred-year tradition that continues today. Alternative B provides basis for programming that brings history alive with the human connection, and illuminates the historic space as a multilevel experience. Alternative B continues and upgrades the admirable interpretive framework that has been in place in the park since it opened. I would suggest that alternative B be expanded to include aspects of alternative C, as alternative C provides a mechanism for interpretation of the history of the rest of the island. The inclusion also would be a continuation of the highly effective partnership with GIPEC. This is a place with a vast history as well documented in the history perspectives, with a great story to be told, and clearly alternative B is set to be just that. Now, the bad news is that that is not what is proposed. The preferred alternative is described as a harbor center, something this place never was. This alternative turns its back on two hundred years of history and the commitment of citizens to service of this country. The alternative demonstrates a total disconnect from the pages and plans of the extensive history and description of the resources. The concept seems to owe much to the National Parks of New York Harbor, a conceptual initiative. This ambitious concept may have much to commend it but its implementation should not entail predatory use of one of its most significant sites. Imposing a concept that is not intrinsic to the basic meaning of a site is seldom successful. Why is it when it comes to history or our heritage, the first bureaucratic reaction is, tear it down or turn it into something else? | 03/10/2008 | | FITCH , Ken . | No |

Why can't we let two hundred years of history relate its story? Because of its location, Governors Island has always been an interface with the harbor, the city and the world, but it has always existed as a place of heart and honest labor, a balance of many elements that function in many ways and in many times as its own community, and this disposition has informed its structural development, its architecture, its uses and its character. [HEARING OFFICER: Sir -- thank you. MR. | 6272 | Good evening, my name is Thomas Fleishell. I have the distinct honor of representing the group of individuals who refer to themselves as the "Governors Island brats." They were dependents of personnel stationed on Governors Island primarily through the years 1956 through last year when the Coast Guard vacated the island. The military personnel and their dependents who lived on Governors Island during these years number in the tens of thousands. Having lived, schooled, worked and played on Governors Island, we have a unique perspective on what life was like there, and how to best preserve its National Monuments. The consensus among the brats, shows near unanimity in their support for altern plan D and the rejection of the other alternate plans. Our goal is to preserve, to the extent possible, the original character of the historical landmarks on Governors Island, unadulterated by theatrical make-over. If I may read a statement from one of the residents of Governors Island, one of the "brats." I was a wide eyed ten-year-old boy when I moved with my family to Governors Island in the summer of '65. There could not have been a more fascinating place to arrive for a boy of that age, and I was immediately enamored by Fort Jay and Castle Williams paper route in the fall of 1965 included the U.S. Army MP guard shack just inside the double doors of Castle Williams, and every morning I would read the words, "Commenced in 1807, completed 1811" with awe. Over the last few years, it has been my distinct pleasure to volunteer my services for the National Park Service in leading guided tours of these magnificent historical structures, not only telling visitors to the island about the history of the structures, but to personalize these tales in a way that allowed a view of what living on this island was like and how large these forts loomed among whose of us who were privileged enough to be able to call Governors Island home. While many former residents will mourn the loss of Governors Island as a base and a home, I'm thrilled to see this beautiful island now a part of New York, and the residents of New York now having the opportunity to enjoy what we as members of the military enjoyed for two hundred years. Thirty-eight years after my family departed from Governors Island, the historic north end of the island looks not one bit different, and I would hope it would continue to look that way for generations of New Yorkers to enjoy in future so that they can visit, enjoy and appreciate in the way those of us who lived here were permitted. | 03/10/2008 | | FLEISHELL , Thomas . | No |

| | I believe Plan D of the National Park Service for Governors Island will offer the residents of New York as well as tourists the area to access the island and appreciate its history in the best possible way. Fort Jay and Castle Williams are structures that deserve to be preserved and restored to their constructed purpose, and New York residents and island tourists deserve the opportunity to see those structures and experience a part of history. I am greatly appalled by the efforts of the Globe Theater group to permanently alter and destroy Castle Williams. There are precious few such structures in our country for the public to see. It makes no sense to destroy an artifact of our history for any purpose. Castle Williams, as an artifact of history and of America's defense, along with the honor of its service as a military prison, deserve to be preserved and shown in all of its glory, for everyone to enjoy. I would like to also express my disappointment in the limited extent of the Governors Island National Monument and would like to recommend that its boundaries, and therefore the administration by the National Park Service, be extended to include the parade grounds, south Battery, Nolan Park and Colonels' Row. | | | | |

| 4546 | I have been trying to stay up-to-date on the happenings and future of Governor's Island. I had a very short stay on the island, compared to alot of other USCG (and Army) brats, but feel that some of my heart remains there as The Island stays in my heart is so very hard to explain how the place formed such a lasting impression on me as I dwelled there during some formative years, but I will do my best. NYC seemed like a scary place for me, because it was so big and unlike anything I had ever experienced before. The thought of having to go to school there was especially anxious for me, but knowing that no matter what happened to me during the day that might have shaken me in the slightest, just making it back to my island home, I was in my safe refuge. Alot of us brats have rekindled some friendships, formed new kindships and stay in touch. It is just amazing to hear the stories of other brats that may have resided there (before, during and after me) all talk about their experiences on the island, because we all tell the same stories, no matter when it was that we called her home. It has become our home to go home to, and we do go home, sometimes in groups and sometimes with our new families. I miss that place and I guess you could say I love that place dearly. This is why I would like to suggest that you go with ALTERNATIVE PLAN D. I would like for you to perseve as much of her as possible, so that I can continue to adore her and share her stories with my family and have the living proof that such a enduring place exists in the throws of one of the largest business districts in the world. Thank you for your consideration. | 03/07/2008 | Former USCG Resident | Kept Private | Yes |

| 3167 | I was recently made aware of some of the proposed plans for the property associated with this national historic location (named Castle Williams and Fort Jay). I'm ashamed to say that I live in a country that would consider turning such a rich piece of history into a "stray cat sanctuary". It is important that our historical features remain historic. I understand that there are monuments and other more recent historical locations in New York and I ask you to entertain the idea of destroying those? While the arts are an important part of expression and culture we should not destroy the material culture that connects us to the past as its expense. My Father was a WWII vet and my Grandfather before him a WWI vet. It pains me to see such a proposal as has been presented. As a person interested in the presevation of history, I find it abhorrent that the Monument[s] on Governors Island be turned into a theater. Surely there are plenty of theaters and/or plenty of places to create theaters in New York. What there isn't, though, are plenty of historical sites that can be used as both monument to generations past and educational place for future generations. For two centuries, Governors Island, with its storied past and breathtaking views was public land and the general public could not visit. After years of effort on my part and others to get the Federal Government to transfer ownership of the Governors Island to the state, and more years of subsequent planning and preparation, we're finally on the brink of seeing this already unique place be transformed into an incredible asset for the City. It is truly a great day to finally be here and give comments on the Draft General Management Plan and environmental impact statement for the development of Governors Island National Monument. It is an asset that can finally be enjoyed after many, many years.

Unfortunately, we have a long way to go until the public can truly enjoy the National Monument because state and city efforts to redevelop this piece of American history are being dragged down by the Federal Government's failure to live up to its responsibilities. When President Bush transferred ownership of Governors Island to the state in 2003, he officially designated Fort Jay, Castle Williams, and parts of the historic parade a National Monument. Preexisting asbestos and lead conditions within the buildings of the Monument kept Americans from fully experiencing and enjoying New York's newest national park.

For four years, I have attempted to appropriate funds on behalf of the Governors Island Alliance to enable the National Park Service to remediate these conditions and truly open up Governors Island National Monument to the park.

Each year assurances have been given by the Park Service officials in Washington that the remediation project would be reflected in the President's budget request the following year. However, again, Haz-Mat remediation for Governors Island is not on the priority list. This year again I will attempt to appropriate the necessary five million to rehabilitate and remediate the Monument.

We cannot afford to wait any longer. A continued delay in completely opening the National Monument to visitors will interfere with or impede the upcoming redevelopment process. Having a national Monday unit on Governors Island should be an asset, not a liability. Until the Federal Government takes the necessary health and safety measures to make this a fully functional national park they are hanging an albatross around the necks of the State and City officials and the civic leaders who are working to make sure Governors Island is the newest unforgettable destination in the greatest city in the world.

In addition, I am disappointed that the National Park Service so easily dismissed the New Globe theater proposal for the adaptive reuse of Castle Williams the Draft General Management Plan. As you know, late last year, Senator Schumer, Senator Clinton and I wrote a letter to Secretary Boman, urging that the New Globe Theater proposal be included in this Draft General Management Plan. The proposal of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams is just the type of innovative and adaptive reuse proposal that would make the island a world renowned tourist destination, adding a unique cultural component to New York City and Governors Island. The New Globe in my and my colleagues' in Washington's opinion would not only act as a tourist destination but would be an economic catalyst for Governors Island and generate the necessary funding to restore, maintain and protect the Monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders as well as major philanthropists and luminaries.

| | The design as undertaken by Lord Norman Foster with leading preservation and landmark experts. The adaptive reuse is reversible, does not impinge on the historic fabric of the 1811 Monument and will protect it from further deterioration. It is environmentally sustainable and, most important, will inspire millions to visit the island and experience its historic treasures. The proposal includes a museum to tell the story of Castle Williams and its role in the harbor. Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater proposal is just such a plan. I again renew my support and urge that the New Globe Theater be reevaluated and included in the Final General Management Plan for the island and for it to be designated a Centennial Signature Project, given the large amount of support and the positive impact it will have. Thank you very much. | | | | |

| 4923 | Re: PLEASE APPROVE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL Hello, I completely agree with the New Globe Theater plan, and urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. This is an amazing prospect, and, as a third generation New Yorker, I was filled with pride at the prospect of such an accomplishment to take place in the city in which I was born and raised. The historical significance of this project is monumental, and the window of opportunity for all levels of education programs to follow is wide open. Can you imagine the impact that a cultural venue such as THIS would have on our youth, as well as what this can tell the entire world about New York City's respect for historical preservation and the arts? Additionally, the very idea of a form of US-UK cultural alliance through such site can resound internationally. There is no group of people in this country like the American theatre community who knows first hand of the absolute value of historical preservation and respect. The artistic community in this country has (for well over a century) painfully endured the leveling, razing, and destruction of some of its most treasured theatres and cultural venues. Though we have voiced our opinions and expressed our serious opposition to much of the demolition, our platform was never fully acknowledged until many of our coveted theatres and art institutions were officially landmarked. Up until that point however, we saw the destruction of sites encompassing everything | 03/10/2008 | | Guastella, Joey . | No |

| 4547 | The Governors Island National Monument Management Plan address the need for to protect and maintain one of the last vestiges of New York City(as well as National) history. I have visited Governors Island many times and it always surprises me with how seemingly untouched the NPS part of the island remains. There is so little left of historic New York City, it would be criminal to change or permanently alter any part of this historic site. New York City has been at the whim of the rich and privileged for way too long. There are some who would say the the National Park Service has ignored the voice of the public in it's management p however it is just the opposite. The NPS wishes to make Governors Island accessible to all and provide them with the information and interactive resources with which to improve their knowledge of our historic legacy. New York City already has enough sites which only certain segments of our population have access to. Why must every square inch of our city have spas, expensive hotels, pricey theaters and so on. I would like to thank the NPS for consistantly maintaining its high standards of educational interpretation even though they have to deal with a less than adequate budget and constant flack from groups with their own personal agendas. The NPS always has the general public in mind when putting forth its management plans and the Governors Island Natinal Monument Management Plan is no exception. I belong to a local historical association and have watched so many historical sites disappear to make way for a new drug store chain or expensive townhouses. We must continue to fight for the few remaining historically significant sites in the New York Metropolitan area. This management plan will accomplish that. | 03/07/2008 | 119th NY Historical Association | Guglieri, Marianne C. | No |

| 6203 | The GMP that the NPS proposes is a well thought out and efficient use of the cite. I had never been to Governor's Island until last summer, when I came to a living history event their in August 2007. It was a Civil War Living History Weekend. My wife was tak part in the event and always talked about the amazing place that is Governor's Island. She always stressed that we as New Yorkers were so lucky to have such a wonderfully preserved part of our history - hallowed ground that was a true monument to all our military men and women, some of whom had made the ultimate sacrifice for our country. When I discovered that there was a possibility that this historic site was in danger of being permanently altered-to suit the needs of a few individuals-I was horrified. Haven't we destroyed enough of our historic sites. Some of us seem to have an endless need to put up expensive hotels, spas golf courses, high rises, etc. With school districts doing away with their social studies programs--there isn't any wonder why so folks don't think keeping our historic sites intact is a big deal. I for one, think the NPS is on the right track in attempting to keep | 03/18/2008 | | Guglieri, Peter J. | No |
| 6205 | Governor's Island is an extremely important historic site. The General Management Plan that the NPS has proposed is extremely far sited and keeps in mind that this is a monument to all the armed services that, at one time and another, called it home. I have heard that there are some people who do not share my love of history and preservation. This is a similar problem to one that the folks in VA and many other states have had to fight against for a very long time. We don't have a great deal of historical sites left and to permanently alter a historic building such as Castle Williams would be criminal. This place is hallowed ground-a monument to all those who gave their lives to keep this country and our city free. I applaude the NPS for keeping true to their mission, and continue to preserve our history and educate the public in the role that we played to found this country. | 4282 | No matter which alternative the NPS chooses I trust that Castle Williams will be preserved as it should be, and used for living history, exhibits, historical performances, school programs, and the enjoyment of visitors from around the world. I am VERY strongly against the New Globe Theater proposal because it would damage the historic character of Castle Williams. People would no longer see it as a fort, but yet another "adaptively reused" structure and possibly only a moneymaking venture. I understand that the proposals from the NPS promise to preserve the fort AND use it to teach the public about NY Harbor. I am a strong supporter of the NPS's plans because I care about the history of our great country. I also care about preserving the Island and its buildings. The Island was a fantastic place to be stationed and I chose two tours there as a member of the Coast Guard. So many of our historically valuable structures are altered or even torn down every year. The fact that Castle Williams retains so much of its original appearance is largely because of the 200 year military occupation of the island. Developers have not been given the chance to "mess" with the fort. And, I hope they never will. Our parks, historical monuments, buildings and lands need be protected and saved for all eternity as much as possible. Thanks for the opportunity to comment. | 03/05/2008 | | Kept Private | Yes |

| 5918 | First I would like to thank the NPS for its efforts in preserving one of the most unique historic sites in the Country. Governors Island in its few acres encompasses two centuries of military history. It is the only site where one can see both first and second American Systems of Coastal Defense together with associations of the War with Mexico, the Civil War, the Spanish American War, the early days of flight, both World Wars and the Cold War. While the Island's connection with the War of 1812 is reasonably well known, the fact that a regiment for the Mexican War was raised and trained there, as so well told in the "Autobiography of an English Soldier in the United States Army" by George Ballentine, is little known. Nor are the facts that General Grant was posted to Governors Island in the 1850s and General Lee probably visited there while at Fort Hamilton in the 1830s. Others associated with the Island include Generals Hancock, Frederick Grant and Leonard Wood. My own association with Governors Island was in 1962 as a member of the First Army. It was during the Cold War while the Cuban Missile Crisis played out. In fact I remember that numerous Spanish-speaking soldiers were transferred to posts in the South during that period. While at Governors Island I had occasion to visit Castle Williams which at the time was used as a stockade for AWOL military personnel and an occasional deserter. I remember entering the Castle and looking up in awe at the three tiers of casements. Even with the enclosed concrete balconies it was an impressive site. I think the enclosed balconies should be restored to their earlier state of open casements to give the true effect of how the Castle was designed to look at its inception. For this reason I am opposed to the proposals for the installation of a replica of the Globe Theatre within the Castle. Not only would the theatre block the visitor's ability to observe the Castle in its entirety, it has no relevance to Castle Williams or the Island. I would also think any replica of the Globe Theatre would be better served if it encompassed both exterior and interior, not just the interior. There are numerous places in New York City where such a replica could be built, and it would have the benefit of greater accessibility to the public. | 03/15/2008 | Company H, 119th N.Y. |------|--|------------|---------------------|-----------------------|----|
| | In addition I think the use of Castle Williams for exhibit space should be kept to exhibits that relate to the uses of the Castle. I would include with that restoring some of the Civil War era cells as well as some of the mid 20th Century cells. While this may seem a contradiction to my previous paragraph, I believe it could be accomplished in such a fashion that they would not interfere with the view of the open casements as one entered the Castle. As for placement of other exhibits you planned for the interior of Castle William I would suggest Building 110 which was Post Headquarters when I was there, and as I recall had an open floor plan that would lend itself to varying exhibits. I encourage the recreation of the covered defile connecting Fort Jay with Castle Williams and the restoration of the South Battery and the Chapel of St. Cornelius the Centurion. Finally I think the formation of a non-profit support group, such as exists at Gettysburg, is a necessary component of your plans for the future of Governors Island. Therefore I believe Alternative D is the best plan. Thank you. | | | | |
| 6302 | Good evening. My name is Robert Hansen. In the early 1960s, I was stationed at Fort Jay as a member of the first Army. And I would like to speak on behalf of alternative D, although I have certain reservations about it. While I wasn't a resident of Castle Williams, I did visit it numerous times and, as you enter the sally port, nothing is more impressive than looking up at three tiers of casements that held huge weapons of destruction. Yes, there were weapons of destruction. And several people have mentioned that not a shot was ever fired. By the way, that's Robert Moses, the great builder of New York City and Long Island. That is the greatest compliment can make to any military installation, that they deterred the enemy. And it seems like we're deterring the same enemy tonight. What I would like to see is Castle Williams restored to the way it was in the early part of the 19th century; the enclosed galleries to be opened up, to remove the steel and concrete so that those casements can be seen in their full grandeur. I would also like to concur with Ken Fitch, who said that Castle Williams should remain a pure site. The exhibits could be placed in numerous other buildings on the island in -- between the hospital. It's a place that should be restored to better reflect its original purpose. In closing, I'd just like to make one comment. Much has been made of the British visiting New York in the form of a New Globe Theater. I have yet to hear of any Londoners proposing that a portion of Hyde Park be set aside for a recreation of Yankee Stadium. | 03/10/2008 | | HANSON , Robert . | No |

Can't we use it for something really positive and inspirational and educational in a more positive way? What else? As a student of history, and yes, I've visited both Forts Sumter and Pulaski on my honeymoon, I have a particular interest in military history and that of the war of 1812. I'm a strong proponent of the New Globe proposal. The New Globe offers the potential for a true public-private partnership which both preserves the historic significance of the island, and creates a needed meaningful differentiating characteristic from other monuments in the area. This should obviate the need for a forced ferry ride to or from other harbor sites to ensure visits. Just as the Statue of Liberty stands atop Fort Wood, the New Globe not only protects the historic integrity of Castle Williams, it provides the means to introduce people to the history of Governors Island. And just as chamber music is best heard in a small venue, and movies are best seen on the big screen, the sunbeams-and-butterflies, angelic choirs, absolute best way to experience Shakespeare would be in our very own New Globe on this side of the pond. Castle Williams is like a gift that brings us so far on our way to that goal, and allows the forgotten military fort of the past to play an active part in the New York Harbor of the future. Approving the New Globe is a consummation devoutly to be wished. This is a rare opportunity. Please do not let it pass. I live in Dallas, Texas. I visited New York with my wife and daughter in 2005, and we had a wonderful time visiting many of the "must do" sites in New York; the Statue of Liberty, the Met, the Guggenheim, Central Park, and Times Square. And of course, the ground zero site. We'd love to visit New York again, however, there many places we have not been that we would love to experience. But I can truly say that there are two things that would definitely bring us back to New York; the memorial in the World Trade Center and the New Globe Theater. | 03/10/2008 | JONES , Dory . | No | |
| 6266 | My name is Eric Jones. I'm going to speak on behalf of the New Globe Theater. It fills me with great concern that Superintendent Linda Neal told me, when discussing the twelve steps of the General Management Plan process of the Open House the other day that getting Congress' approval for the final plan for Governors Island was only a courtesy, especially as the National Park Service has already ignored a Congressional letter urging the approval of the New Globe. If you do not listen to our expressed wishes during the public scoping period, when 65 percent requested the New Globe, and if you do not listen to our elected officials, then how is this a public process? Hiding behind the argument that placing a reversible theatrical inset into this empty courtyard "impairs," quote unquote, the resource is not acceptable, specially since the theater would actually pay for the restoration and the maintenance of the resource. Your first newsletter from November of '03 states, "By participating in the National Park Service planning process, you can make sure your voice is heard." The public has loudly requested the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe. Please honor your role as the public's steward. Let me conclude by asking you please comment why the Service, against the public's expressed wishes, instead favors the most expensive alternative that would require tens of millions of dollars in capital and annual operating funding and thus cannibalize visitors, revenue and funding from the Statue of Liberty, Ellis Island and the other national parks in New York Harbor. I'd like to include also by asking that everyone here who is supporting the New Globe Theater stand up. (A pause in the proceedings.) Thank you all. | 03/10/2008 | JONES , Eric . | No | |

| 6276 | Hello. I'm making a statement for the New Glove. I'm an English and American actress who was living and working in London when the New Globe Theater there was built and opened. I attended the first open dress rehearsal and it was truly a magical experience. I have been to see productions there many, many times since and the magic of being in that theater has never diminished because it is a truly unique experience, totally different to being in any other theater. I don't believe New York City, one of the two great cities with London for theater, can be complete without their own Globe. I have seen what a tremendous effect the one in London has had for bringing in tourists and revenue for the city, through education and teaching children about the history of Shakespeare's time, and providing the true experience of theatergoing at a time when the world's greatest playwright ever lived. And what is undeniable is that we have the perfect place for it. A fortification built to defend America against the British where school children cannot only learn about the War of 1812 but also learn about the positive cultural exchange between our two countries; and it's so closely matches the blueprints of Shakespeare's original Globe. It seems so clear what this fort should be New York's very own New Globe Theater. This is an opportunity too great to miss. | 03/10/2008 | | JASLICKI , Elizabeth . | No |
| 6062 | I have read your proposal for the use Govenors Island and I think that it is totally absurd. For the life of me I can't think of any reason to desacrate a National Monument such as this one. As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. | 3102 | I understand your desire to preserve the historic importance and aesthetics of Governor's Island. To that end, I strongly urge you to re-consider your views of the New Globe Theater. The New Globe proposal will preserve the prison and only create structure in the currently-empty courtyard. It also creates a needed cultural and educational center in keeping with the educational precedent of the previous boyscout meetings held there, and updates it to modern needs. This is a beautiful proposal that respects the historical present. I urge you to reconsider your views. | 02/28/2008 | | Kessler, Brandon . | No |
| 6307 | Thank you, my name is Brandon Kessler and I'm here to speak in support of the New Globe Theater. I want to say that we get the importance of preserving the cultural and historical precedent of our institutions, both local and national institutions. We just disagree with the Park Service's decision that the New Globe Theater doesn't respect that precedent. I've read the draft plan, and it's subjective at best. It refers to a presidential proclamation from Bill Clinton, which in my mind in no way forbids the New Globe Theater. What a lot of people may not note is that the New Globe plan actually doesn't touch the castle. It rebuilds it as is. It builds the theater in the courtyard, which would otherwise remain an empty courtyard, and also provides for a museum. I don't work there, by the way, I'm just a supporter of the plan. It provides for a museum. It also will bring exponentially greater number of people to the theater and to the castle as well, and to the island. Lastly, it will help pay for not only the theater but the castle renovation as well. I don't know how many people realize, the government announces a plan. Before you get the funding -- (unintelligible) -- they are going to pay for the funding. Nobody knows how the Park Service will pay for it. Even asking for, I hear people here talking about getting six million dollars just for removing asbestos and that's been for a number of years. So this plan will actually be privately funded and pay for the theater as well as the preservation of the castle. So I urge you to -- I urge the Park Service to reconsider. Thank you. | 03/10/2008 | | KESSLER, Brandon . | No |

We need to preserve the best of America's heritage. The arts and theater helps everyone lead a happier life. It helps bring sanity and stability into an otherwise chaotic, depressing world. If turning this monument into a modern-day Globe Theater is financially feasible because it will generate enough funds to preserve itself, why not give it a try? | 6277 | Hi, I'm Pat Kirschner. This evening I'm speaking for Warrie Price. She was the founder and president of the Battery Conservancy. The conservancy began operating in 1995, to partner with New York City, New York State and the Federal Government to revitalize the park's 25 acres at the tip of Manhattan, historically called, "The Battery." I'm pleased to give the following remarks in response to the Governors Island National Monument Draft General Management Plan and environmental impact statement. First, let me commend the National Park Service staff for the most readable and accessible document. I especially like the large format numbering system, and the graphic design of the table of contents. As federal documents go, this one gets high marks for legibility. I speak now from my own experience for the past 14 years at the Battery. From the beginning of The Battery Conservancy's work to rethink, redesign and rebuild the Battery landscape, it has been most important to listen to the site's unique stories. We understand the conservancy must be current in understanding public needs, but at the same time honoring the past. Our sites must be welcoming and reachable, as access to the water for ferry transport has always been prominent in our plan for rebuilding of the Battery. Secondly, but equally important, is to return both the park and Castle Clinton to their historic roles as downtown destinations. The Battery and Castle Clinton have traditionally been a place of gatherings and cultural performances and is now the only open area public assembly space left in lower Manhattan. We are also interested in communicating to the public the importance of ecological sustainability and how this plays a key role in the park's rebuilding efforts. We have ventured towards sustainable horticulture and native plant cultivation by planting over 70, square feet of perennials and implementing eco-friendly and organic gardening techniques. The next step in the continually evolving role of The Battery Conservancy will be transforming from designers and builders to hosting cultural events and educational experiences. We have already started to initiate this transformation by designing a 21st Century carousel that is inspired by the Battery's historic role as a place for entertainment and home to New York's first aquarium from 1896 to 1941. SeaGlass, carousel at the Battery will incorporate an innovative, aquatic themed design and focus on cultural and educational programs. As world renowned architect, Frank Gehry, designs the Battery Playspace, he plans to use the historic stones from the 1700s which were discovered by the MTA during their excavations for the new subway tunnel. Mr. Gehry plans to reuse what was recovered from the stone walls to reinterpret the history of the Battery and it unique location on the banks of the Hudson River. | 03/10/2008 | Battery Park Conservancy | KIRSCHNER , Pat . | No |

| 6269 | I'm Leslie Koch, the president of the Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation. The corporation owns and manages the remaining 150 acres of the 172-acre Governors Island. I report to the Mayor and the Governor as the Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation is a joint partnership of New York City and New York State. The Mayor and the Governor express a strong commitment to the reactivation and redevelopment of Governors Island and over the last five years, the city and State have invested more than a hundred million dollars in both capital improvements, as well as operations of the island. The strategy for the state-owned portion of Governors Island is very clearly focused on four areas: The first is the creation of a world class-public park. In December, the mayor and the Governor announced the selection of a team headed by (unintelligible), who will design over 90 acres of green space including a grand promenade in the new park, the other half of the Island. The second part of our strategy is encouraging new early uses and expanding visitation, working very closely with the National Park Service, welcoming visitors to the island in the spring, summer and fall. Last year we doubled the number of visitors and expect to increase significantly the number of visitors again, and we welcome our partnership with National Park Service. We're also very committed to investing in infrastructure as well as stabilization on state property. We are responsible for over fifty structures totaling about 4 million square feet, and they must be stabilized; and also to prepare those buildings for future tenancy. Finally, our strategy is a phased development strategy to bring the island back to life with both tenants for the historic structures, as well as opportunities for new construction on dedicated acreage in the southern half of the island. The first tenant we have secured is the Harbor School, which will be on the island, a New York City public high school. We welcome our partnership with the National Park Service and, as I mentioned we're closing with them today in terms of visitor programs, but we think it's essential that we see more commitment from the Federal Government for the castle and the National Monument on Governors Island. As I mentioned, it has been a substantially investment by the City and State, and we have communicated to the National Park Service as well as working closely with Congressman Nadler, in whose district we sit, the essential importance of opening up the castle. | 03/10/2008 | GIPEC | KOCH , Leslie . | No |

| | The castle is a distinctive Monument in the harbor. It affords potential for extraordinary view and while we are supportive of the preferred alternative in the General Management Plan, we are concerned that even in the no-action plan, that calls for a substantial investment to open up the castle and then that investment is not included in the National Park Service's five-year plan. So while we welcome the opportunity to continue partnering with the National Park Service, not just on Governors Island, but working within the harbor district, in particular working within the summer to welcome visitors from Liberty and Ellis Island, through their concessionaires would provide food service in the Monument and the rest of the island, to these two park sites. We would like to emphasize (rest of testimony submitted). | | | | |
| 2 | I have read through your GMP with much interest. I see a lot of good things. I see that preserving the Island's history as a military post throughout our nation's history is a paramount concern of any good plan and for that I am grateful. I do see one shortcoming however. An important aspect of the island's history is its role as the Army's school of practice for field musicians here in the East (there were two, the other long gone, was in Kentucky). For well over a half of a century, countless young men were brought to the island and trained in the use of fife and drum, which were at the time, along with bugle, the primary means of communicating orders and direction to large bodies of troops over great distances. The infantryman's day, since the time of George Washington, was regulated, its evolutions signaled, by the sound of fife and drum. Infact George Washington, noting the importance of a competent and skilled field music in the army, issued orders assuring they're proper instruction and maintenance of their skills. The music school on Governors Island clearly was an indication that our fledgling nation believed the role of an army musician was an important one Although, in today's army music's role is strictly ceremonial, the legacy of those young men trained on Gov. Island remains strong in units such as the US 3rd Infantry, "the Old Guard", the army's remaining fife and drum corp. These young men were housed and trained for a very great majority of the school's history in the "south Battery". The South Battery was later converted into an officers club and the school moved to fort Jay. The south battery however can claim a lion's share of the school's history on Gov Island and any program that preserves the history of the island must include the history of the school and the south battery respectfully | 02/04/2008 | | Kept Private | Yes |

| | not think I have ever heard another student say that Shakespeare is "boring" or is "stupid" for lack of a better term. My question to you is why would you not build a new Globe Theater? You have the attraction quota, you have the potential to build it into something more, and you have the greatest thing any person can possess...the power to educate and teach millions of people just by a building. To me there is nothing better than taking a piece of history and recreating it. Molding, forming, and shaping a part of life as it used to be would attract even the most unwilling student. You have the attention and the attraction and of course as stated above, the power to educate. | 5766 | I hope you adopt Alternative D the preferred plan so artists can possibly spend time on Governors Island as a residency. If you open this opportunity people would want to come from all over the world and add to the cultural mosaic of the city besides helping themselves in their art. Also people like me who once lived in the city and went to college there, could return and do meaningful work. The residents could live in Fort Jay or other buildings much like they do in the American Academy in Rome or Vermont Studio Center in Vermont. This involves temporary fellowships and residencies of NPS sponsored people. | 3347 | Please consider carefully the New Globe Theater adaptive reuse proposed for Governors Island. While I am sure you are taking all options under full consideration, I hope that the GMP will not unnecessarily exclude this potentially very interesting option, whose cultural, educational, and architectural values I am sure have been presented to you many times, so I shall not repeat them. One of Shakespeare's plays, The Tempest, is also set on an island and Prospero, ruler of the island, eventually allows his daughter to marry her love, saying in that scene: We are such stuff As dreams are made on and our little life Is rounded with a sleep... I hope that you, Prospero, will allow dreams to prosper on Governors Island, whatever decision you make. | 02/29/2008 | | Lannamann, Tom . | No |
| 4090 | Your disqualification of the New Globe proposal is short-sighted. I think the historic property can be maintained without compromise, and indeed compromise and negotiation with that (New Globe) possibility is something that didn't seem to be even considered. Setting up and managing a historic site, with "educational and interpretive" venues, staffing and all their implementation, will cost many dollars, too, with limitations of their own. As your intro states, no option is guaranteed funding. V the Pres.Bush new budget approval, seems to me the NPS is being heedlessly ivory tower in its thinking. NPS won't have a 2016 celebration if funding is cut, and the thousands of visitors anticipated because of a D)harbor-centric development or B)historic-centric development are not as likely, I think to offset the costs as would a wider public coming for social, intellectual, cultural and "tourist" opportunities. Overall, the Draft document looks to me like an overspending of NPS money on a consultant trying to justify his/her fee (or an entrenched NPS executive trying to perpetuate his fiefdom). And having a document SO BURIED in the NPS site, and SO troublesome to download sends up red flags to me as a taxpayer and citizen. I certainly don't think of NPS any longer as a "public servant" entity. Seems designed to discourage anyone's really reading it besides the house-staff. | 6295 | Good evening, my name is Brenda Levin. There is widespread support for this innovative and exciting project. 65 percent. That big number. It is both unique, drawing its own audiences to the island, and complementary to the other proposed activities, both idyllic and active. And what better use for this magnificent structure, to drop a theater into this fort? It is the quintessential restoration and adaptive reuse project. It is quite mysterious how the esteemed National Park Service could have left the New Globe Theater out of its plans, a project that will be responsible for raising so much private money and has so much government support, including from both of our United States senators. I urge you to reconsider and include this great project in your plan for the historic park of Governors Island. Thank you. | 03/10/2008 | | LEVIN , Brenda . | No |
| 5404 | I urge you to make Governor's Island more than another visitor center with a bunch of plaques and dioramas by switching to the New Globe Theatre's idea of a vital theater center inside a beautifully restored historical monument. In the same way that the Delacorte Theatre anchors Central Park and brings both residents and tourist into the park, the New Globe Theatre's proposal would guarantee a regular stream of people enjoying the New York experience and culture downtown. I grew up outside Manhattan and then lived in Manhattan as a young adult. I feel it vital to maintain our great city's history and to support our city's position as the center of great theatre in America. In no other city is live theater part of each family's tradition the way it is in Manhattan. New Yorkers love their theatrical spaces and this one would be most beloved by the people who live there. | 03/12/2008 | | Lewis, Arden . | No |

You have no doubt been contacted by many others. But I wanted to remind you that a resource like this can potentially benefit children and visitors to the area, not just today but for generations and not just in the region but throughout the country and the world. We need projects like this to demonstrate that we value art and culture and their salutary effect on the hearts and minds of our citizens and those who may look to this country as an example. | | Speaking as a taxpayer and combat veteran of the Iraq War, Governor's Island does not need to be destroyed in favor of an outdoor theater because of its great cultural/historical significance to our country's Civil War Heritage. New York City has few Civil War-era sites that are in relatively-preserved condition and to deface this monument to the citizen-soldiers of our great nation would be an utter disgrace. | 4123 | I am writing you to urge that the General Management Plan (GMP) for Castle Williams National Monument allow for the adaptive reuse proposed by the New Globe Theater. It just makes sense. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries. Bold and visionary ideas are needed today to reinvigorate Governors Island and help it become a thriving recreational, cultural, and educational treasure for New Yorkers and all Americans to enjoy. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument. | 2730 | The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater should be a part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. First: the New Globe's innovative vision preserves Castle William structurally, culturally and historically Second: the New Globe provides an exciting public interactive showcase for entertainment and education, presenting history alongside Hamlet, and acting as a magnet for all New Yorkers to come, use and enjoy this unique location. Third: revenue are assured through the New Globe's philanthropic contributions and ongoing theater performances. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London's Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will operate entirely independently of the museum, restaurant and roof deck, which would remain accessible to the general public at all times. I travel to London frequently and have seen the incredible popularity of the Globe Theater there, so brilliantly accepted by the public, that has helped to rejuvenate a down-at-the-heels section of that city. The New Globe plan provides a clear differentiation from the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, is open after 6pm, and attracts unique visitors to a new dramatic tourist destination and world-class educational and cultural center, adding life to the harbor at all hours. I understand that Alternative D will seek to allocate over $100 million of federal funding to serve a redundant target customer base on Governors Island; in the process, it will cannibalize federal funding that should be directed towards Ellis Island and the Statue of Liberty. Unfortunately, the NPS plan condemns Castle Williams to remain sitting derelict for a few more decades, as the National Park Service is battling an $8 billion maintenance backlog and an annual $600 million operations shortfall. Five years after taking over management of the site - the NPS locally has been unsuccessful in securing the federal funding needed to stabilize the decaying structure. The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe will attract new large donors to give generously to the National Park Service, with the recognition that preservation and rehabilitation of the monument is not just the government's responsibility. An endowment will be raised from private sources. For all these reasons and more, I respectfully request the National Park Service - as the American public's steward - find a way to adjust or expand the existing legislation to include the New Globe. If in the 1880s the same rules and regulations that the National Park Service is trying to rigidly enforce on Castle Williams had been applied to the Statue of Liberty, that symbol of freedom would not grace our Harbor today. I therefore strongly urge you to listen to the general public, and to have the vision to create another great American icon in New York Harbor - the New Globe Theater at Governors Island National Monument. | | | | |

By doing so we all may honor and pay homage to all the Army and Coast Guard, along with their families, who patriotically served their country there, worked and resided there, and recreated there. Besides supporting the implementation of "ALTERNATIVE PLAN D", it appears important that the N.P.S. also considers obtaining and operating "THE SOUTH BATTERY". All forts should be operated and protected under the same administration and management plan. Also, I feel it is of the utmost importance that the N.P.S. consider retaining the "OPEN SPACE AND LANDSCAPING SURROUNDING FORT JAY"(a.k.a. "The Parade Grounds" and "Golf Course"). | 5636 | As an American writer, actor, and educator, one of the many difficulties that I face is that historical, cultural, and educational icons like the New Globe are extremely inaccessible to most of us on the west side of the Atlantic. Consequently, to many Americans, history, culture, and education seem inaccessible as well. In Europe, history survives and co-exists alongside modern life where it continues to educate and enrich local populations. In America, we have to try harder. Like my dad says, "Sometimes you have to fight for your education." The New Globe proposal is a part of that fight. This is an incredible opportunity that cannot be passed up. It's a chance to reignite America's fading passion for everything that the Globe Theatre represents: art, history, architecture, language, social sciences, more. It's a chance for people to get involved in their own educations and make learning an active experience, which is the ideal way. I am certain that the New Globe will bring in more revenue than your current estimates suggest. As you must have already seen by the droves of people who have poured out their support, this project is exactly what the public is thirsting for. The past 400 years have shown us that Shakespeare is anything but a passing fad, and I believe you will find that same reliability reflected in the New Globe's financial intake for decades to come. The American public needs this. | 6293 | Hello, my name is Michael McGlone, and I'm here in support of the New Globe project. I am an actor and a proud citizen of New York City. I read a statement of another of my kind, J.D. Sasser, who writes: As a Broadway actor and writer, and as the son of a 25-year veteran of the military, who often went to Governors Island for everything from medical checkups to shop for groceries, I urge you to approve the New Globe project. Not only would it enrich the cultural heritage of our great city, but it would also help to preserve Governors Island in a way heretofore unseen. How many New Yorkers even know about or have visited the island? Now, with this great project, it would not only raise awareness of the historical significance of Governors Island, but ensure its financial survival and preservation through an active connection with the vibrant arts community of New York City. And what better way to use an old military fort, a sign of war, and to turn it into a place of creation, art and entertainment that will delight generations of New Yorkers and visitors to our city alike for years to come. Give Governors Island the boost and chance it needs to thrive in the future of our city, not by relegating it to the status of relic, but by giving the New Globe approval to become a part of a rich tapestry of New York City. Thank you. | 03/10/2008 | | McGLONE , Michael . | No |
| 1 | Governors Island is a national treasure and speaking as a former resident, a precious preserve. Attempting to speak for thousands of former "residents" with Army and Coast Guard affiliations, we treasure our memories of the Island and consider it a spinoff of the Garden of Eden. As special as it was and remains to us, it should be made known to the American public in a grand way. I favor Alt D as the best way to attract a large public awareness. If restoration work is not begun on Castle Williams and Fort Jay soon, we may lose these invaluable artifacts. I note that South Battery was included in the description of the National Monument. If that is correct, it is at least as valuable a structure as the two forts and affords a wondrous locale for various public or private events. I would include it in restoration plans. | 01/15/2008 | GI Brats, reunion coordinator | McGrew, Palmer . | No |
| 6194 | I grew up on Governors Island. It was my home from the end of my 4th grade year until the beginning of my 12th grade year. Just about every childhood memory I have, comes from Governors Island. I remember... I would climb into the cavernous recesses of the castle's windows, with the New York City skyline and the emerging World Trade Center filling my view., and I would sit there for hours sometimes, trying to make sense of this world, my world. The Statue of Liberty's torch would beckon me for attention, though at the time its significance was, well, insignificant to me. I lived for many years inside of Fort Jay. I played among the Castle William ruins (I say ruins, because even then in the 1970's the castle was in need of repairs.) The island was not only a stage of life for me...it was my stage. Today we are faced with a perplexing question on the future of the historical part of the island, particularly the Castle Williams...how should this great, dilapidated structure be used so that it values the treasure its past and preserves the memories for those who called (call!) Governors Island home. I doubt the original architects of the Castle envisioned a theater within its walls, but neither did they foresee a teen club, a craft shop, a nursery, or a refuge for an adolescent girl. | 03/18/2008 | | McKew, Sharon E. | No |

| 6300 | Thank you. My name is Paul McKinnon, and I speak before you on behalf of the New Globe Theater tonight. I do so as a citizen of this city, a local businessman, and lover of the park system and the arts across our country, I also speak as the son and the grandson of U.S. military veterans who served in World War II and Southeast Asia and as a veteran who has served in the Army himself. I also speak as the grandson of immigrants. In that sense I speak as, in many ways, quite American. Four centuries after the first European settlers arrived, what we now call the core of the 13 colonies, Jamestown, 1607, we stand in this hall commemorating our self-government with the opportunity to honor and commemorate the culture that formed our forefathers and mothers and to draw on our heritage more broadly to enrich American culture and civilization today and for future generations. How can we do this? You can do this, ladies and gentlemen of the National Park Service, on behalf of your fellow citizens. Here in New York City, the Gateway to the New World, in so many ways a great cultural capital of the world, you can do the following. Approve Castle Williams on Governors Island as the site of the New Globe Theater. As so many others have stated, doing so would create a new jewel in the harbor of this great city, a landmark that would enrich the city skyline in an extraordinary way that complements the towers and plazas and gardens of our beautiful city. It would also create an extraordinary new institution in our civic and culture life, a theater that would be a beacon of much-needed cultural continuity, and promote the flourishing and enjoyment and study of one of the great legacies of our civilization, or indeed, of any civilization anywhere; to wit, the plays of William Shakespeare. A century after the National Park System was founded, at a time when our nation is re-imagining and re-visioning what these great parks will offer our citizens and what values they shall embody in the century to come, it is altogether right, fitting and proper that the National Park Service should approve the use of Castle Williams for the New Globe. Ladies and gentlemen of the NPS, please support the will of the many tens of thousands of Americans, distinguished and common alike, in preserving a true citadel of our nation's heritage, and in creating a new cultural Monument for future generations. | 09/10/2008 | | McKINNON , Paul . | No |

| 5352 | As both a music education major and a native New Yorker I cannot stress enough how beneficial the addition of The New Globe Theatre will be. Countless lives will be enhanced and myriad memories created when a child attends a music workshop or a theatre or opera enthusiast experiences a beautiful performance at what has the potential not only to improve education and economic standards but also to be the building that will breathe new life into downtown Manhattan and the Harbor. To disapprove this project would be committing a disservice to music, theatre, education, and to New York City's rich culture and all who would come to experience the grandiose beauty of the New Globe Theatre. In any given week we have more plays here than anywhere else in the world. In addition, we have great universities with excellent training programs in the performing arts. And we have thousands of actors and other theater professionals. But to maintain and strengthen this crucial cultural and economic part of the city's life, we need an institution that will give the classics of English theater a regular home, with first class productions and great acting. The New Globe Theater will offer not only Shakespeare but also works by modern playwrights. And it will add classical and contemporary concerts, jazz performances, lectures, and a wide range of other events. The theater, with its extensive education program (modeled on London's Globe, serving 100,000 students annually), will help what we need most for good theater -- not only a broader audience, but a more deeply thoughtful one, ready to take in the riches of our strongest artistic tradition. The economics of this plan work. The New Globe performance space, with a total capacity for 1,200 visitors and with 400 "groundling" tickets at $10 for each show, will provide a continuous revenue stream to create a self-sustaining national park. It is folly to sacrifice these riches to preferred Alternative D ("Harbor Center") which duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitor centers at Federal Hall, Castle Clinton, and others. You have a chance to create a great new institution that will both save and enliven one an important historic building. This plan will add something unique to the city's cultural strengths. I assure you that people will come to Governors' Island for first-class cultural experiences, and that they will come back again and again. None of the other alternatives before you will so quickly build this kind of dedicated following. None will do nearly as much to give the Island the life and the liveliness it needs to flourish. Bruce Payne Executive Director The Shelley & Donald Rubin Foundation | | | | |

| | The public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe is a superb idea. For ten years, I taught college students who came from across the country to spend a whole spring semester looking at New York's culture. I saw firsthand the strength of the audience here for theater and the rich promise the performing arts hold for the city. Live theater is the heart of New York's cultural life; not just Broadway, but the dozens of small theaters and performance spaces that make New York, and not London, the theater capital of the English-speaking world. But to maintain and strengthen this crucial cultural and economic part of the city's life, we need an institution that will give the classics of English theater a regular home with first-class productions and great acting. This theater, with its extensive education program, will build what we need most, not only a broader audience but a more deeply thoughtful one, ready, even hungry, to take in the riches of our strongest artistic traditions. It would be folly to sacrifice this opportunity. Your currently preferred alternative D offers nothing nearly so valuable. It duplicates a role already fulfilled by the visitors' centers here, at Castle Clinton and others, and it preserves once again only our military history, and our harbor history. It doesn't preserve our cultural, our intellectual and our performing history and very little of the Park Service does that at all. This is the opportunity not to be missed. You have a chance to create a great new institution that will both save and enlighten a historic building. The theater plan will also add something extraordinarily valuable to the city's cultural strengths. I assure you that people will come to Governors Island for a first-class cultural experience and they will come back again and again. None of the other alternatives before you will so quickly build this kind of dedicated following. None will do nearly as much to give the island life and the liveliness it needs to flourish. Thank you. | | | | |
| 6034 | First, I want to thank the NPS for putting forth a well thought out, comprehensive document. Second, I also want to thank the NPS, and it's directors and decision makers, for having the courage to state to various groups (cat sanctuary and Shakespearean theater) that while their proposals had some (?) merit, they did not meet the historical or cultural interpretive nature as intended for a National Monument. All too often, public agencies seek a conciliatory or appeasement measure to make everyone feel goo. As an active duty US Army officer, and military historian, I find that your preferred proposal has great merit, and would also be my preferred method of administration and general upkeep for Governors Island. It isa only fitting these buildings and grounds be preserved in the same manner for which they were originally built. My only comment would be that were it possible to extend the plan to the entire island, it should be done. In this day of shrinking public resources, too often we overlook areas of impotent national history, no matter how small or localized. GI is one such area though that the entire country benefited from. Keep up the good work. Layton H.M. | | As you know, the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams. The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. To date, the project has greatly increased the international visibility of Castle Williams and has won the enthusiastic support of community and civic leaders, as well as major philanthropists and luminaries. It's got to be good to get New Yorkers and visiting citizens to take a ferry across the river. The New Globe Theater's proposal is just such a plan. I therefore strongly urge you to support this historically sensitive, culturally thrilling, and educationally valuable adaptive reuse of the Castle Williams National Monument. Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter. | | | | |
| 2272 | I believe the New Globe proposal to be a very creative use of Governors Island. I'm surprised that the Park service, chronically underfunded, would dismiss a proposal that involves public-private cooperation. Evidence from other NPS sites demonstrates that model doesn't work. The New Globe in London has been a great success, sparking revitalization of the entire area. The New Globe will do the same thing for NY harbor. Governors Island belongs to the people. As an educator and an actress, I am increasingly dismayed at the lack of funding for and support of the arts. As they are cut out of public schools, the demand for those arts -elsewhere in the public sphere- increases. Not only would this venue provide access to art, but it could reach out to those people who are not already patrons and add value and depth to their lives. My best friend in third and fourth grade, her father was stationed on Governors Island. He was with the United States Coast Guard. And there is a way to make the cultural space be both respectful to military history, the people who lived on that island, were stationed on the island, and the history of that island, and what better way than the New Globe project to bring people to the island to show them that history, and let them know how New York was both part of American history and military history, and what better way to elaborate on that history than with a cultural beauty of Shakespeare? | 6263 | Hi, my name is Barbara Romer, and I'm the founder of the New Globe. Let me begin by stating that our proposal, the proposed public-private partnership, clearly adheres to the national monument's stated purpose of providing an excellent opportunity for the public to observe and understand the harbor history, its defense and its ecology by restoring Castle Williams to its 1811 glory and interpreting its role in the defense of New York harbor and the nation within a three thousand square foot museum. Yes, the New Globe plan also features the construction of a visionary theater inside the empty open courtyard -- it's a reversible design which would not harm the historic structure. This cultural center would provide a viable self-sustaining revenue source to provide for the rehabilitation and maintenance of the fort; would attract a much wider and more diverse audience the National Parks of New York Harbor, and, last but not least, would recast a reminder of the UK-US military animosity into an international icon of friendship, complementary to the French Statue of Liberty. If you question whether the military establishment would embrace the New Globe, please note that we count amongst our supporters General Colin Powell, Dr. Henry Kissinger, Secretary James Baker, as well as former U.S. Secretaries of Defense McNamara, Schlesinger and Brown. The draft GMP states that the proposed vision is "the product of a process that integrates the aspirations of the public with the unique capabilities of NPS to provide for the preservation and public enjoyment of the National Monument." However, the public's aspirations favoring the New Globe are clear. A Congressional letter signed by Senators Clinton and Schumer, Congressman Nadler, New York delegation Chairman Charlie Rangel and another dozen Congressmen strongly urged the National Park Service to approve the New Globe plan in 2007. During the public scoping period, about 65 percent of respondents called for the approval of the New Globe, a fact buried on page 271 in the appendix of the draft GMP. Please recognize the breadth of our growing bi-partisan support. Amongst those urging you to approve the proposal are: President Jimmy Carter, former US Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt, NEA Chair Dana Gioia, and other household names such as Walter Cronkite, Gloria Steinem, Regis Philbin, Kenneth Cole, Diane von Furstenberg, literally more than a dozen billionaires, as well as the greatest philanthropic supporters of National Parks, ranging from individuals such as Lee Iacocca, David Rockefeller, Sr., Marian Heiskell, to corporate partners such as American Airlines, Unilever, Coca-Cola, or programmatic partners such as the National Geographic Society. Then there's the financial community with Charles Schwab, John Mack, John Reed, John Whitehead, Diana Taylor, Jim Wolfensohn; preservationists, conservationists and city planners such as Theodore Roosevelt IV, Prof. Ken Jackson, Mike Wallace, Brenda Levin, Kent Barwick, Frank Sanchis, Laurie Beckelman, Downtown voices such as John Menin, Bobbie Douglass, Madelyn Wils; And this list goes on, and I'm happy to keep reading for three hours. | 3/10/2008 | | ROMER , Barbara . | No |
| 1656 | PLEASE let the GMP for Castle Williams National Monument allow the New Globe Theater plan to go ahead. Given that the New Globe proposes a reversible inset of a performing arts venue within the open courtyard of the decaying Castle Williams, you'd think it would be a relatively low-cost way of turning the fort into a powerful educational, cultural and even commercial destination in New York Harbor. And the New Globe will generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. What's not to love? An investment that will pay for itself, increase the cultural profile of the island, to a design by the world's most famous architect -- and all reversible if need be. Come on! The new architectural elements, which will be entirely reversible, complement the scale and character of the existing structure while giving it new life. I suspect that, when completed, this project would be considered an example of adaptive reuse worthy of global acclaim. The project also provides an unprecedented opportunity for New York City and for the National Park Service. It will be a boon, culturally, recreationally, and economically for the city and for the nation as a whole. | 6317 | Hi, my name is Uli Sailer, and I'm here to speak in support of the New Globe. And I am a resident of New York, and I have worked as an international arts consultant for a number of years. And I just want to say that I've seen a fair number of different plans, and I've become pretty disillusioned about many of them. And I can tell you from the depth of my heart, this is not one like that. This one has way more potential than I've ever seen in any other plan. And I also want to say to the Park Service, I hope that all of these voices that have spoken today, and that have made their own opinions heard, I hope that you're listening to them, in this democratic system, that you're listening to the people who live there the people who vote and the people whom you serve ultimately, what they desire. And I'd like to share a comment by Tim Heitman, from San Diego, California. Theatergoers traveling to New York constitute the largest single contingent of visitors to the city. That industry has reached out to your island project, giving you the chance to tap into that enormous exposure and cash flow, and not only are you not jumping at the chance to find ways to make it happen, but you're actually rejecting the idea outright? I may just be one of those local visitors of New York theater from San Diego, but I guess I've been reassured that our National Park Service is still comfortably in the hands of bureaucratic tunnel visionaries who can't see past the end of their desks. | 3/10/2008 | SAILER, Uli . | No |

| 6280 | My name is Joe Salvatore. I'm professor at the New York University in the Steiner school of culture, education and human development and I'm here to support the New Globe project and read a statement from someone that couldn't be with us. This is from Magda Spasiano from south Boston, Massachusetts. I'm a theater teacher in Boston working with underserved at-risk youth, and introducing them to the wide and wonderful world of Shakespeare. We attend productions all over the greater Boston area and when we talk about the Globe, that's pretty much all we can do, talk. We will not be making a trip to London any time soon. But we could get to New York. The experience that my students would gain from a visit to a park, museum and a Shakespeare show would make it a required part of any program I run. I'd just like to add as an artist and educator myself that I think that it's very interesting that so many people have talked about the collision of history and art in their comments that they've made this evening, and I think it would behoove us as a country to listen to those comments because Shakespeare listened to those comments as well. Thank you. | 3/10/2008 | SALVATORE , Joe . | No | |
| 6316 | Good evening. My name is Frank Sanchez, and I'm senior vice-president of the Municipal Art Society of New York. The society has a long supported the idea of a New Globe at Castle Williams. I have had the pleasure of sitting here for the last twenty minutes listening to some really good testimony as to why this is a good idea. And we remain perplexed as to why the Park Service is so resistant to explore it. There is an opportunity here to restore the port. As we've heard, we have a project that meets the Secretary of the Interior's standards for rehabilitation and preservation of historic buildings, and you have an idea which could bring money into Governors Island, and which embodies the kind of creative thinking that we would like to think Americans are proud of. This is a great opportunity for the National Parks Service to provide leadership and preservation in the United States. It's a great opportunity for the Park Service to creatively interpret the fortifications of New York. This is one of five forts, and in unison with them, we remain convinced that you're doing a great job, and it's an idea that will endure for a very long time. So we urge you to open up, to change your minds, to look at this idea carefully. And to accept it. Thank you. | 3/10/2008 | Municipal Art Society of New York | SANCHEZ, Frank . | No |

I have found that those that have been stationed on the island have a permanent attachment to this locale. It was one of the most unique communities that one could experience when it was in its "heyday". I look forward to some of the development proposals on the southern end of the Island. But, I am quite dismayed by the plans for the historic northern end of Governor's Island. I feel that it should be preserved as to best portray the rich military history of the Army and Coast Guard time of occupancy. I am particularly speaking of the planned "Globe Theater" project. While it is a great idea to have a facility like that it has no place within the historic structure of Castle Williams. Castle Williams and Fort Jay should be preserved as they have been for over a century. | 3/18/2008 | | Sarlo, Richard A. | No |

Not only would it enrich the cultural heritage of our great city, but it would also help to preserve Governor's Island in a way heretofore unseen. How many New Yorkers even know about or have visited the Island? Now, with this great project - it would not only raise awareness of the historical significance of Governor's Island, but ensure it's financial survival and preservation through an active connection with the vibrant arts community of New York City. And what better way to use an old military fort - a sign of war - than to turn it into a place of creation, art and entertainment that will delight generations of New Yorkers and visitors to our city alike for years to come. Give Governor's Island the boost and chance it needs to thrive in the future of our city - not by relegating it to the status of relic - but by giving the Old Globe approval to become a part of the rich tapestry of New York. I encourage you to contact me if you have any questions. | | | |

I feel that the NPS should should keep Governors Island and Castle Williams as a historical military park, to provide important learning experience for the general public and show the true history of the New York area. The NPS should have the final say on the future of Governors Island Park. I believe that turning Castle Williams and Ft. | 5207 | Re: PLEASE APPROVE NEW GLOBE PROPOSAL >From across the Pond, I urge you to follow this sensible, self-sustaining and, above all, inspiring proposal. People who are not involved in the theatre sometimes don't realise the power a theatre has to revive and invigorate a district. But for this proposal you have the clearest, most obvious demonstration of the power it can have. Its model is Shakespeare's Globe in London. And who made Shakespeare's Globe possible? Sam Wanamaker, of course. A proud US citizen who transformed a semi-derelict area, through his Yankee determination, by rebuilding Shakespeare's theatre in Bankside. And now, purely because of Sam, that area round his new Shakespeare's Globe is probably the most vibrant in all of our capital city. It has, quite literally, transformed Bankside. It has changed the area into one that every tourist has to visit, and one that sustains hundreds of businesses where before there were none. One thing we don't forget here in London is the opposition Sam faced. At every turn he was obstructed by petty local officials, who thought that they knew best, or that he was too much trouble, or that no-one would be prepared to travel so far, or that his project would cost too much money. They were all wrong. Shakespeare's Globe receives no public funding. It is a huge asset to the area. It was, from the start, one of the most popular visitor attractions in London. Oh yes, and many of its audience arrive by boat. Yes they do. A new pier has been built just outside the theatre to accommodate the traffic. | 3/12/2008 | | Sharp, Jonathan . | No |

| | Sam was not, of course, alone in proving the power of theatre to regenerate. If you want another example, look at Ed Mirvish. "Honest Ed" single-handedly turned downtown Toronto from a place to avoid into a place you would want to spend time in. All by taking over and refurbishing a theatre there. Or look at Leeds, in northern England. A rundown former factory town. But its mayor and council were more enlightened than the fools Sam had to fight. What did they make the centrepiece of the plan to regenerate Leeds? A new theatre, the West Yorkshire Playhouse. And it worked. Now, it's far and away the most successful city in the area. It's nothing strange or mystical. Theatres attract affluent, happy, audiences who cause no trouble. By their presence and by the presence of the people they attract, theatres improve the quality of life. The audiences tend to be around after hours, so areas that feel unsafe at night are instantly improved. When you have such a marvellous proposal as the New Globe proposal, with such obvious advantages and well-proven antecedents, it would be madness to rule it out. But don't listen to me. Listen to Sam, and look at what he did for London. Are you going to stop some more dedicated, public-spirited citizens trying to do the same for New York? | | | | |

And last summer, I had the privilege of being an international acting fellow at Shakespeare's Globe Theater in London. | | Re: I look forward to visiting the New Globe Theater I am impressed with the ingenuity of your plan to build the new globe theater within the existing Castle Williams. It respects the historic significance of the fort, while giving us the opportunity to celebrate a new day; an opportunity to build an experience of culture from the ashes of a symbol of war. This is a rare opportunity. Please do not let it pass. I live in Dallas, Texas. I visited New York with my wife and daughter in 2005; we had a wonderful time, visiting many of the "must do" sights of New York: the Statue of Liberty, the Met, the Guggenheim, Central Park, and Times Square. And of course, the ground zero site. We would love to visit New York again; however, there are many places we have not been, that we would love to experience. But I can truly say there are two things that would definitely bring us back to New York: the memorial at the World Trade Center, and the New Globe Theater. I had the chance to see a play in the reconstructed Globe Theater in London in 2003. Being a groundling, being a part of that tradition, was a memory I will treasure forever. I'm excited about the opportunity to see a play in the New Globe Theater: to experience an American evolution of the Globe tradition. Regards, Jonathan Sieders | | | | |

| 5437 | I wish to register my comments on the proposed use of Castle Williams as a theater. As a member of the NY historical community for more than 30 years I am strongly in opposition to such a plan. The proposed alteration to Castle Williams for a theatrical venue is in my opinion ludicrous for several reasons. Some of these are: The logistics of getting people to the Island, the lack of available parking, and most of all the destruction of an historical landmark for no other reason than to increase revenue for the City of New York. There are many other sites that could be used for that purpose, including Castle Gardens in Manhattan which, after all, served as a theater at one time. It is obvious that some of the politicians in this State care more about accomodating people in the Hollywood and theatrical communities than about preserving the history and historical landmarks of the state that they represent. In my opinion they are letting the people of New York and our future generations down. Sincerely, Guy W. Smith | 3/12/2008 | CoH119NY Volunteers Historical Assn. | Smith, Guy W. | No |

It was a safe haven in the middle of the most exciting (and at that time scary) city in the world. I left the Island in February of 1974. I had graduated high school and had married a "Coastie" that was living in the barracks and attending school on Governors Island. The memories I have of that time in my life are so special. | 738 | I'm sure you've gotten enough emails with the whole spiel so you know what it says already. But there are a million reasons why this should be done. It would revitalize the theatre community in New York, giving a quality creative outlet, broadening the goal of theatre to outside the box of "broadway." It would make theatre relevant and affordable. That's something it needs very badly. Anything that gets people thinking and talking, ESPECIALLY in a time of war, is a good thing. It seems to be common political thinking that universal support is needed for a successful war effort. But it's been shown time and time again, that any government which tries to forcefully coerce its populace into agreement by propaganda or the prevention of a dissenting voice fails. While it may be annoying, the success of the United States is founded on dissent and contrasting opinions. Art is necessary for war, war is necessary for art. | 599 | I am in full support of the creative proposal of New Globe Theatre to adapt the decaying military fort on Governors Island into an extraordinary tourist attraction, entertainment and education center for this country and the New York region. You are well aware of what New Globe proposes. It is unnecessary for me to repeat what you already know. I simply wish to add my voice to the thousands of concerned citizens and political leaders who are interested in this brilliant and popular project. It will bring new respect and support for the National Park Service. It will improve the economy of the region, and it will attract millions of tourists from throughout the United States and abroad. I am not aware of anyone who is interested in the welfare of this country and its commitment to culture and education who has proposed a more worthy and noble use of this historic landmark. I hope that you agree and will give the New Globe project the serious and fair attention that it deserves. | 2/20/2008 | | Sullivan, Richard . | No |
| 6313 | Hi, I'm, Sarah Cameron Sundy. I'm a freelance writer, director and producer with several companies. I'm a New York citizen. I have stated I'm here because I've never gotten an e-mail that has inspired me to come to a public hearing before and there was something about the pleas of the people who were working so hard for the New Globe Theater that made me really excited about something that could happen in the arts community and it just got me here. So I -- I heavily, mightily support the proposal and I hope that they are listening to everyone speaking. I really hope that there's a way that the different groups can come together to find a solution that could make so many people from all different perspectives feel that there's got to be a way, there's got to be a way to make it work. (Applause.) MS. SUNDY: And I'm here to read a statement from Candy Manuel, who is in Virginia. She says: In London in 1962, an eight-year-old girl stepped onstage for the first time portraying Prince Arthur in a professional production of Shakespeare's King John. I was that girl and the play and that theater shaped my life forever. King John and several other lesser known works of the Bard are seldom seen except in very special venues dedicated to such works. The New Globe would be just such a place. What a huge boost to education in and around New York City, to say nothing of the enormous amount of tourism it would engender. What do you have to lose? Nothing but everything to win. | 3/10/2008 | | SUNDY, Sarah C. | No |
| 4283 | What an amazing opportunity to preserve and breathe life into the park, bring people together, enrich communities and prove that NY is indeed the Theatre Capital of the world!!! It's a fantastic way to bridge old and new. | 3/5/2008 | | Tam, Jason . | No |
| 6169 | Sirs: I have been made aware that the proposed plans for the creation of a park at Governor's Island involve major readaptation of some of the structures, such as Castle Williams (Fort Williams), for drastically new purposes. As these are historic structures, reusing them for purposes inconsistent with their original intent seems inappropriate. It would be as if the Smithsonian Institution in Washington was converted into a hotel to "save" it. There are many possible uses that would involve only limited alterations. | 3/18/2008 | | Tarleton, Robert S. | No |

| | This is not an argument against minor adaptations to modern needs. But it is an argument against wholesale architectural changes. Those who wish to create drastically new structures should do so from scratch, (perhaps using open space on the Island) rather than try to convert historic buildings to new purposes. Can one imagine the Statue of Liberty as a cellphone tower? Nor is this an argument that all structures on Governor's Island are historic and worthy of being saved. Some are utilitarian or of minor historic interest. Reuse or replacement in this case is certainly not unreasonable. But New York City has very limited "open space" in its central areas and these should be conserved whenever feasible. Sincerely, Robert S. Tarleton | | | |
| 4071 | I believe that Governors Island must be preserved for the American public, as well as international visitors, to enjoy. In keeping with that statement, I support any alternative that provides for the preservation of both Castle Williams and Fort Jay for exhibits living history, and interpretive programming on all aspects of their history. Fort Jay should be maintained as a center for learning about the lives of the military; soldiers and their families. If the quadrangle buildings are to be used by artists-in-residence, their presence should be as discreet as possible in order to preserve the military heritage of the fort. Please keep Castle Williams INTACT as the best preserved fort of its kind. Any proposals made to convert it into a theater should be ignored. Do not destroy this pristine example of 1800s military technology by turning it into a "New Globe Theater" or any other type of theatrical space. Putting a roof over the courtyard of Castle Williams will destroy the basic integrity of the structure's character. With a roof over the top, we would no longer be able to experience the freezing winds in the summer that would have chilled Southern prisoners to the bone in the 1860s. We would not be able to experience the hot, hot sun in the summer, imagining soldiers straining to conduct target practice with the giant cannon. The laughs of children and teens who used the Castle as a Girl Scout, Boy Scout and Teen Club center in the Coast Guard years would be silenced by a stage sitting in the middle of the yard. I say, "NO!" to the Globe Theater concept for Castle Williams! Above all, the programming for Governors Island should focus on the military heritage of ALL of the people who served there; Army, Coast Guard, military, dependents, civilians, and women. Thank you for this wonderful opportunity to comment on such a wonderful, historic place. | 3/4/2008 | Taylor, Megan W. | No |
| 4044 | Save Castle Williams' historic mission!!! Do not destroy this pristine example of 1800s military technology by turning it into a "New Globe Theater"!!! Putting a roof over the courtyard will destroy the basic integrity of the structure's character. Worse, turning it into a theater will require many changes to the existing structure that will adversely effect the fort itself. I have worked in theaters. I know what a modern theater requires for its basic operation. The castle has only one portal for entrance and exit. Any public event requires more than one exit in case of a fire or other emergency. Blowing openings in the castle's eight foot thick sandstone walls should not be permitted or even considered!! This reason alone should kill any thought of turning Castle Williams into a public gathering space. The theater will also have to disrupt the concrete deck of the courtyard. The big problem with this idea is that there is no island under that concrete. The fort sits on a spit of rock that juts out into the harbor. In other words, not too far down under that concrete is harbor water. If you doubt this check the center drain in the courtyard at high tide or after a storm. The fort is a National Monument!! Any concept that requires the basic integrity of the building be substantially altered should NOT be considered! | 3/4/2008 | Kept Private | Yes |

It seems like a win situation an all sides. Not only would the architecture preserve the fort in its entirety, but it would revitalize interest in the fort itself. It would give people a reason to visit the site. There are many historic landmarks in New York but having the theater encased in the fort would make it a destination point not just for people from New York, but for people from all across America. I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. We are over 640 former employees of the National Park Service with a combined 19,000 years of stewardship of America's most precious natural and cultural resources. Our members now strive to apply their credibility and integrity as they speak out for national park solutions that uphold law and apply sound science. Our members also support the mission of the National Park Service through public education. Park Purposes and the Proper Management of Governors Island National Monument: Our primary concern regarding the GMP is the integrity of Governors Island N.M. as a unit of the National Park System. Inappropriate development or management would compromise both the National Monument and be a threatening precedent for any national park. Governors Island N.M. must be managed, operated and developed in complete accord with its purposes as provided when the area was established, and in accord with the law and policy well established for units of the National Park System. Castle Williams and Fort Jay were set aside in law for protection by the National Park Service because they are two of the finest historic structures of their type in New York or the Nation. When Presidents Clinton and then Bush established Governors Island National Monument, Castle Williams and Fort Jay were identified as the primary park features within the National Monument. | 03/17/2008 | Coalition of NPS Retirees | Wade, J. W. "Bill" . | No |

They were cited as outstanding historic structures, located in the most strategic place in New York Harbor, with a great story to visitors about strategic and ecological importance. Castle Williams was also the first such fortification designed and built by an American, the brilliant Jonathan Williams. In addition to being the finest example of its type in the Nation, it represents the absolute priority America placed on the importance of New York and New York Harbor.

In other words, Fort Jay and Castle Williams are not just any military installation, but like all national parks, are of special national significance, and are to be managed for their own sake as a unit of the National Park System.

Any visitor should have the complete opportunity to explore Castle Williams, hear its story, and see from the rooftop the spectacular views of New York and New York Harbor. This would be an important lesson of the interrelationship of geography and strategy, of geology and commerce and ecology, and a Sense of Place. Amid spectacular views, this visitor would understand immediately how important New York and New York Harbor was and is to the Nation.

Management Alternatives:

Alternatives B, C and D all are appropriate and feasible, and all three are consistent with all applicable NPS law and policy, and have no objection to any of them or any combination of them. We support the NPS Preferred Alternative, Alternative D: Harbor Partnership because when clarified it would best accomplish the National Monument purposes. The Harbor Partnership narration should be strengthened by better emphasizing the power and significance of PLACE in the establishment of the National Monument and in its legislative history, such as in NPS congressional testimony, which served as the context for Proclamation language.

For action common to all alternatives, NPS is correct to remove non-contributing structures or structural elements as described because currently they compromise the purpose of the National Monument and the visitor experience.

Similarly, it is not appropriate to permit these primary historic structures to continue to deteriorate. Action is necessary now to stabilize and eliminate the hazard on Castle Williams. If the public would be able to experience Castle Williams in short order, a much larger public would be able to appreciate the value of the National Monument just by standing on top of Castle Williams and appreciating that this is the best view anywhere of New York. That view includes Manhattan, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Hudson River, the Statue of Liberty, New York Harbor and much more. (This strategic location is the reason Castle Williams is here in the first place, and the public should appreciate and enjoy it!)

Cooperative Management, Quitclaim Deed and Boundary: The relationship between GIPEC and the NPS should be expanded strengthened throughout this document. It is unclear what the role of the NPS/Secretary should be in enforcing the Deed and other transfer agreements, and how and when the NPS should be prepared to do so. Proper monitoring and managing of NPS responsibilities should be better reflected in this document. Otherwise, it is likely the public interest in protecting the landscape immediately adjacent to the park will be neglected. There is ambiguity as to how well protected NHL features are, such as the parade ground. Because the GMP implies the parade ground should be considered for inclusion in the boundary if not properly protected, it should be clearer if that protection mechanism exists or how it works. How would the NPS have time to obtain authority to protect the whole parade ground if threatened? On the other hand, NPS and the Secretary want to avoid monitoring Deed enforcement in such a way that complicates or ensnares GIPEC's work or cause the NPS/Secretary to overstep its role. A solution for both parties, to enhance both GIPEC and NPS operation and further build a cooperative and synergistic relationship.

Alternatives Considered but Eliminated from Further Study:

We strongly support eliminating from further study the three proposals; Proposal One, The New Globe Theater: Establish a Performing Arts Center Inside Castle Williams and Fort Jay; Proposal Two, Establish and Operate an Army Museum within Castle Williams, and, Proposal Three, Restore the Golf Course. The Draft GMP

The New Globe Shakespearean Theater:

Inasmuch as the New Globe Theater is being strongly promoted by a self-constituted group to take over, redevelop and manage Castle Williams and Fort Jay, and has cited the names of many celebrities and former political officials as supporters of the proposal, further comment is warranted. Shakespearean theater in itself is, of course, laudable, but the question is, is the New Globe Theater as proposed appropriate in this National Park System unit?

The proposal to take over Castle Williams and convert it into a Shakespearean theater and Fort Jay into housing for theater actors and their families would seriously impair these historic structures and their purposes, and are inappropriate.

Installing a full-time Shakespearean theater and theater administration in this National Monument would violate the National Park Service responsibility to properly protect and interpret these forts according to the law. The primary park features would be managed for purposes unrelated to park purposes, and unrelated to the national significance of the site or appropriate visitor use.

A Shakespearean theater does not need to be built within this national park, as there are numerous other appropriate sites elsewhere on Governors Island and other places in New York.

Taking over a national park for such purposes unrelated to the park would be a terrible precedent for Governors Island and for every park within the National Park System nationwide.

In recent years the NPS has been besieged by improper proposals to convert management or use of a national park for special interest or for private purposes. For example, we have seen a state push to take over the operation of Grand Canyon National Park thereby undermining the Act of 1916 that establishes the National Park Service specifically to provide stewardship and management of parklands. We have seen private or special interests seek to require Yellowstone National Park to permit snowmobiling, thus undermining the health of the park and of the visitors, and compromising the experience of visitors who come to enjoy Yellowstone in accordance with its purposes.

There may always be the danger that some people want to convert the magnificent resources in our national parks for their special interest uses or revenue production. However, the NPS should not permit this at Governors Island National Monument or any national park.

The Draft GMP is correct to state that the visitation "would essentially be pre-empted," and the Coalition of National Park Service Retirees strongly recommends this analysis not be compromised in the final document.

We believe the proposed Shakespearean theater and its entire infrastructure would constitute "impairment" both visually and physically as addressed in the Act of 1916. The design would overwhelm the beauty and meaning of Castle Williams. This spectacular facility would completely undermine the visitor's appreciation of the National Monument. In explaining the Act of 1916 and the Act of 1970, as amended, the NPS Management Policies, 2006 identify the essence of the problem of this proposal when they state:

At the heart of these laws is the principle of conserving the natural and cultural resources and values for which a park has been set aside its purpose and raison d'être for the enjoyment of the people of the United States and its future generations 'in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired.' (Section 1.4.1; Emphasis Added)

By definition this Shakespearean theater proposal is intended to, and would have the effect of redirecting the park purpose AWAY from the legal purposes establishing the National Monument.

In fact, the New Globe website and the New Globe advocates, at the March 10 public hearing, specifically state that the purpose of Castle Williams should be redirected away from "military" issues and commemoration. A change in purpose of a national park can only be made by the Congress. Taken as a whole the proposal violates numerous citations of law, regulation, Management Policies, Director's Orders and the Quitclaim Deed, and we would be happy to provide references if the NPS so requests.

| | Included in these violations is the consideration of what would constitute an appropriate agreement or lease for third-party management or partner. The Director's Order specifically states: Historic structures may be assigned to other entities through leases, permits, or concession agreements if there are no feasible NPS uses. (NPS 28.8.2, Emphasis Added.) Clearly this standard is not met in the case of Governors Island National Monument. Alternatives B, C and D are all present fully feasible NPS uses, and unlike the Shakespearean theater proposal, all would be consistent with park purposes. Appropriate partnership is further clarified by the NPS Management Policies, 2006: Proposed uses must not unduly limit public appreciation of the property; interfere with visitor use and enjoyment of the park; or preclude use of the property for park administration. . . (Section 5.3.3) As we have explained above, the theater as proposed would completely compromise the visitor appreciation of the park and its purposes, and would eliminate space for necessary park operations. It is inappropriate for the NPS to consider a proposal to redevelop Castle Williams for purposes that would compromise the cultural resource and park purposes, from an organization with no track record and with no partnership agreement with the park. NPS should never consider developing such an agreement without competition. There is no justification for a sole-source. Even if some similar agreement were appropriate, competition would permit the NPS to thoroughly vet the capacities of the competing organization(s) involved, require feasibility analyses, and make a decision or select an appropriate vendor in the public interest with defined criteria centered on park purposes. Our observation is that successful partnerships begin at the park level, as developed and supported by the park superintendent. They are developed symbiotically, with great respect for the needs of each party, but in full recognition of the laws and policies governing the National Park System. Parties seeking to be a partner of the NPS do not try to force the hand of the superintendent, or reach above or complicate the integrity of a superintendent, but would first develop a mutual understanding a win-win relationship at the park level. To put it plainly, this proposal would take over a National Park System unit for private purposes. The proposal has no relationship to U.S. heritage or history. It would be havoc to the integrity of the National Park System. Thank you for the opportunity to comment. Sincerely, /s/ J. | | I wanted to take the time to convey to you how I personally feel about the importance of the historical continuity of the Governor's Island Monument. It was a great day for the island when the National Park Service was given a section of the island to assure it would not be lost to development in the name of progress. NYC although one of the most historical places in our country has so not cherished it's history. The Governor's Island site would be one of the last places in NY for people to understand the importance of the harbor defences and to grasp just how important the NY port was to the United States. Although it is a great thing that the Island is being partially preserved it would be even better if more of the Island, especially historical sections like the South Battery, Colonels row, Nolan Park and the entire Glacis were given to the NPS to preserve for future generations of Americans. People are all too often willing to destroy our history and preserving the buildings and grounds of Governor's Island would benefit generations to come. The wonderful thing about the island it that is is not limited to interpretation of one facet of our nations history. The NPS Best Regards, Robert M. | 6301 | Hi, my name is Kevin Wallace and I'm here to speak regarding this New Globe proposal. I think that I've seen a lot of proposals over the last few years for Governor's Island, and I think that GIPEC and the National Park Service, the island itself needs a strong cultural and economic magnet that is not only going to inspire people to get on a boat to go over there. I understand historic preservation, I think it's very important. But just to tell you something a few years ago, that came to my mind while I was sitting here, a few years ago, there was a Chekhov play in Central Park and myself and my sister along with five hundred other people slept out on the sidewalk in order to get tickets to that performance. Meryl Streep was in it, a number of people on the artistic board of directors, and I think that that is a testament to the kind of social and community interest that will come to this island, that is go out of their way to go there. In regards to the historic preservation, another thing that came to my mind was the German Parliament building. This, I think most people would agree is far more historically significant than the Castle Williams building, the symbol of, you know, the division and reunification of Germany, and Sir Norman Foster, the architect, the same architect that they have brought to this project, has designed the dome on the top of it and every day there are thousands of people who ascend to the top of that dome of that building and, on the way there, they absorb the history, and they learn about history as they do that. So I can't think of a better architect for this project, and I think that the idea of the English and United States -- being that this was a symbol of division, now it's sort of a symbol of unity through art and culture, I think is such -- it's such a perfect match. So finally, I would just say, why not work with that firm to make sure that the project is preserved to the best possible degree and, because it's a great project and I'd really like to see it happen. Thank you very much. | 03/10/2008 | | WALLACE , Kevin . | No |

| 734 | Hello, It seems as if the odds are stacked against our history. However "I will follow thee to the last grasp with truth and loyalty." (William Shakespeare) It is said in this GMP that Fort Jay and Castle Williams made or Nations official list of cultural resources worthy of preservation. Properties can be nominated by governments because they are significant to the nation, to a state, or to a community. Therefore I find it hard to consider that there are those serving in our government who have signed on in an effort to erase what has been claimed significant in American history. I refer to those government officials who are supporting the New Globe Theatre. I have read through the different proposals in the document and am quite comfortable with most anyone of them. I would however note that Plan A if chosen, would continue to leave these historic gems open to nonsensical proposals like the "New Globe Theatre or Home for Stray felines alternatives. Any of those alternatives that were considered but eliminated from further study are nothing short of an insult to our history and would remove the historical significance to what has stood guard over the harbor for hundreds of years. I would like to add that while I too prefer what the Park has named as their "Preferred Choice" (Proposal D) I'd like to see a few more things added to this plan. I think the entire Glacis should be kept within the boundaries and the South Battery should be enveloped by the NPS as well. It would be disappointing if we were to preserve and rehabilitate Jay and Williams and forget the role of the South Batteries in this part of our history. The Glacis allows for such a grand view of this property as is the uninterrupted view from Fort Jay looking across it. As an effort to preserve the landscape and enrich the visitors experience I think it would be wise to include this parcel in plan D as well. The folks who are pushing for the New Globe Theatre say "If we do not act now, we will forever loose the opportunity to create an inspiring cultural icon in New York Harbor!" Through their shortsighted self serving actions they are about to destroy an inspiring cultural icon in New York Harbor! Please do not let this happen to what belongs to all of us, for the sake of just a few. Thank you for your time and thank you for your efforts to keep history alive! Sincerely, Robert H. Although I am a supporter of New Globe project, I am here speaking on behalf of the Daniel family from Spring Green, Wisconsin. My family and I have been generational supporters of the Park Service. We are proud to live in a country with a department that is dedicating to stewarding our natural areas. We honor and defer to your choices, even the ones that seem to make little sense to us, knowing that you are looking at a much larger picture than the one my family is privy to. We are e-mailing this because of this. The Daniel family, all four generations, offer their support of the New Globe project, believing it will become a marvelous national treasure. Thank you for the wonderful work you do and also for the fantastic staff (on the parks level) that share our summers with us. Thank you. | 03/10/2008 | | WEIBEL , Ryan . | No |

| | As a civilian and student of history, theatre, and education, I have this consideration to offer: What I have heard over and over again by the National Park Service is their desire to maintain and preserve not only the structure of Castle Williams, but the integrity of its historical value as well. Interestingly, what I have heard of the New Globe's desire for the very same structure is identical -- verbatim. To that end, "history" is only of value when we are able to learn from it and recognize its impact on modern society. To me, Castle Williams represents a history that no longer suggests a need to "protect" ourselves from the British; rather, it represents a partnership and friendship between two countries that were once wrought with strife. With that, it is time to bridge the gap between our differences and acknowledge our commonalities. As it stands, the two world capitals of theatre are New York and London. With this plan by the New Globe Theatre, Castle Williams can remain, untouched, a monument to honor its place in history and the same time, be (within its walls) a place of art and common, human experience. I urge to consider this proposal as the perfect solution, not only financially and historically, but, equally, from a standpoint of humanity as well. Thank you. | | | | |
| 3713 | The approval of the New Globe Theatre will not only be a financially sound investment, bringing jobs to the area, and tourists as well as locals together but it will educate today's youth in an ever fascinating and beautiful time. By not approving this you are depriving America's youth, and populace of a wonderful and in my opinion brilliant teaching tool. | 6206 | As an architect, long-time member of the Governors Island Alliance advisory committee, and fairly knowledgeable about the island and its history, I think this Plan is excellent work. Some comments follow that are mine, not of the organization. No-action alternate not good enough. Of the "Common to All Action Alternatives" Goals, the third -- to operate the Natl Monument as part of the larger island -- might be the one most likely to fall by the wayside and it should not: To operate the National Monument as part of the larger island is an excellent and important concept because the parks and public places as eventually developed by GIPEC will enlarge the National Monument experience. The two components, NPSNM and GIPEC, which are pledged by the transfer deed to aid one another and cooperate, will both benefit greatly from the association with each other: The whole will be greater than the sum of the parts. Alternate D is the best: It befits a water-oriented island at the center of the harbor. The Natl Monument will also benefit from its to other harbor parks and activities. And it is only about twice the cost and $60 million more (over the life cycle) of the No-action alternate. Alternate C is the next best and should be combined with D. Mainly because, in Alt C, only a portion of each floor of Castle Williams will be rehabbed and opened to the public, rather than the whole fort. Military history is nicely emphasized in the GMP. I was never very interested in the military history or military architecture until reading this GMP now. I am now enthused and look forward to learning more about the military architecture and the military history which so influenced the course of our country and New York. | 02/18/2008 | AIA/NY | Wertz, Suzanne . | No |

| | Impact evaluations should have more contrast. For example: In the table Summary of Environmental Consequences, for Historic Structures, Alts B and D should have major beneficial impact if others are moderate impact. For Collections and Archives, Alt C might be more similar to common or No-action: "moderate". For Aquatic Life and Their Habitats, Alt D will probably be moderate major benefit in the long run, rather than minor, because of its emphasis on the marine and harbor. (There are some typos in the "Visitor Experience" row.) No to Globe Theatre. It could be appropriate elsewhere on the island. That a replica of the original Globe Theatre would just fit the Castle Williams courtyard is a meaningless coincidence and is not sufficient reason to re-create it in this valuable fort and jeopardize the historic significance and historic fabric of the fort. This is a great Management Plan and we should have Alt D with the all-island relationship of Alt C. The Natl Monument is central to the history and entire experience of the island, as well as the key to the island having been transferred to the City and State of NY for the public benefit. | | | | |
| 5184 | I urge you to embrace the public-private partnership proposed by the New Globe Theater as part of your preferred management alternative for Governors Island National Monument. I remember the fort as a child when riding on the Staten Island Ferry. I always wanted it to remain there and visit it some day. It has always been off limits for visitors as I recall and I have never had the chance to see it for myself. It would be wonderful to preserve it for future generations as a venue for the Arts, performances, and even a museum if possible. | 03/12/2008 | | Westley, Greg . | No |

The plan re-imagines the fort as a vibrant educational and cultural destination in New York Harbor. Not only will the New Globe act as an economic catalyst for Governors Island and as a dramatic tourist destination and world-class cultural center, but will also generate the funds to restore, maintain and protect the monument. Thank you for your time and consideration in this important matter. | 02/27/2008 | | White, Tony . | No |

| 6113 | I resided Governors Island between 1979 and 1984. I lived in Brooklyn from 1989 to 2003. Thus, my views concerning Governors Island are those of both an island resident and a New York City (and now New Jersey resident). I was asked to go to the town meeting and speak on behalf of Coast Guard brats, but I decided at the end of the day to go to the meeting and speak only on behalf of myself. By doing that, I was able to speak without owing anyone any allegiances, which allowed me to read, fully cons and then advocate for the management alternative that made most sense to me, regardless of what others might think. I loved the island when I lived on it. I visit it every other week throughout the summers (ever since it was opened to the public). I even attend the Christmas tree lightings and the fall open houses on the island. I am attached to the islands history (as a coast guard brat), I am also anxious about the islands future, because unless a historically sound and economically viable management alternative is adopted, then the islands future is at minimum uncertain, and at worst, destined for failure. These are the considerations that I The bottom line is for me is that I want to support the plan which achieves the two objectives that I think are key for the islands success. One objective is to preserve the history of the island. By history, I don't just mean the history of the history of the islands buildings and architecture and the famous names that visited and/or resided on the island. I also mean to incorporate the history of the people who called the island home; i.e., the history of the relatively historically insignificant people who populated the island over time, and who gave the island the color, context and spirit that is evident to anyone who visits it. Whenever I roam the island in the summers, I always here visitors make comments like "what a great place to raise kids," or "what was life like for the people who lived here?" That curiosity engendered in visitors is a significant part of the appeal of the island, and I believe that this innate appeal needs to be tapped into and harnessed for the island to be successful. How do you do this? You seek out the people and stories associated with the island and preserve and display them in a manner so that they are, on a going-forward basis, etched | 03/17/2008 | | Wilson, Ron . | No |

| | The second objective is to make the island economically viable and relevant to New Yorkers who aren't as concerned with the island's history as they are with using the island's space to add to the recreational and cultural diversity that is New York. Only by getting this interest group(s) involved will the island be able to morph into a destination that will keep it relevant and ensure it's growth and success. Though it pains my heart to say it, that means that some of the islands historical buildings (if not most) will have to find modern uses that cater to free-market interests and provide services that people will travel across the East River and Buttermilk channel to actually use. It is this interest from the private sector that will help ease the strain on the National Park Service's (and thus the tax payers) pocketbook when it comes to renovating and preserving the island's grounds and structures. Thus, the houses in Nolan Park may have to double as museums (some of them) and others as bed and breakfasts. The Administration House may have to double as a wedding hosting site and a reception hall as well as a historical site. It would make a lot of economic sense. With all the above in mind, I believe Management Alternative C is the best proposal of the four proposed plans. It anticipates the private investment that I discuss briefly above, while at the same time allotting space for the island's history to be creatively interwoven and maintained. Alternative C, as spelled out on page 144 of that alternative, would seek to preserve the islands history and stories by organizing them and locating them in a non-linear fashion in site-specific installations or nodes across the island. I believe that is a more natural way to preserve and display the island's history, as opposed to picking one or two locations to cram all the relevant stories and histories into. Military brats who grew up in Fort Jay would be able to see a bit of their history when they visit a refurbished apartment in Fort Jay, while those who grew up on colonel's Row could visit a refurbished dwelling in that section of the island. Yes, there would be an NYU administrative building right next door, but that is the price that has to be paid to walk that fine line between historical and cultural preservation on the one hand and economic viability on the other. The role of the private sector is to walk that line. Management Alternative B appeals to the Coast Guard Brat in me, since it is the purest attempt to preserve the military history of the island. However, my business mind tells me that Alternative B would be a drain on taxpayer resources, since it would not attract enough private investment to fund the many rehabilitative projects needed to maintain the island's buildings and infrastructure. This concern is voiced on page 140 of Chapter 2 ("the NPS would rely on congressional appropriation"). It is a legitimate concern. Although the purest in me likes the idea of focusing on history alone, it just isn't economically feasible. Management Plan C strikes me as an attempt to build a broad coalition of harbor focused projects and entities to try and mimic funding possibilities that could be achieved under Alternative C, while at the same time avoiding the influences and potential vices of private sector money and investment. The problem however, is that Alternative D sacrifices too much of the island's historical integrity and tries to turn the island into something it is not. In short, it takes the island completely out of its natural context. The harbor partnership tries to seamlessly blend the island with its neighboring islands and draw out the commonalities in each and create a common, overarching "greater harbor" theme. That approach dilutes some of the islands uniqueness in my opinion. Alternative D may attract the environmentalist amongst us (those interested in the marine and ecological issues), but no one really comes to Governors Island for those reasons. It's fine to dedicate some of the island's facilities to the Harbor School and similar harbor-related programs, but to try and make the harbor the over-arching theme and attraction of the island is in effect forcing a square peg into a round hole. That's my two-cents. If I had to rank the Alternatives from most to least attractive, I would rank them as follows: (1) Alternative C, (2) Alternative B, (3) Alternative D and finally (4) Alternative A. | | | | |
| 6298 | I'm Ronald Wilson. I have put together something in writing, but with only three minutes it doesn't make sense to read them to a resident of the island. I go to the island once every other week. I've heard the comments. Had I known there would be that many -- (unintelligible) -- we would have brought more friends. But the reality is, there are a lot of military brass who live on that island like I did. I also lived in New York, I lived in New York longer than I lived on that island. | 03/10/2009 | | WILSON , Ronald . | No |

| | So I just want to point out that the history of the island is more than just a history of war. There are families who lived there just now, there are families on military bases around this country whose mothers and fathers are off fighting in Afghanistan, finding in Iraq. Whether you support the war or not, those families have kids, they go to school, they jump rope, they are just like your kids. And they have a history on that island. And we say the history of Governors Island, that's what we're talking about. We're not talking about cannons, we're not talking the wars. There is a history on that island, and we hope that all these folks are included. And having read all -- Mark Twain, who said listen to all advice, a wise man listens to all advice, a fool beats it off. I read through each and every one of these plans, quite frankly, I have to agree with Ken that Plan B which tries to put Governors Island in a context of a harbor, takes it out of context of history by taking Ellis Island, trying to make it a harbor ride island. The reality is, Governors Island has a history and I think that Plan B safeguards that history more than any of the plans, but at the same time, government money, taxpayer money is not going to be get the -- (unintelligible) -- to support of us to all go out there and use the island. So I think there has to be some venture made to reach out to private capital as well as to nonprofits, I don't think necessarily think it's the Globe Theater. I wish there were more ideas being thrown out here. I wish there were people pushing for advocating other plans. But the realty is, there's more than just Fort Jay and more than just Castle Williams on Governors Island. There are a lot of other buildings, and I hope that there is private capital out there that will help, you know, ease the strain. But from what I've seen so far, plan B is definitely the plan I think that preserves the history of those people who served their country and whose families lived there, who are just as thrilled as anybody else in this room. And I hope that their history is protected and if that plan is not there, then I'll have to revise my thinking on plan B. Thank you. | | | | |

Also, I know London, I can tell you how much support of the Globe Theater, I can tell you how in London, how that theater is appreciated by the whole community. And there's one thing I would like to point out for the Shakespeare Globe proposal, is that buildings do have different uses over time. Castle Williams is a wonderful building. It has a military history, has a history at a Coast Guard facility and I think that as a resident, I think what's needed most for lower Manhattan is actually to go somewhere and enjoy with your family or your kids, go somewhere where you can enjoy theater. I think it's desperately needed and I think it will still remain a Monument. It's a different function. It's what I can see from the proposal, it's done in a very sensitive way, and I'm trying to put that into action. Thank you. | 03/10/2008 | | WURZEL , Michael . | No |

As the nation's principal conservation agency, the Department of the Interior has responsibility for most of our nationally owned public lands and natural and cultural resources. This includes fostering wise use of our land and water resources, protecting our fish and wildlife, preserving the environmental and cultural values of our national parks and historical places, and providing for the enjoyment of life through outdoor recreation. The department assesses our energy and mineral resources and works to ensure that their development is in the best interests of all our people. The department also promotes the goals of the Take Pride in America campaign by encouraging stewardship and responsibility for the public lands and promoting citizen participation in their care. The department also has a major responsibility for American Indian reservation communities and for people who live in island territories under the administration of the United States of America.

The National Park Service cares for special places saved by the American people so that all may experience our heritage.
